Mill Valley Youth, 17, Admits Part In Slaying

Boys Intended Only To Frighten Grocer

By WAT TAKESHITA

A 17-year-old Mill Valley boy freely admitted today his part in a Reno holdup-murder in which the victim's wife had been held in jail four months as a suspect.

But the boy, Jeffrey Kelsey Connell of 65 Marguerite Avenue, declared he is too ashamed to face his divorced mother and father.

Young Connell was arrested last night by Police Chief Dan Terzich and Officer William Walsh of Mill Valley, after two other youths arrested in Reno confessed the March 3 murder of Jack Griffis, Reno grocer. Mrs. Belva Griffis, 50, had been held since the slaying because of discrepancies in her story, but was freed after a lie test last week.

The Mill Valley youth was held in Marin County Jail today awaiting arrival of Reno authorities.

In Reno, police held Richard Worrell, 16, who allegedly fired the fatal shot, and Chester Blum, 17, driver of the getaway car.

'SCARE HIM'

"I didn't have any place to stay and nothing to eat, so we needed money," Connell told reporters today. "We decided to get in this store and scare him (grocer Griffis) just enough to get the money."

"He (Worrell) wasn't supposed to use the gun," Connell repeated several times; "just fire a warning shot and if the guy didn't believe us, we were supposed to run."

But it did not work out according to plan, Connell explained

"The guy didn't believe us. So he (Worrell) shot over his head and hit a liquor bottle. The guy ducked and went for the phone. So he shot a second time. I don't know if it was on purpose or not. Then we ran out, went to the car and split up."

Connell said they agreed not to tell anyone, and he kept his promise until last night, when police called him over the telephone to come to the police station.

WANTED TO TELL

Connell said the killing bothered him, and many times he wanted to tell members of his family. They include his mother, Mrs. Betty Buckles, who manages an employment agency, two brothers aged 20 and 9, and his grandmother.

"I wanted to tell, but then I figured I'd be crucifying the other two."

Connell said he had read about the grocer's wife being accused of her husband's murder, but he was certain she would be cleared eventually.

Reno Police Chief William Broadhead said Mrs. Griffis was in the back room of the store when the shooting occurred. She called police and was arrested because her story did not check out, Broadhead said.

Connell said he and Worrell wore nylon stockings as masks and wore gloves.

Connell was born in Ross and has lived in Marin all his life. He quit Tamalpais High School last year as a junior because "I had no money for clothes and my mother couldn't afford to give me the money."

He said he worked in service stations in Mill Valley and got enough money to buy a 1951 car.

Marinite's Kin, 10, Air Crash Victim

The 10-year-old nephew of a San Rafael woman was among the 17 persons who lost their lives in the crash of a United Air Lines jetliner in Denver yesterday.

John Jason Gale Jr. was returning to Torrance, Los Angeles County, from a visit in Omaha with his father's World War II flying buddy. The boy's mother is a sister of Mrs. John W. Merryman of 100 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, and the boy was a frequent visitor at the Merryman home. He had been scheduled to pay another visit there this summer.

The father's buddy, Lee, Sloan, an Omaha prize fight promoter, was accompanying "Buzzie" Gale home aboard the airliner. Sloan was hospitalized in good condition, and his lightweight boxer, Lou Cappelano, was reported slightly burned. Sloan and Cappelano were en route to Los Angeles for a fight scheduled tomorrow. Details of mishap are printed on page 4 of today's Independent-Journal.

CURRICULUM STUDY GROUP NOMINATIONS

San Rafael Board Of Education Sets Aug. 8 As Deadline

The San Rafael Board of Education will receive nominations until Aug. 8 for members of a citizen-school committee to study elementary and high school curriculums.

The board last night accepted the general outline for setting up the committee submitted by Acting Supt. Raymond J. Simpson. It calls for 15 members— nine citizens, four teachers, and the elementary and high school curriculum directors.

The 15-member limit is not hard and fast, though, school board members said. It might be contracted or expanded slightly.

Nominations should be addressed to the San Rafael schools office at 215 Mission Avenue, the board ruled. They may be telephoned, but if so, a form to be signed will be sent to the nominee to make sure of his (or her) willingness to serve.

Richard V. Bettini, brother of school board member C. Paul Bettini, objected vigorously to inclusion of the curriculum directors (Mildred B. Barnard in the elementary district and Ralph K. Hansen in the high school district) on the committee. He said "setting them up to judge their own program."

Paul Bettini said he felt the two should serve on the committee without vote. Board members John M. Bagshaw and Rex Silvernale insisted the curriculum heads should be full voting members. Chairman Roderick P. Martinelli said he felt it made no difference whether they voted, so allowed himself to be counted with the majority. Board member Bella Aaron is out of town until Aug. 10.

Simpson's proposal called for the school board to name the teacher members of the committee. Charles G. Strom of 260 Linden Lane, spokesman for a group that sparked the curriculum study demand, urged that instead they be named by the teachers.

Silvernale proposed that the San Rafael Teachers Assn. (a unit of the California Teachers Assn.) submit a list of nominees from among whom the board could choose. Warren Ewing, a San Rafael High School teacher, objected that not all faculty members belong to the San Rafael Teachers Assn. some being members of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers. "If you ask the faculty to suggest, instead of SRTA, that would suit me better," said Ewing.

Chairman Martinelli resolved the difficulty by suggesting that both SRTA and the American Federation of Teachers chapter submit nominee lists.

Simpson's outline proposed that the citizen members of the committee "be selected by the board from nominations by individuals, either nominating themselves or others, and by various civic organizations who may wish to do so."

Hub City Names New Controller

Alfred C. Kaeppel, 49, of Terra Linda, business manager of the federal prison at Alcatraz for 12 years, will be San Anselmo's new city controller, beginning in September.

Kaeppel, who replaces Mrs. Anne Grant, will receive starting pay of $505 per month. Mrs. Grant, who had been getting $613, was demoted to accounting clerk at $456 last April.

Kaeppel's appointment was announced last night by City Administrator Douglas Flautt. City councilmen had interviewed four finalists Monday night and agreed on Kaeppel, subject to Flautt's checking of the man's background to make sure he was qualified in all respects.

Flautt said 11 had orignally taken the examination for city controller, and five had passed. One dropped out, leaving four for interviews Monday. Flautt said Kaeppel scored highest in the examinations.

Kaeppel announced he will not be able to take the San Anselmo job until Sept. 17, when his retirement from the federal service becomes effective.

He has been with the federal prisons since 1935, except for military service from 1934 to 1946. He started at Federal Detention Headquarters in New Orleans, then went to the U. S. Bureau of Prisons in Washington, D. C., where he was auditor and purchasing agent. Since July of 1949, he has been business manager at Alcatraz. He lives with his wife at 226 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Kaeppel was graduated from Loyola University in 1940 with a music degree. He received his master's degree from San Francisco State College in 1955 in education, with his principal field in music.

$97,000 Fire Razes Novato Super Market

A $97,000 fire destroyed the Food Fair market in Novato last night and endangered nearby homes and stores.

The spectacular fire shot flames and sparks into the night sky. Novato firemen battled the blaze for six hours, returning to their stations at 4:30 a.m. today.

The market is located on Highway 101 frontage road in downtown Novato.

Firemen, standing in front of the main fire house a block away from the market, saw smoke pouring from a vent in the roof at 10:20 p.m.

About the same time, Barbara Blaga, daughter of market operator Dan Blaga of 1113 East Court Street (also around the corner), heard the store's burglar alarm and saw smoke. She told her father, who ran to the market. Firemen were already there.

Cavallero said the fire started in the attic of the structure, possibly from a short-circuit in a lighting fixture. Flames broke through the roof, then dropped through into the center of the store.

As the roof collapsed, a large crowd of spectators watched flames shoot into the sky.

Two firemen were injured. Cavallero suffered a cut finger and had several stitches taken. Reno Pronzini stepped on a nail while cleaning up the debris and was treated at Novato hospital.

Blaga, who has operated the market about seven months (it was built about eight years ago), estimated damage to merchandise at $32,000 and to equipment, $40,000. Cavallero estimated damage to the building, a total loss, was $25,000. The total damage might go even higher than the $97,000 estimate, the chief said.

The building is owned by Alex Peters of Petaluma.

No Legal Obstacle To Free Rent For County

A belated county counsel opinion yesterday found no legal obstacle in the way of accepting Albert P. Tognoli's offer to restore the county administrator's former offices rent-free.

But, as Chairman William D. Fusselman promptly pointed out, the board had rejected the offer the previous day.

At that time Fusselman said that Tognoli's offer "could never be enforced in court if he wanted to bill us later"

McGuire, however, said: "He would be making a gift to a public entity. It would be legally acceptable, though we ought to have the matter reduced to writing."

Supervisor Walter R. Castro had seized the opportunity of a call by McGuire on another matter, pointing out that Tognoli had suggested consultation of county counsel but it had'nt been done.

"We voted 3 to 2 not to accept," Fusselman put in.

"Why did you vote not to accept?" inquired Mrs. Guy Chetelat, 1133 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, who was in the audience as observer for the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

"You don't have to say why you vote," Fusselman retorted. "This thing has been blown up, or down, out of all proportion. The matter can be worked out more efficiently in other ways, I'm confident."

Soon afterward Administrator Alan Bruce drew his first assignment from the board since his recent one-week "vacation" before validation of petition signatures overturned his discharge of a month previous.

Bruce, along with Asst. Auditor Michael Mitchell and civic center architect Aaron Green, was instructed to make a survey of furniture as preliminary to the start of moves to the center.

A letter from McGuire suggested that he be authorized to review the situation of leases of quarters rented for county offices, due to be in the first wave of transfers to the center.

On motion of Castro this was approved.

Cool Breezes Finally Get Here At Last

Those cooling sea breezes came at last today.

It was a comfortable 70 degrees at noon atop the San Rafael City Hall, a location where the thermometer read 85 at the same hour yesterday.

A thundershower broke out shortly after noon today in Bolinas.

Temperatures that climbed into three figures for the third successive day yesterday were expected to be nearly down to July normals this afternoon.

There was moisture in the breezes, too. Humidity, which fell to 8 per cent yesterday at the county fire station in Woodacre, was up to 48 per cent, at the same location today.

San Anselmo and Novato had Marin's highest temperature yesterday, both recording 106. It was 105 in Woodacre, 104 in Larkspur, 98 in Fairfax, 93 in San Rafael, 92 in Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley, 84 in Belvedere and 82 in Sausalito.

Hearings Get Started On Appraisal Appeals

Hearings of county appraisal appeals started this morning before the Marin County Board of Supervisors sitting as a board of equalization, with an initial list of 27 appeals.

Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said the number of appeals was "very low." He said most complaints have already been handled by his staff at regional appeal meetings.

No "test" appeal had yet appeared today to further Supervisor J. Walter Blair's suggestion that South Marin property owners contest the cycle appraisal program on legal grounds.

Of seven cases scheduled for hearing today, only one originated in Blair's district.

Chairman William D. Fusselman said that normally all cases will be taken under consideration with no immediate result announced, save in instances where assessor and property owner have come to agreement.

The property owner need not be present but he must give written notice as to whom he has appointed to represent him, it was decided.

County Clerk George S. Jones mentioned that he intends to appear in one case as representative of a New York woman owner of Marin property.

Appeals may be filed until 5 p.m., July 24, it was decided, in spite of the fact that July 24 has been set as the end of hearings. Fusselman pointed out that not only has the state granted extension of hearings but the privilege of continuing until business has been finished is inherent.

An 'Angry' Slayer Dies In Prison Gas Chamber

"Angry rather than remorseful" was San Quentin Prison officials' description of how Marion James Linden went to his death in the prison gas chamber at 10 a.m. today.

The killer of a Los Angeles policeman mumbled curses and resisted as he was led to the chamber and strapped down.

No news reporter was present at the execution. This cut the number of those present below the legally required 12 witnesses and it was necessary to go out and ask prison staff members to attend.

Linden had lost several appeals and the last was turned down by the state supreme court only Monday.

It was written by Linden himself, badly spelled and with confusing grammar, and it asked a new trial on technical grounds. Earlier appeals contended he was insane when tried.

Linden, 47, was convicted of shooting Officer Leo Wise in 1957.

Linden discharged his lawyer during his trial and begged the court to sentence him to death. Recently Linden had told prison officials he "was anxious to get it over with."

A dozen protestors against capital punishment gathered as usual, under Quaker auspices, by the main gate of the prison and remained quietly until after the execution.

SPEED BOATS SHOULD SLOW ON STREETS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Those heavy rains that have flooded Houston streets left something besides mud in their wake.

The wake — from motorboats speeding along the flooded streets — came up for talk after a city council meeting yesterday.

"We've got to do something about regulating the speed of motorboats in the streets in flooded areas," councilman Frank Mann said. "The wake of the boats is washing right into homes that otherwise would have been spared."

A bystander, objecting, joined the discussion, saying: "After all, how can people ski behind a slow moving boat."

Surprise Storm Hits Southland

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A surprise thunderstorm boomed across coastal Southern California this morning. Its lightning bolts killed one man, injured two others, and knocked out communications.

Robert Michael Lindeburg, 45, of Redondo Beach was killed while fishing near the lifeguard station at Redondo Beach.

Police said there were reports that two other persons were injured in the Redondo Beach area.

North Bay Span Gets New Manager

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Richmond-San Rafael Bridge has a new boss.

Walter F. Johnson, senior bridge engineer for the state division of highways, has been named to succeed A. P. Simatovich, in charge since the span was opened in September, 1956, has left state service.

McKeage Again PUC President

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Everett C. McKeage of Sleepy Hollow was re-elected president of the State Public Utilities Commission today for his third consecutive one-year term.

McKeage was appointed to the PUC by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Feb. 10, 1959.

SPEED BOATS SHOULD SLOW ON STREETS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Those heavy rains that have flooded Houston streets left something besides mud in their wake.

The wake — from motorboats speeding along the flooded streets — came up for talk after a city council meeting yesterday.

"We've got to do something about regulating the speed of motorboats in the streets in flooded areas," councilman Frank Mann said. "The wake of the boats is washing right into homes that otherwise would have been spared."

A bystander, objecting, joined the discussion, saying: "After all, how can people ski behind a slow moving boat."

Sausalito Council Gets Road Problem

The Sausalito City Council decided last night the city may have to alter plans for a north-south road proposed as main traffic artery for Marinship.

Mayor Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said cost of construction and difficulty in obtaining some of the right of way from the Army Corps of Engineers, may force re-routing of the road shown on the Marinship master plan.

The council discussed the matter for an hour and 20 minutes, then continued the hearing until its meeting next Tuesday. It also continued a request by Heath Land Co. for variance from restriction of more than one building on a lot to construct 90 units of apartments, and an appeal by E. A. Lando from planning commission denial of a use permit to allow him to expand his plant.

The north-south road was adopted by the council in January under a master plan to run roughly along the spur of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

City Engineer Thomas L. Hunter told the council the road beyond the southern boundary of Kurt Heath's property might cost from five to 10 times the normal road construction cost. He said costly soil tests would have to be made and it would entail "putting fill on fill."

Ehrlich urged a meeting of the council, Hunter, Heath and Lando. It was decided that Ehrlich, councilman Howard Sievers and Hunter would discuss the situation in committee.

Heath stressed to the council the danger of changing plans now, saying, "there are many millions of dollars ready to be poured into Marinship but, if you start to juggle it around again, you spoil all the efforts of the past two years."

A squabble arose over request for a use permit by Harry Lerner of Greenbrae to build six apartments in the 100 block of Harrison Avenue.

Lerner claims he owns a portion of the street and said he will remove two old buildings now on the street and deed one-half of the roperty to the city for further street widening. He asked, in return, the city permit him to use one-half of the "disputed area" for offstreet parking. He said he would take the matter to court if necessary.

City Atty. John B. Ehlen said the city has claimed to own the portion of the street but there would be a question whether the city would win the case in court. The council voted 5-0 to deny Lerner's request.

City Clerk Amelie Smith, calling it a "grab" of city property, read a letter from Harrison Street residents who urged the request be denied. They said, if Lerner is ollowed to do this the city should also offer the oportunity to other property owners along Harrison.

The council also:

1. Agreed to invite Mayor Gustavo Lorca Rojas of Vina Del Mar, Chile, Sausalito's sister city, to visit Sausalito. He is now in Miami.
2. Directed City Manager Charles A. Brown to check into the noise made by an auxiliary pump used for fire protection at Crescent Avenue near Main Street.
3. Continued to Aug. 1 an appeal from a planning commission denial of a use permit for Marian Frick to construct a hotel at Bulkley Avenue and Reade Lane.
4. Approved a use permit for two apartment buildings and one commercial building in Marinship to be built by Russell H. Papenhausen.

San Anselmo Postpones Action On Street Lights

San Anselmo opened bids on new street lights last night but decided not to accept any of the bids for at least another two weeks.

For one thing, the price difference was considerable. General Electric and Westinghouse models, similar to the conventional freeway lamps on extended metal arms, will cost $2,999 and $2,701 respectively. The cost includes 11 light poles and lamps. Two other makes, Feerless and Line Materials, would cost $5,193 and $4,572 respectively. These are fancier lamps sitting directly on top of the poles.

The city council decided to give competitors a chance to install other lamp designs in town on a trial basis.

A Line Materials lamp now stands in front of the city hall. The G.E. model is in front of Kaufmann's Store.

In other actions last night, the San Anselmo City Council:

1. Approved duplex zoning for 27 Merced Avenue and 40 Ash Avenue, and apartment zoning for 65 and 67 Ross Avenue.
2. Approved a street light at Ridge Road and Parkside Court, but denied a light in front of 80 Lincoln Avenue.
3. Decided to meet with the Sleepy Hollow Fire District board at 8 p.m. next Tuesday to discuss the annual renewal of contact for fire protection.
4. Bought a new Harley-Davidson motorcycle for the police department for $2,404.
5. Decided to shop around further for coolers for the administration office and the police office. Administrator Douglas Flautt said the cost estimate was $600 for two coolers, but proposals thus far came in at more than $700.
6. Approved an $85 divider screen in the administrator's office.
7. Set 8 o'clock tonight as the time to sit as a board of equalization to hear protests on property tax assessments. After the equalization hearing, the council will meet with Mozart Kaufmann to set up an advisory committee for downtown redevelopment. Kaufmann has been chosen temporary chairman of the committee.
8. Set up the position of street sweeper operator ($395 to $481 salary range) and authorized a promotional examination for the job. Also authorized the addition of a laborer in the street department.

Sawmills in the United States last year produced 34,737,000,000 board feet of lumber.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Weather Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A hurricane hunting weather satellite was fired into orbit today to gather information on the origin, development and movement of the monster tropical storms.

A 92-foot Thor Delta rocket carrying a 285-pound Tiros III satellite roared aloft from Cape Canaveral at 5:25 a.m. (EST).

Nearly two hours later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the three-stage vehicle had successfully placed the weather-eye in orbit about 400 miles above the earth.

Casablanca Air Crash

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) —A giant Czechoslovak airliner en route to West Africa struck a power line and exploded today while preparing to land at Casablanca. Officials said 71 of the 72 persons aboard were killed.

Airport officials at Zurich, the plane's only stop after it left Prague, said the departure manifest showed 64 passengers and eight crew members and that all apparently had boarded at Prague. Presumably there were no Americans aboard.

Yuri Gets Medal

MANCHESTER, England (AP) —Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin, who was once a foundry worker, received a gold medal from British amalgamated foundry workers today and was made the union's honorary member No. 1.

"Although I'm doing a different job now, I'm still a foundry worker at heart," the 27-year-old cosmonaut said.

Gagarin arrived in London Tuesday to attend the Soviet trade fair.

Anti-Discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight major defense contractors were ready today to give the government their pledge that they will bar racial discrimination against workers in their plants.

President Kennedy planned to officiate at a White House ceremony marking these new milestones in federal efforts to assure equal job opportunity in companies doing business with the government.

Eichmann Admission

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A trembling, white-faced Adolf Eichmann admitted today he shipped thousands of Jews to their deaths during World II.

His hands trembling and his voice almost a whisper, he claimed he did not do it on his own initiative but "as a tool in the hands of powers stronger than myself."

"I would not order deportations on my own initiative nor stop them on my own initiative. To my regret I was a tool in the hands of powers stronger than myself."

Eruption Subsides

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Easing pressure lowered the lava fountains of erupting Halemaumau volcano today, and one scientist said he would be surprised if the outburst lasted another 24 hours.

The display of spouting lava was reduced to one big fountain on the southwest rift, and pumice piled up along the famed Kilauea crater to within 75 feet of the rim.

The volcano erupted Monday night, with three distinct fountains shooting high into the sky.

Navy's First Plane

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Aviation was turned back 50 years yesterday as a replica of the U.S. Navy's first airplane—a Curtiss seaplane built in 1911 — flew from San Deigo Bay.

The biplane replica was put together at North Island Naval Air Station from parts constructed by members of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences. It will be an attraction at the Navy's 50th anniversary show Aug. 19-20.

Byrd Vote Victory

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Byrd organization ticket, led by Albertis S. Harrison Jr. for governor, scored a sweep in Tuesday's state Democratic primary in Virginia.

The durable conservative faction of Sen. Harry F. Byrd that has dominated the state's political scene for more than 30 years convincingly turned back the most determined challenge it has faced in modern times.

Marriage License

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Elizabeth Ann Crosby, 27-year-old daughter of bandleader Bob Crosby, and her author fiance H. Frank Jones took out a marriage license Tuesday.

The couple made headlines a few months ago when Jones was found unconscious in his apartment from sleeping pills a few hours after he and Miss Crosby had announced their engagement.

Martinez Fire

MARTINEZ (AP) — About 100 fighters aided by bulldozers last night controlled a grass fire that burned 1,000 acres in Franklin Canyon between Martinez and Rodeo.

The fire destroyed two Southern Pacific Co. garages. Several hundred head of cattle were saved when the firemen cut fences so they could flee the flames.

Missile Alarm

POINT ARGUELLO (AP) — Midas III, first missile-alarm satellite aimed to fly over Russia, finally roared into the sky today after a series of disappointing delays.

It lifted off through thick fog at this Navy space base and newsmen watching from 10,000 feet away could not see it rise. Launch time was 8:12 a.m.

Liz Taylor Off

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor flew off today to the Soviet capital with her husband, Eddie Fisher, a hairdresser and four movie officials.

Miss Taylor will attend a film festival now under way in the Soviet capital.

'HULK' OF A PROBLEM

Supervisors Declare War On Bay Nautical Housing

Marin County supervisors yesterday declared war on "numerous crafts and hulks . . . being used or being prepared for use as housing" and encroaching on county-owned underwater streets in the Sausalito-Richardson Bay area.

County Counsel E. Warren Maguire was instructed to prepare an ordinance to be basis for action.

Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham said he had surveyed the Arques shipyard area after complaint by the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce, and found craft "in all stages of disrepair" clustered about two wharves. All told, he said, there are 38 structures now in use as dwellings as soon to be.

Some, he said, are owned by Arques and being rented or sold on contract; some are owned by occupants who pay for moorage; some are rented from others. Brigham provided detailed information including 19 structures encroaching on county streets and 24 others not encroaching.

The legislation, said Brigham, should provide that no vessel could be occupied as a dwelling subsequet to one week after entering the county, without an occupancy permit showing health department approval and conformity with building and housing codes. Minimum spacing should be ordered. Any vessels grounded or supported should "immediately conform in all respects to the building code," said Brigham.

Terra Linda Asks Mutual Aid Fire Pact

Terra Linda's Fire Chief Richard Flaherty is authorized to seek a reciprocal agreement for his men to fight fires in homes in San Rafael that lie closer to his department than to the San Rafael Fire Department.

The Terra Linda Community Services District last night told Flaherty to write Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael to seek the agreement.

Last Saturday Flaherty and 14 volunteers extinguished a blaze at the home of James A. Maddox, at 599 Montecillo Road, in an "island" not within either the services district or San Rafael.

Flaherty told the district he hoped to present specifications in five or six months for a fourth fire truck.

The district authorized $1,000 for pipe for irrigating landscaping along Freitas Parkway.

The board voted to appear before the Las Gallinas Sanitary District board to request that it spend funds to clean waste and rubbish from Terra Linda areas.

The 1960-61 financial report by director Richard Less was delayed until the July 25 meeting.

Search For Pilot's Body Is Called Off

The Navy today called off the search for the body of Lt. Cmdr. Jack E. Smith of San Rafael, Navy Reserve pilot lost in the crash of a jet plane in San Francisco Bay on Saturday.

The Navy had reported after preliminary investigation that the body was in the plane wreckage but later this proved untrue.

Lt. Cmdr. Theodore W. Martin of San Lorenzo parachuted from the falling plane into the bay and survived.

New Shopping Center Approved For Novato

Final aproval was given last night to an immediate start on the Novato Fair Shoping Center.

The Novato City Council gave the project approval after attorney King Crosno agreed for the center that the easterly 50 feet of its land on Diablo Avenue will be left unimproved until the state says what drainage will be needed by expansion of U. S. Highway 101.

The council also discussed at length the projected two-lane auto bridge which will lead to the center. B. D. Dobbs of the Marin County Planning Commission said there would be a six-foot lane for pedestrians on the bridge.

Crosno said: "Safeway has been ready for some time to send bulldozers in there immediately. First we had to design a Marin County drainage system."

In other actions last night the Novato Council:

1. Adopted an ordinance rezoning the Hanna property, deleting provisions regarding density.
2. Voted to take up at its July 25 meeting a street improvement plan by Director of Public Works Charles A. Joseph.
3. Delayed until July 25 action on a State Division of Highways request for approval of overhead signs on U.S. 101 Freeway south of Ignacio Wye.
4. Agreed to receive details in writing on a plan described in a 45-minute appearance by attorney James Morton, of Wilson, Kirkbride, Harzfeld and Wallace of San Mateo, for an assessment district to provide improvements of Bahia del Norte, a subdivision being developed by Andrew Talbott. Near the end of Morton's monologue, Mayor Wayne Womack cut in: "First a resolution must be drawn for our city attorney . . . You lost me after the first half hour . . ." We are taking no formal action."
5. Gave final approval to annexation of Bugeia Lane No. 1, consisting of 1,600 acres of Bahia del Norte.
6. Approved by resolution renewal of the master service agreement with the county, utilizing the county's planning commission staff and public works department.
7. Approved end of the fiscal year claims of $15,937.77.

Jr. Museum Doing Well

The Junior Museum of Marin, which started off the year with $27 in the bank and debts totaling $14,500, now has bank deposits of $3,853 and has reduced its indebtedness to $5,714.69.

This was reported to directors last night by P. F. Kendall of San Rafael, the museum's treasurer.

In addition, a 16-foot circular pool for the museum's female baby seal, "Easter Seal," will be completed within 10 days. And the board authorized immediate start in a $1,500 chain-link fence surrounding the museum property on Albert Park Lane, to eliminate vandalism that has plagued the museum. The fence is being contributed by four anonymous donors, said David N. Plant, museum president, so will place no drain on the treasury.

Each of the Aircraft Carrier Ranger's two anchor chains could lift the combined weight of four railroad steam locomotives.

Hilarita Sanitary Problem Meeting

Bert Klahn, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, will meet with directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District at 7:30 p.m. today to discuss whether the authority will resubmit an offer to obtain sanitary services for Hilarita Housing project.

The authority authorized Monday the withdrawal of Hilarita from the district following the sanitary district's rejection of the authority's $60,000 offer to tie in. But on Monday night the Tiburon Sanitary District board changed its mind and asked the housing authority to resubmit its offer.

President Kennedy planned to officiate at a White House ceremony marking these new milestones in federal efforts to assure equal job opportunity in companies doing business with the government.

Eichmann Admission

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A trembling, white-faced Adolf Eichmann admitted today he shipped thousands of Jews to their deaths during World II.

His hands trembling and his voice almost a whisper, he claimed he did not do it on his own initiative but "as a tool in the hands of powers stronger than myself."

"I would not order deportations on my own initiative nor stop them on my own initiative. To my regret I was a tool in the hands of powers stronger than myself."

Eruption Subsides

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Easing pressure lowered the lava fountains of erupting Halemaumau volcano today, and one scientist said he would be surprised if the outburst lasted another 24 hours.

The display of spouting lava was reduced to one big fountain on the southwest rift, and pumice piled up along the famed Kilauea crater to within 75 feet of the rim.

The volcano erupted Monday night, with three distinct fountains shooting high into the sky.

Navy's First Plane

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Aviation was turned back 50 years yesterday as a replica of the U.S. Navy's first airplane—a Curtiss seaplane built in 1911 — flew from San Deigo Bay.

The biplane replica was put together at North Island Naval Air Station from parts constructed by members of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences. It will be an attraction at the Navy's 50th anniversary show Aug. 19-20.

Byrd Vote Victory

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Byrd organization ticket, led by Albertis S. Harrison Jr. for governor, scored a sweep in Tuesday's state Democratic primary in Virginia.

The durable conservative faction of Sen. Harry F. Byrd that has dominated the state's political scene for more than 30 years convincingly turned back the most determined challenge it has faced in modern times.

Marriage License

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Elizabeth Ann Crosby, 27-year-old daughter of bandleader Bob Crosby, and her author fiance H. Frank Jones took out a marriage license Tuesday.

The couple made headlines a few months ago when Jones was found unconscious in his apartment from sleeping pills a few hours after he and Miss Crosby had announced their engagement.

Martinez Fire

MARTINEZ (AP) — About 100 fighters aided by bulldozers last night controlled a grass fire that burned 1,000 acres in Franklin Canyon between Martinez and Rodeo.

The fire destroyed two Southern Pacific Co. garages. Several hundred head of cattle were saved when the firemen cut fences so they could flee the flames.

Missile Alarm

POINT ARGUELLO (AP) — Midas III, first missile-alarm satellite aimed to fly over Russia, finally roared into the sky today after a series of disappointing delays.

It lifted off through thick fog at this Navy space base and newsmen watching from 10,000 feet away could not see it rise. Launch time was 8:12 a.m.

Liz Taylor Off

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor flew off today to the Soviet capital with her husband, Eddie Fisher, a hairdresser and four movie officials.

Miss Taylor will attend a film festival now under way in the Soviet capital.

'HULK' OF A PROBLEM

Supervisors Declare War On Bay Nautical Housing

Marin County supervisors yesterday declared war on "numerous crafts and hulks . . . being used or being prepared for use as housing" and encroaching on county-owned underwater streets in the Sausalito-Richardson Bay area.

County Counsel E. Warren Maguire was instructed to prepare an ordinance to be basis for action.

Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham said he had surveyed the Arques shipyard area after complaint by the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce, and found craft "in all stages of disrepair" clustered about two wharves. All told, he said, there are 38 structures now in use as dwellings as soon to be.

Some, he said, are owned by Arques and being rented or sold on contract; some are owned by occupants who pay for moorage; some are rented from others. Brigham provided detailed information including 19 structures encroaching on county streets and 24 others not encroaching.

The legislation, said Brigham, should provide that no vessel could be occupied as a dwelling subsequet to one week after entering the county, without an occupancy permit showing health department approval and conformity with building and housing codes. Minimum spacing should be ordered. Any vessels grounded or supported should "immediately conform in all respects to the building code," said Brigham.

Terra Linda Asks Mutual Aid Fire Pact

Terra Linda's Fire Chief Richard Flaherty is authorized to seek a reciprocal agreement for his men to fight fires in homes in San Rafael that lie closer to his department than to the San Rafael Fire Department.

The Terra Linda Community Services District last night told Flaherty to write Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael to seek the agreement.

Last Saturday Flaherty and 14 volunteers extinguished a blaze at the home of James A. Maddox, at 599 Montecillo Road, in an "island" not within either the services district or San Rafael.

Flaherty told the district he hoped to present specifications in five or six months for a fourth fire truck.

The district authorized $1,000 for pipe for irrigating landscaping along Freitas Parkway.

The board voted to appear before the Las Gallinas Sanitary District board to request that it spend funds to clean waste and rubbish from Terra Linda areas.

The 1960-61 financial report by director Richard Less was delayed until the July 25 meeting.

Search For Pilot's Body Is Called Off

The Navy today called off the search for the body of Lt. Cmdr. Jack E. Smith of San Rafael, Navy Reserve pilot lost in the crash of a jet plane in San Francisco Bay on Saturday.

The Navy had reported after preliminary investigation that the body was in the plane wreckage but later this proved untrue.

Lt. Cmdr. Theodore W. Martin of San Lorenzo parachuted from the falling plane into the bay and survived.

New Shopping Center Approved For Novato

Final aproval was given last night to an immediate start on the Novato Fair Shoping Center.

The Novato City Council gave the project approval after attorney King Crosno agreed for the center that the easterly 50 feet of its land on Diablo Avenue will be left unimproved until the state says what drainage will be needed by expansion of U. S. Highway 101.

The council also discussed at length the projected two-lane auto bridge which will lead to the center. B. D. Dobbs of the Marin County Planning Commission said there would be a six-foot lane for pedestrians on the bridge.

Crosno said: "Safeway has been ready for some time to send bulldozers in there immediately. First we had to design a Marin County drainage system."

In other actions last night the Novato Council:

1. Adopted an ordinance rezoning the Hanna property, deleting provisions regarding density.
2. Voted to take up at its July 25 meeting a street improvement plan by Director of Public Works Charles A. Joseph.
3. Delayed until July 25 action on a State Division of Highways request for approval of overhead signs on U.S. 101 Freeway south of Ignacio Wye.
4. Agreed to receive details in writing on a plan described in a 45-minute appearance by attorney James Morton, of Wilson, Kirkbride, Harzfeld and Wallace of San Mateo, for an assessment district to provide improvements of Bahia del Norte, a subdivision being developed by Andrew Talbott. Near the end of Morton's monologue, Mayor Wayne Womack cut in: "First a resolution must be drawn for our city attorney . . . You lost me after the first half hour . . . We are taking no formal action."
5. Gave final approval to annexation of Bugeia Lane No. 1, consisting of 1,600 acres of Bahia del Norte.
6. Approved by resolution renewal of the master service agreement with the county, utilizing the county's planning commission staff and public works department.
7. Approved end of the fiscal year claims of $15,937.77.

Jr. Museum Doing Well

The Junior Museum of Marin, which started off the year with $27 in the bank and debts totaling $14,500, now has bank deposits of $3,853 and has reduced its indebtedness to $5,714.69.

This was reported to directors last night by P. F. Kendall of San Rafael, the museum's treasurer.

In addition, a 16-foot circular pool for the museum's female baby seal, "Easter Seal," will be completed within 10 days. And the board authorized immediate start in a $1,500 chain-link fence surrounding the museum property on Albert Park Lane, to eliminate vandalism that has plagued the museum. The fence is being contributed by four anonymous donors, said David N. Plant, museum president, so will place no drain on the treasury.

Each of the Aircraft Carrier Ranger's two anchor chains could lift the combined weight of four railroad steam locomotives.

Hilarita Sanitary Problem Meeting

Bert Klahn, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, will meet with directors of the Tiburon Sanitary District at 7:30 p.m. today to discuss whether the authority will resubmit an offer to obtain sanitary services for Hilarita Housing project.

The authority authorized Monday the withdrawal of Hilarita from the district following the sanitary district's rejection of the authority's $60,000 offer to tie in. But on Monday night the Tiburon Sanitary District board changed its mind and asked the housing authority to resubmit its offer.

Surprize-Foto Candidate #45

CLICK! MEET CAROL E. WOLCOTT, 127 Le Verne, Mill Valley. She reached for a Borden product and was photographed by surprize. She's eligible to become the "Borden Belle!"

It's all Elsie's doing! Borden's Elsie is searching for the "Borden Belle" of this area. So she has a Surprize Photographer roaming the stores.

Suppose you're reaching for Borden's Starlac—the heart-of-milk that dissolves completely in water and costs as little as 8¢ a quart. So wonderful, so thrifty for drinking and cooking. You may be photographed as you reach for Starlac.

Your picture may be in the paper and may be drawn at Elsie's Daisy Drawing. You may be the "Borden Belle," owner of Elsie's famous Camera-Trailer. Reach for anything Borden's, and see!

AIR TRAGEDY—A city surveying truck is shown smashed beneath a United Airlines DC8 jet transport which crashed while landing yesterday at Stapleton Field in Denver. The plane burst into flames and at least 17 persons perished. (AP Wirephoto)

At Least 17 Perished In Denver Jet Smashup

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The torn skeleton of a United Air Lines DC8 jet lay crumpled on Denver's Stapleton Airfield today as an investigation began into the crash landing and fire in which at least 17 persons perished.

There were 122 aboard the jet when it touched down, veered suddenly off the runway and then burst into flames shortly before noon yesterday, and more than 100 escaped — several of them unhurt.

Sixteen of the known dead, including four members of one family, were passengers on the plane; 50 passengers were hospitalized and 56 persons, including the entire crew of seven, escaped serious injury.

One of those killed was not in the plane. He was Henry Blom, 52, a civil engineer whose survey truck on the field was crushed by the DC8 when it swerved off the runway.

The plane was en route from Philadelphia to Los Angeles with stops in Chicago, Omaha and Denver. United said 94 passengers boarded in Omaha, five in Chicago and 10 in Philadelphia. At least four unticketed infants were aboard and the airline said there may have been more.

Passengers said they were alerted by the pilot, Capt. John Grosso of Denver, 10 minutes before the crash that something was the matter with the hydraulics system, an important element in the brakes.

There was a strange mixture of quiet calm and anguished desperation when the plane touched the runway, then skidded off, crossed 100 yards of field and burst into huge billows of flame when the landing gear crumpled on the protruding strip of a concrete taxiway being constructed nearby.

John Bryne of Omaha, a surviving passenger, escaped from the jetliner unaware that anyone had been hurt. But Lyle Oreck, 66, said it was "horrible, horrible."

Bryne said a stewardess sitting alongside him got the door open immediately and helped passengers escape.

A vice president of Stanley Aviation Corp. of Denver, J. L. Ryan, said, "I just happened to look out of the personnel office when I saw the plane come in.

"It hit the runway and did an 180-degree turn. Dirt rose at least 70 feet high, then I saw flames soar above the dirt."

When the landing gear of the lane buckled under the impact of striking the protruding new taxiway, the right wing dipped and one of the wing tanks was ripped off, igniting the jet fuel.

In moments the left side of the sleek plane was burning with such intensity that it melted metal. The left midsection of the plane, from the rear of the pilot's compartment to the tail, was ripped and burned open.

The president of Continental Air Lines, Robert Six, witnessed the crash. "It was a rotten piece of luck," he said. "If the plane hadn't piled into that concrete abutment it would have ridden out the landing without incident."

Suffers Deep Cuts

John Rostoni, 14, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital after he suffered deep cuts on his right arm when a small, metal carbon dioxide tube he was playing with exploded at his home. He is a son of Mrs. Patty Rostoni of 162 Belvedere Street, San Rafael.

Recreation Meeting

Trustees of the Strawberry Recreation District will hold a special meeting at 8:30 p.m. today at 104 Belvedere Drive to discuss recreation site development.

Larkspur Planners

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night studied six sections of the proposed zoning ordinance. Only minor changing in wording were proposed by the commissioners.

San Anselmo Street: Widen Or One-Way?

San Anselmo City Council last night authorized a $200 widening of narrow Camino de Herrera, with an offer by property owner James Allen to donate a strip of his property for the widening.

However, councilmen hedged when Allen pointed out that some kind of bulkheading will have to be provided by the city after it cuts away a part of his hill for the project.

Councilmen decided that city crews should widen the street as much as feasible without creating a bulkheading problem. If bulkheads prove necessary, the city engineer should report back to the council before proceeding.

Allen lives at 29 Camino de Herrera. He and his wife want a one-way street because the road is so narrow that two cars cannot pass. Mrs. Allen declared that cars are now using her driveway to let other cars pass, and her children are constantly in danger of being hit while playing in their own driveway.

Allen offered two feet or more of his property to widen the street. He pointed out his land is steep, and any cutting would require a retaining wall. When councilmen said they cannot pay for the retaining wall, Allen indicated he would then hold Mayor Carleton G. Little to his word.

"Two meetings ago, you said if I got all the signatures in the block, you'd make it a one-way street," Allen reminded the mayor. Allen indicated he would obtain the signatures to get the one-way street.

"Did I promise that?" wondered Mayor Little.

"Yes, you did," said Mr. and Mrs. Allen.

The mayor decided enough had been said on the subject and proceeded with the next item of business.

Final Budget For Sausalito Gets Approval

A final 1961-62 budget of $444,820 was approved last night by the Sausalito City Council.

After 28 hours of work on the budget by the council, Mayor Philip E. Ehrlich Jr. said, "Ladies and gentlemen, this is an historic moment."

The budget is $51,085 more than this year's. The proposed tax rate is $1.25 per $100 assessed valution, the same as last year.

Increases include one added fireman, two fulltime librarians replacing two part-time assistants, and increases of $10,000 in the Planning Commission budget and $4,950 in the library budget. There is $12,500 budgeted for a corporation yard and $9,000 for park land to replace the Christ Church Playground which will have to be given up.

In the budget are pay increases amounting to $9,440 and an increase in funds for police protection of $13,234.

The tax rate breaks down to 76 and one-half cents general, 12 cents park, 13 and one-half cents cents library and 23 cents retirement. This compares with last year's figures of 85 cents general, 10 cents park, 10 cents library and 20 cents retirement.

Blaze Is Raging Out Of Control

MADERA (AP)—A forest fire raging out of control near Yosemite National Park has killed at least two persons, burned out two towns and sent hundreds fleeing for safety.

OBITUARIES

R. S. WARREN

Raymond Sanford Warren, 67, died at his Kentfield home last night. He had been suffering from a heart condition for several years.

Warren was a retired superintendent for Security Oil Co. and did much of his work in the company's Southern California oil fields. He had been retired at his Kentfield home at 1118 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard for the past nine years.

Before that he and his wife, Mrs. Belle Marie Warren, were residents of Fillmore, Ventura County.

Warren was born in Maine and was a veteran of World War I. His son, named after him was killed aboard the USS Chevalier in the South Pacific during World War II.

Warren senior was a member of the American Legion Post in Fillmore.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Opal Marie Miller of Santa Venetia, a brother and three sisters, Avon E. Warren, Mrs. Edna Barden and Mrs. Lola Maxwell of Fillmore and Mrs. Emma Lockwood of Hornbrook, Siskiyou County.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Buriel will be in Fillmore. The family requests that tributes be contributed to the Heart Fund.

LUCY G. SCOTT

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy G. Scott of Inverness will be held Friday at 10 a.m. at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Scott, 84, died Monday in a Bay Area hospital after a long illness. She was a native of California. Her husband, Stuart C. Scott, died two years ago.

She is survived by three sons, James S. Scott of Sacramento; Army Capt. Paul A. Scott, and Roger L. Scott of Tahoe Village; and seven daughters, Mrs. Melva M. Cash, Mrs. Jean Fassio, Mrs. Marie Scully and Mrs. Mildred West of San Francisco, Mrs. Betty MClure of Inverness, Mrs. Marjorie Lane of Roseville, Placer County, and Mrs. Barbara O'Donnell of Bijou, El Dorado County. She is also survived by 26 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

JAMES W. MATHEWS

James W. Matthews, 67, retired restaurant manager, died in a local hospital yesterday after a long illness. His home was at 18 Council Crest, Corte Madera.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's mortuary, Fifth Avenue and E Street, San Rafael. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Survivors include his wife, Isabel G. Matthews, and one son, J. E. Matthews of Corte Madera.

Texas born, Matthews served overseas during World War I. He was a restaurant manager for 35 years in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and had lived in Corte Madera for the past seven years.

MRS. J. F. BAUMANN

Mrs. Catherine A. Baumann, 84, a longtime resident of Marin County, died early today in a local hospital after a short illness.

For the past five weeks, Mrs. Baumann had resided at the home of her son, Adolph Bauman, at 301 Vendola Drive in Santa Venetia. Before that she lived for about 30 years in Fairfax.

Her husband, Joseph F. Baumann, died in 1935. He was a master machinist for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Mrs. Baumann came to San Francisco from her native Switzerland when she was 21.

She is survived by two sons, Adolph and Joseph Baumann of San Francisco, and three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Warner of Wichita, Kan.; Mrs. Robert Barnett of Renton, Wash., and Mrs. Harold Williams of Walnut Creek.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 11:30 a.m. at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

D. W. SOLOMON

Funeral services for Daniel W. Solomon, 41, of Marin City, who died Saturday in an Oakland hospital from injuries suffered in an auto accident on the Nimitz Freeway, will be held Friday.

Services will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. at the Gantner-Felder-Kenny Chapel in San Francisco.

The fatal accident happened last Wednesday night when Solomon's westbound auto struck the abutment at the Bay Bridge and Berkeley interchange and rolled across three lanes, striking another car.

Driver of the other car, John Boland, 25, of Oakland, was not injured. Both drivers were alone in their cars.

Solomon was a longshoreman in San Francisco and lived at Building C-38, apartment 299, Marin City.

He leaves behind his wife, Eddy Mae; a daughter, Shirley, 15; and a son, David, 7. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Sandra Vaughn of Colorado.

He was a member of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen Union, Local 10, in San Francisco. He was also a veteran of World War II, serving with the Army in Germany. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Tiburon Chamber Backs Railroad

The Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution yesterday to present to the Interstate Commerce Commission its support of the Southern Pacific Co.'s assuming control of Western Pacific Railroad.

C. H. Reeves, representing Southern Pacific Co., told the chamber the merger would bring about a saving for the lines.

Stanton Theis, deputy information officer for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, showed a set of slides, with narration, called "1970 is Tomorrow," and answered questions on the proposed system.

Chamber member Stuart Burt announced that, tentatively, the chamber will hold its September meeting on Angel Island.

School Finance Picture Rosier Than Expected

The San Rafael Board of Education, with its financial outlook a bit rosier than anticipated, will hold hearings Aug. 1 on high school and elementary school district budgets for fiscal 1962.

Acting Supt. Raymond J. Simpson reported the board last night that the elementary school district wound up its fiscal year June 30 with a balance on hand of $201,508. The closing balance for the high school district has not yet been worked out, he said.

Budgets of $2,097,260 for the elementary school district and $1,832,000 for the high school district were based on an expected five per cent increase in assessed valuation.

Assessment totals submitted by County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, however, show a 10.1 per cent increase in assessed valuation of the high school district, Simpson reported. The increase in the elementary district is 5.6 per cent. These are aside from the public utility assessments, which are made by the state.

It isn't all gain, said Simpson. The districts will lose some state funds because of the additional local taxation.

The board of education also:

1. Approved purchase of a driver-training trailer unit from Roger Wertz Co. at $6,915. The unit will be used at both San Rafael and Terra Linda High Schools. Simpson said it would free a classroom at San Rafael High.

2. Received a letter from J. P. Sinclair, assistant state highway engineer, advising that the question of a pedestrian overpass above Highway 101 for children attending Coleman School will be considered when plans for the freeway are submitted to the San Rafael City Council.

3. Granted Harold Tracy, Davidson School teacher, a year's leave of absence to teach at an overseas Navy dependent school, and approved hiring of eight new teachers.

4. Appointed board member Rex Silvernale and architect Carl F. Gromme to meet with City Public Works Director Norris Rawles and City Engineer Dominic Selmi regarding the city's plans for drainage improvements which would drain a ditch running past the new Laurel Dell Intermediate School, now under construction.

5. Granted an across-the-board raise of $120 per year to clerks employed on a six-hour day. Simpson said this would be an 11-cent per hour raise. A $200 raise granted other non-teaching employees figures out at 10½ to 11½ cents per hour, he said.

6. Learned from Asst. Principal Alfred N. Thomson that an attempt to place all San Rafael High School athletic programs in the final period of the school day has been abandoned.

7. Received an opinion from County Counsel E. Warren McGuire that school districts cannot pay crossing guards from district funds, although they may contribute half to the cost of traffic signals.

8. Was told by Simpson that he is getting bids for additional school buses to be rented on contract basis, as preferable to buying more buses.

9. Set for July 25 at 5:30 p.m. a meeting to open bids on a new furnace for two San Rafael High School buildings.

Foreign Students Stop Off On American Tour

By FRED WYATT

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott E. Stinchcomb Jr. of Marinwood this week opened their doors for the second year to four young men from foreign lands and two from this country on a tour of the United States sponsored by the Ambassadors of Friendship.

Guests at the Stinchcomb home at 634 Miller Creek Road since Sunday night and scheduled to leave tomorrow are:

Ravinder Kumar Batra, 20, of Punjab, India, a Punjab University graduate now studying pre-engineering at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn.;

David Blair Knight, 20, of Chicago born in Scotland, educated at John McGlashon College, New Zealand, and Madras College, Scotland, who plans to teach geography;

Bert Campbell, 18, of Luxembourg, now studying at Hamline University, St. Paul, for a career in journalism or politics;

Gerhardt Wessler, 28, of Germany, who after studying at the University at Basel, Switzerland, is attending McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago for a career in the ministry;

Dick Johanson, 20, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, tour leader, a student at Macalester College, who intends to teach or become a missionary;

Lyle Dykstra, 21, co-tour leader, of Madelia, Minn., also a Macalester student, who plans to attend a seminary.

The young men began their tour June 13 in St. Paul and will wind up by returning there July 30.

Ambassadors for Friendship, now in its second year, was conceived in the spring of 1959 by Harry Morgan when he was student body president of Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N. J. His program now is headquartered at Macalester College.

The idea, Morgan said, is not "to sell or persuade our visitors from abroad, but rather to give them an opportunity to see for themselves what this country is about."

Accordingly the ambassadors of 1960 and 1961 have toured the nation, staying in homes across the country.

Batra, from India, was the most voluble of the Stinchcomb's visitors. He was watching the all-tar baseball game on television when the interview was begun.

"We don't have anything like this in India," he said. "Unless you count cricket. Though I prefer cricket."

"That's 'cause you know cricket," piped up Knight, the native of Scotland, who belonged to the Bagpipe Band at St. Andrews.

"Yes," said one of the Americans. "You like it because you know it. It is completely relative to culture."

Not all the talk was on this high level of respective cultures. The young men for the moment, with the rest of humanity in Marin, were suffering from the heat.

"Half our brains are evaporated," said Campbell of Luxembourg.

All the visitors expressed pleasure over the party given for them Monday evening at the Stinchcomb home. About 40 persons were present.

"They were very much interested in life in our countries," said Batra of India. He continued:

"You know we don't nave the caste system any more. Well, it exists but is much improved. Now the question of getting good jobs depends on qualifications rather than whether one is rich."

He said the untouchable class ceased in the late 1940s after India obtained her independence from Britain.

The young men on Monday visited Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Soule Steel in San Francisco.

Yesterday they visited the Army Corps of Engineers project in Sausalito, the Independent-Journal, and the Santa Rosa Circle C Ranch. Today they were to tour San Francisco.

Before reaching the Bay Area, they visited Houston, Mo.; Little Rock, Ark.; New Orleans, and several Texas cities. They camped in the Grand Canyon and saw Los Angeles.

From here their tour includes Oregon and Washington and a tour of Yellowstone National Park—all in all more in a few weeks than some natives see in a lifetime.

The six young men are members of one of five like groups touring the United States, each group in a car loaned by American Motors When these five groups have finished their tour, five other groups of students will start a second 1961 tour.

College Board Meeting Set

Reorganization of the district board and consideration of the 1961-62 budget are major items for a meeting of the College of Marin board at 8 p.m. tomorrow in room 61 of the arts building on the college campus.

Because a quorum was not present at the organizational meeting on July 1, that meeting was adjourned until tomorrow, to be combined with the regular July meeting.

The board will discuss expansion plans for the college. The architect's report on it is scheduled for the July 27 meeting. The college is faced with expanding the present campus on adjoining lands, operating a second campus, or moving the college to a new location.

Other items to come before the board include the annual reports of the principal of adult education, the co-ordinator of publications, and on the college credit program for high school seniors, student enrollment and the all-day faculty conference to be held Sept. 9.

A landmark of the San Francisco Bay Area is the 275-foot tower of the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace at Stanford University, named for former President Herbert Hoover.

George Washington was a renowned host. He once compared his home, Mount Vernon, to "a well resorted tavern, as scarcely any strangers who are going from north to south, or from south to north, do not spend a day or two at it.

Tiburon Chamber Backs Railroad

The Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution yesterday to present to the Interstate Commerce Commission its support of the Southern Pacific Co.'s assuming control of Western Pacific Railroad.

C. H. Reeves, representing Southern Pacific Co., told the chamber the merger would bring about a saving for the lines.

Stanton Theis, deputy information officer for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, showed a set of slides, with narration, called "1970 is Tomorrow," and answered questions on the proposed system.

Chamber member Stuart Burt announced that, tentatively, the chamber will hold its September meeting on Angel Island.

Vista Point Mobile Lunch Counter Test Case Under Consideration

Should a mobile lunch counter be allowed to sell food at Vista Point on the Marin County side of Golden Gate Bridge?

This question will be answered this week by Marin Municipal Court Judge Harold J. Haley, who took the case under submission yesterday after an argument by both sides.

On one side is Ralph Johnson of 216 Marin Street, San Rafael, operator of Ralph's Lunchette. He is represented by attorney Samuel W. Gardiner.

On the other side is the State of California, which charges that Johnson violated the Streets and Highways Code, which forbids vending on state highways. Deputy Dist. Atty. Hadden Roth appeared as prosecutor for the state.

Both Gardiner and Roth agree that vending is prohibited on state highways. But Gardiner contends that Vista Point is not part of the state highway, which carries traffic. It is a stopping place for tourists to rest and enjoy the view, says Gardiner.

"Mr. Johnson found that large numbers of people come there without lunch," says Gardiner. "People there want the service."

Roth contended that Vista Point is owned by the State Division of Highways and comes under the law covering highways.

Judge Haley said he would decide in a day or two.

Johnson told newsmen he has been contacting various agencies for months to get a permit to sell lunches at Vista Point. He failed to get any clear-cut answer on whether he could park his vending machine there.

Then, at the suggestion of a county official, he decided he would sell lunches there anyway, be arrested, and let the courts decide as a test case.

His son Terrance Johnson, 22, drove the lunchette to Vista Point on May 13 and was promptly charged with the violation.

Start Search For Enemies Of Mistletoe

An intensive search for insects that attack dwarf mistletoe, No. 1 parasitic enemy of coniferous trees in California, is being conducted in the northeastern United States and eastern Canada this summer by a University of California scientist.

Dr. Carl B. Huffaker, entomologist in the Department of Biological Control at Albany, hopes to find insects that could be introduced into California to gain control of dwarf mistletoe.

He is being assisted in the hunt by Junji Hamai, laboratory technician at Albany.

Dwarf mistletoe is a small, leafless plant that causes millions of dollars of damage annually to red and white fir, sugar and ponderosa pine, and Douglas fir.

The parasite attacks the trunks and branches of these trees.

Infections of the trunk may initiate cankers that reduce market value, increase breakage due to severe weather conditions, provide an entry for rot fungi, or encourage insect onslaughts.

Dwarf mistletoe also may kill branches, retarding growth and sometimes leading to the death of trees.

It reduces the growth rate and quality of older trees, but seldom destroys them.

Heavily infected young trees are usually rendered worthless as Christmas trees and eventually die.

Mothers, read how to tame ferocious appetites:

There's just as much nourishment in a pound of Armour Star Franks as there is in a pound of steak

Discover why: the mighty Armour Star Frankfurter is made of tender, select cuts of fresh beef and pork. And mildly seasoned. That is why an Armour Star Frank is all good food, food a body can use. With all the good food values of steak or any other fresh red meat. Be assured, that meat that tastes this good to children is good for them, too. Isn't this cheering information?

ALL PRETTIED UP FOR THE NEEDLE

The poodle, Jacque, is two years older than his owner, two-year-old Laurel Mengarelli, who keeps him on leash in line of dogs awaiting rabies shots at the Marin County Health Department. Two hundred and forty-one dogs were vaccinated yesterday in the opening clinic of a series to be conducted by the health department. Next clinic will be Monday from 2 to 4 p.m., at Lynwood School in Novato, followed by another on Tuesday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the health department at Fourth Street and Grand Avenue, San Rafael. (Independent-Journal photo)

Education Board Promises To Go Slowly In Hiring Superintendent

The San Rafael Board of Education won't act precipitately in hiring a new superintendent of schools, chairman Roderick P. Martinelli assured parents at last night's board meeting.

It is possible, said Martinelli, that the board may appoint a screening committee to assist it in choosing a successor to Supt. Frank L. Lucas, who has resigned because of ill health. Luca's assistant, Raymond J. Simpson, is meanwhile acting superintendent.

By letter and in person, several residents asked the board to move slowly in making the selection.

Mrs. Frederick Owen of 200 Forbes Avenue said, "Please take a good look before hiring a new superintendent."

Richard V. Bettini of 242 Locust Avenue urged appointing a screening committee of educators and citizens. He cited the work of such a committee in helping to select a superintendent for Reed School District.

Mrs. Barbara Deutsch of 39 Kinross Drive in a letter declared that the board should make "a philosophic decision" as to what kind of education San Rafael schools should offer before choosing a superintendent. Wrote Mrs. Deutsch:

"If one takes the position that man's nature is essentially animal . . . the case for basic education falls to the ground," and courses in trades and crafts should make up the curriculum. But if man's nature is more than merely animal, "the case for basic education will stand."

Martinelli reported the board had met once with Dr. Theodore Reller of University of California, named to assist it in the search for a superintendent, and will meet with him again. Reller, said Martinelli, is merely advising the board on how to go about getting the best man, and will not participate in the actual choice.

City-County Planning Study Urged

An appeal for Marin County Supervisors to study existing county-city planning set-ups and help achieve more uniformity was made yesterday by Felix M. Warburg, president of the Marin County Planning Council and its delegate from the county planning commission.

Warburg gave each supervisor a "composite chart" showing the facts on the various city planning groups together with with the county organization and indicating variations on many points including number of members, terms of service and frequency of meetings, as well as thei. regulations.

He said the cities are also receiving these charts in hope that next fall the council will have suggestions to work on.

The people in those areas have indicated how they want to live," countered Chairman William D. Fusselman. "You won't bring unification because people have stayed outside for the very reason of the differences."

Terra Linda High May Yet Get Swimming Pool

One way or another, Terra Linda High School "may get a pool by next year," chairman Roderick P. Martinelli observed after reports on the confused status of the pool at last night's San Rafael Board of Education meeting.

First, the board heard a report from John Cassity, the inspector on the job, that no work has been done on the pool since June 28.

Then it heard a report from Carl F. Gromme, architect, that George McKay of San Francisco, Everett Murphy of San Rafael and Charles O. Jones of Kent Woodlands have been appointed as the arbitration committee to decide whether contractor Max Schenk of Fairfax or achitect Gromme is in the right in their dispute over the manner of the pool's construction.

The arbitrators have held one meeting and scheduled another, Gromme said.

Then, the board heard an opinion from County Counsel E. Warren McGuire that there is conflict between two code sections it is using in its dispute with Schenk. One provides for terminating the contract for non-performance and notifying the contractor's bonding company, which the board has done. The other provides for the arbitration setup, which it has also done.

McGuire's conclusion: By the deadline for the bonding company (General Insurance Co. of America) is called upon to take over building of the pool under the one provision, the arbitration board will probably have wound up its work with the other.

"We may get a pool by next year," sighed Martinelli.

Point Reyes Protane Tank Stalled Again By Objectors

Efforts by McPhail's Inc. of San Rafael to obtain an adjustment from Marin County supervisors for installation of a protane tank at Point Reyes Station was stalled for another two weeks to allow check on a legal point raised by objectors.

Attorney Bryan McCarthy, appearing on behalf of Capt. Adolph S. Oka of Point Reyes Station, said that the area is zonel M-1-H, an industrial and highway type of zoning, where "a specific thing not allowed is such storage as that of an illuminating and heating substance."

But it was brought out that Standard Oil and the De Carli interests of Petaluma already have such storage and Chairman William D. Fusselman asked "How did the other two get in?"

Nobody had a ready answer though it appeared the Standard Oil installation was about 40 years old. However, the De Carli installation was permitted onuly two years ago, said B. D. Dobbs of the county planning staff.

Supervisor George Ludy moved and obtained continuance to 2 p.m. July 25 for an investigation.

Civic Center Bids

New bids on steel and dry wall partitions for the civic center will be opened at 2 p.m. July 25, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday after accepting recommendation of architect Aaron Green to reject the only two bids qualifying Monday out of six. Others were late or defective.

New School System

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — One school system in this area will intensify scientific training by naming a coordinator of science and mathematics in grades one through 12. The new coordinator will take over the job in the Alfred I. du Pont School District in September, 1961.

Education Board Promises To Go Slowly In Hiring Superintendent

The San Rafael Board of Education won't act precipitately in hiring a new superintendent of schools, chairman Roderick P. Martinelli assured parents at last night's board meeting.

It is possible, said Martinelli, that the board may appoint a screening committee to assist it in choosing a successor to Supt. Frank L. Lucas, who has resigned because of ill health. Luca's assistant, Raymond J. Simpson, is meanwhile acting superintendent.

By letter and in person, several residents asked the board to move slowly in making the selection.

Mrs. Frederick Owen of 200 Forbes Avenue said, "Please take a good look before hiring a new superintendent."

Richard V. Bettini of 242 Locust Avenue urged appointing a screening committee of educators and citizens. He cited the work of such a committee in helping to select a superintendent for Reed School District.

Mrs. Barbara Deutsch of 39 Kinross Drive in a letter declared that the board should make "a philosophic decision" as to what kind of education San Rafael schools should offer before choosing a superintendent. Wrote Mrs. Deutsch:

"If one takes the position that man's nature is essentially animal . . . the case for basic education falls to the ground," and courses in trades and crafts should make up the curriculum. But if man's nature is more than merely animal, "the case for basic education will stand."

Sheriff Requests $50 Per Quarter Uniform Allowance For Deputies

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos yesterday asked Marin County supervisors to consider an allowance of $50 per quarter to be used by his deputies for buying uniforms.

Affected would be 52 of the 74 emloyees in the sheriff's department, he said.

Asst. Auditor Michael Mitchell said that Fire Chief Charles Reilley had asked similar consideration with provision of $50 a quarter to allow his men to wear fatigues, along with the shoulder patches to be given them gratis as result of action Monday.

"You can tell who are firemen without that," quipped Chairman William D. Fusselman. "Those who are fighting the fire are firemen,—those who are just getting in the way are not."

Both requests were referred to budget file for later consideration.

The supervisors also:

1. Authorized a public works department road-start program affecting eight roads including Marshall-Petaluma, Chileno Valley, Dillon Beach, Inverness and Inverness Park, Seahaven, Tomales and Sleepy Hollow.
2. Approved purchase of $1,270 worth of equipment to be used on janitorial work in county buildings by the Public Works Department.
3. Learned that the State Board of Equalization has granted extension of Marin County's equalization appeal hearings through July 24.
4. Were told by Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham that he wasn't interested in ordering a reversal of present traffic pattern on Mar East, Tiburon, but might act if a petition being circulated by realtor Elva Paske indicates substantial desire for a change.

Cancer Hits Animals

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Cancer, which ranks second only to heart disease as a killer of man, also takes its toll of animals. Officials at San Diego Zoo report that several bears and even snakes have fallen victims to the disease.

Snakes and fish have ears but these ears have no outside openings. The snakes and fish "hear" mostly through vibrations in the ground or water.

Commission's Power Extended

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Legislation extending the regulatory powers of the California Fish and Game Commission another two years was signed yesterday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The bill continues the commission's authority to set bag limits for hunting seasons as well.

Another measure signed by the governor will permit members of the armed forces to take fish and game when participating in organized survival training courses, regardless of other provisions of law.

New Fund Source For Sports Body

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Athletic Commission will no longer depend for its operating money on license fees from boxing and wrestling.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday signed a bill by Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, (D-San Francisco), providing for the commission from general tax funds, rather than a special fee-fund.

Brown said under the old set up a strict regulatory policy "might have the effect of drying up the commission's source of revenue."

HISS ACCUSER DEAD — Whitaker Chambers, 60, whose testimony convicted state department aide Alger Hiss of giving secrets to communist spies, died Sunday and was cremated secretly yesterday at Westminster, Md. (AP Wirephoto)

Whitaker Chambers Dies Of Heart Attack

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UPI) — Whittaker Chambers, whose life once was deeply entwined in communist secrecy, was secretly cremated yesterday.

The 60-year-old former senior editor of Time Magazine, whose testimony sent Alger Hiss to jail for perjury, died Sunday.

His family did not reveal his death until after the cremation. Chambers died at his farm home here after suffering a heart attack.

Yet what he and his pumpkin papers did lives after him — as Alger Hiss and Richard M. Nixon can testify.

It was a federal court jury that convicted Hiss, the brilliant young state department officer, of perjury for denying that he turned state department documents over to a Soviet spy apparatus. But it was Chamber's testimony that convinced the jury Hiss was lying.

And it was as head of the subcommittee probing the Hiss affair that Nixon, then a little-known member of the House of Representatives, was launched on the career that eventually carried him to the Republican nomination for resident.

Death came to Chambers after a series of heart attacks, the first in 1952 on the day that he cast his vote for Eisenhower for president. That attack hospitalized him, the last one killed him before a doctor could reach his bed. The family doctor was called at 6:30 a.m. Sunday, and by the time she arrived at his home a half-hour later, Chambers had died.

Funeral director John Myers Jr. announced the death yesterday at the request of the family. The family was "very secretive" about it and all Myers could say was that "it's all over." Cremation and private funeral services were held yesterday before the announcement.

The death certificate, which Myers said was signed by Dr. E. Reese Wilkens, attributed death to a "coronary occlusion. 12 hours." Myers said that it meant death came 12 hours after the attack.

San Clemente School Job Bids Opened

Herrero Brothers of Alameda, with a bid of $454,242, was apparent low bidder of eight for construction of the San Clemente School when bids were opened last night by the Larkspur School District Board.

Next low bidder was Joseph Bettancourt of South San Francisco at $459,650.

The state has set a limit of $456,317 for the building, said Supt. Vaughn D. Seidel.

The possibility of turning the Henry C. Hall School into a seventh and eighth grade school was discussed by the board. There are 15 rooms of seventh and eighth grade students in the district, according to Seidel, and only nine rooms in the Hall School, so change would require an addition to the Hall School.

Mrs. Charles Young of the Parent-Teacher Assn.; Alfred Kerr, president of the Teachers Assn., and Pauline Secor, board members, will study the possibility, the board decided.

The board raised the undistributed reserve in the district budget from $14,000 to $24,000, increasing the total preliminary budget to $785,019.

A request by Alcoholics Anonymous to use Neil Cummins School on Friday evenings, with kitchen privileges, was taken under advisement. The board voted to ask the organization to pick another night if possible, or to consider using a classroom without the kitchen.

New Moisturizing Colonaid Stops
CONSTIPATION DUE TO DEHYDRATION
without gag, bloat or gripe

Most constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that loses so much moisture that its contents become so dry they block the bowel; so shrunken they fail to stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE colon to action; to a normal urge to purge. And, of all laxatives, only new COLONAID possesses its great moisturizing capacity plus its stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so gentle it has been hospital-proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation overnight. So, for positive relief from constipation, get amazing, moisturizing new COLONAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

The family doctor was called at 6:30 a.m. Sunday, and by the time she arrived at his home a half-hour later, Chambers had died.

Funeral director John Myers Jr. announced the death yesterday at the request of the family. The family was "very secretive" about it and all Myers could say was that "it's all over." Cremation and private funeral services were held yesterday before the announcement.

The death certificate, which Myers said was signed by Dr. E. Reese Wilkens, attributed death to a "coronary occlusion. 12 hours." Myers said that it meant death came 12 hours after the attack.

San Clemente School Job Bids Opened

Herrero Brothers of Alameda, with a bid of $454,242, was apparent low bidder of eight for construction of the San Clemente School when bids were opened last night by the Larkspur School District Board.

Next low bidder was Joseph Bettancourt of South San Francisco at $459,650.

The state has set a limit of $456,317 for the building, said Supt. Vaughn D. Seidel.

The possibility of turning the Henry C. Hall School into a seventh and eighth grade school was discussed by the board. There are 15 rooms of seventh and eighth grade students in the district, according to Seidel, and only nine rooms in the Hall School, so change would require an addition to the Hall School.

Mrs. Charles Young of the Parent-Teacher Assn.; Alfred Kerr, president of the Teachers Assn., and Pauline Secor, board members, will study the possibility, the board decided.

The board raised the undistributed reserve in the district budget from $14,000 to $24,000, increasing the total preliminary budget to $785,019.

A request by Alcoholics Anonymous to use Neil Cummins School on Friday evenings, with kitchen privileges, was taken under advisement. The board voted to ask the organization to pick another night if possible, or to consider using a classroom without the kitchen.

New Moisturizing Colonaid Stops
CONSTIPATION DUE TO DEHYDRATION
without gag, bloat or gripe

Most constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that loses so much moisture that its contents become so dry they block the bowel; so shrunken they fail to stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE colon to action; to a normal urge to purge. And, of all laxatives, only new COLONAID possesses its great moisturizing capacity plus its stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so gentle it has been hospital-proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation overnight. So, for positive relief from constipation, get amazing, moisturizing new COLONAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

Ill Winds Whistle For Disgruntled A.L. All-Stars

Disgruntled American League All Stars, glad to have escaped wind-ravaged Candlestick Park without having been swept into San Francisco Bay, agreed today the playing conditions were the worst they had ever encountered.

Maybe their 5-4 10-inning defeat Tuesday by the Nationals had something to do with it.

Roger Maris, the New York muscle man who leads both majors with his 33 home runs, and Rocky Colavito, Detroit's fence-buster, were the most outspoken of the players who felt the main trouble with Candlestick Park was that it was built alongside the bay instead of under it. Even the triumphant National Leaguers had nothing but unkind words to say of the Giants' home grounds.

For seven innings, Candlestick Park's heralded wind was only a myth as far as the players and the 44,115 customers were concerned. Consequently, it was a contest of finesse, dignity and occasional brilliance. With Milwaukee's Warren Spahn perfect and Cincinnati's Bob Purkey near-perfect, and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente leading the attack against New York's Whitey Ford and Washington's Dick Donovan with a triple and sacrifice fly, the Nationals surged into a 2-0 lead after the fourth.

The Americans got one run back in the sixth when Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew slammed a home run, their first hit, off Giant southpaw Mike McCormick. That's the way things stood until the eighth when the wind, like a smirking villain waiting in the wings, suddenly came swirling from the bay to bedevil the pitchers, fielders, batters and even the umpires and turn an unspectacular but uniformly played game into a spectacle.

In the last three innings, the All Stars committed five of the game's seven errors. In addition, San Francisco pitcher Stu Miller was charged with a balk, New York catcher Elston Howard was guilty of a passed ball and Cincinnati outfielder Frank Robinson was hit by a pitch. As if that wasn't enough to make the record turnout in San Francisco wonder whether they were watching little instead of big leaguers, a National Leaguer (shortstop Maury Wills) was guilty of interfering with runner Nellie Fox in the ninth and Fox himself was accused of failing to touch third base on his way home on the same play. The latter claim was rejected by the umpires.

The National appeared to have the victory, fourth in a row over the American and fifth in the last six games, all wrapped up when pinch-hitter George Altman, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, hammered a home run off Boston's Mike Fornieles in the eighth. But in the ninth, with Pittsburgh's Roy Face pitching, the Americans tied it at 3-3 on a double by Norm Cash, singles by Al Kaline and Maris, and an error by third baseman Ken Boyer on Colavito's grounder.

The Nationals were guilty of two more errors in the inning but Kansas City's Dick Hoswer flied out, leaving three runners stranded.

By the 10th the swirling winds were blowing dust into the player's eyes and caps off their heads. Miller, with his flutterball doing tricks in the wind, fanned the first two batters but walked Fox. Kaline bounced to Boyer but the third baseman's throw sailed past first and Fox scored with the tie-breaking run with Kaline racing all the way to third.

Henry Aaron opened the bottom of the 10th with a single off Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm, reached second on a passed ball and scored when Willie Mays bounced a double over third baseman Howser's head. After Robinson was hit by a pitch, Clemente singled Willie home to end the game.

Manager Paul Richards of the American League said the winds made Candlestick Park one of the worst playing fields in the major leagues but he declined to use it as an alibi.

"The winds were just as bad for one club as for the other," he said.

Richards' players were not as charitable.

"If I had to play here all the time," growled Maris, "I'd quit. Sure we play for money but when the fun goes out of it, I don't see how it would be worth it."

Colavito just about echoed Maris' sentiments:

"If I'm ever traded to the Giants," he said, "I think I'd be the longest holdout in history."

Wilhelm, the losing pitcher, said the wind was constantly blowing on his back and affected his pitching.

Howard, who went behind the plate to catch Wilhelm, only to be charged with a passed ball when he failed to stop a floating pitch, remarked: "I've never seen anything like this. How can anybody play in a park like this?"

Even the National Leaguers had some uncomplimentary things to say about the wind.

"I thought a couple of pitches were coming back in my face," said Miller, who fanned four batters in the ninth and tenth to gain credit for the victory. "The wind was as bad as I've ever pitched in here. I'd start to wind up and the wind was blowing so hard it was hard to keep my balance on the pivot."

Cocky A.L. Stars Outclassed All The Way By Our National League

CONNOLLY

Needless to say that I wish all members of the 1961 All-Star game health and happiness for the remainder of the season. They're going to need it, if one can judge from the antics of the two teams that waded and waddled through 10 innings of rather shoddy playing.

If it hadn't been for the pitching of Warren Spahn and the relief work of Stu Miller in the late innings plus the scintillating playing, running and fielding of Willie Mays, the classic might have laid a large size egg.

But as it wound up, better than 44,000 baseball bugs went home happy because the National Leaguers fought back to come from behind and capture a 5 to 4 contest contest that was hot and cold in more ways than one.

Better than a quarter of a million dollars went to the players' pension fund, a tidy sum to be sure.

FOR EIGHT innings it was all one sided with the Nationals over-powering the Americans in pitching as well as in hitting. The American Leaguers seemed to strut even when they were in arrears And when the Nationals collapsed in the field the enemy snapped into it and tied the game up. And then came Stu Miller to overcome some heart-breaking bad breaks, recapture the imagination of the crowd, strictly a partisan group, who didn't care how much the Americans got whipped.

Along with Miller's pitching, the pinch hit of Hank Aaron in the 10th and Willie Mays' hitting and baserunning, the contest wove into the waning minutes of play on a spectacular basis, winding up with Our Willie scoring the winning run on Bob Clemente's second hit.

IF YOU detected anything at all in the All-Star game, you'll have to admit and observe that the American Leaguers were a cocky, confident group, pretty much on the swell head side.

Our own Mays stood out and above anybody on the playing field. He walked to the plate, jaunted to and from the outfield like a guy who loved to be playing. This was in direct contrast to the American League prima donnas.

Candlestick Park yesterday gave the visitors two looks. One was at the opening of the contest when the flags lay limpid and another at the close of the play, when the winds howled and whipped up a dust storm for sure.

PAUL RICHARDS and his boast that the American Leaguers would hit 80 homeruns more in the National League than they are now doing in the American League didn't hold up. And his big shots looked bad before the pitching of Warren Spahn, Bob Purkey and Stu Miller.

I'd say without hesitation that Mantle, Cash, Maris, Gentile, and Colavito were busts. Killebrew, the other homerun hitter, did his part with a solo smash. Otherwise it was the Nationals from wire to wire. And but for a few fielding lapses the game would have been over in a neat two hours.

IN ADDITION to Mays, the star performers for the Nationals were Clemente, Frank Robinson and George Altman, whose towering home run was the hardest hit of the day.

All-Star games may not prove anything for sure but take it from an old timer, yesterday's parade of American Leaguers convinced us that the National League is many steps ahead of the American. And may stay that way for a good spell.

As host club to the visitors, Owner Horace Stoneham and his aides proved western hospitality was at its best.

Palmer's 70 Trails By 2 In England

BIRKDALE, England (AP) — Ken Nagle, defending champion from Australia, Dai Reese of Wales and Harold Henning of South Africa shot 4-under-par 68s today and shared the early lead in the first round of the British Open Golf Championships.

Favored Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who lost by a stroke to Nagle last year, fired a 2-under-par 36-34—70 in the rain and mist. Gary Player, the masters champion from South Africa, had a 34-39—73. Norman Johnson, a little known Englishman, was one stroke behind the pace-setters with a 69.

Other American scores included Jack Isaacs, Langley Air Force Base, Va., veteran, 38-35—73; Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, 37-38—75; Paul Runyan, La Jolla, Calif., 39-36—75, and Joe Ezar, Miami, Fla., trickshot artist, 40-43—83.

CHAPMAN LATE

Dick Chapman Sr., of Pinehurst, N.C., the sixth American in the field of 108, was among the late starters.

Bob Charle of New Zealand, the qualifying medalist with 136, scored a 35-37—72. Peter Thorson, Australia's four-time winner of the British Open, scored a 39-36—75. Sebastian Miguel of Spain and Christy O'Connor of Ireland, were well up with 71's.

Nagle chipped and putted brilliantly for his 34-34—68.

Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team, toured the 6,844-yard, par 36-36—72 Birkdale course in 32-36—68.

Henning, wielding a hot center shafted putter, had 33-35.

Herb's Clinches Tie For Pennant

Herb's Sports Shops clinched at least tie for the championship of the San Anselmo Senior League last night by defeating Iacopi Meat Co. 13-3.

The win, Herb's sixth straight, gives the Sports a 9-3 won-lost record with three games remaining. Guasco Supers and Currie Construction each with 5-6 records could tie it up, but only by winning their remaining four games while Herb's lost all theirs.

Tomorrow at 6 p.m. Currie and Guasco will meet at Memorial Park.

Twelve of Herb's 13 runs last night came in the first three innings off nine hits and included a homer by Kirk Edison, a triple and double by Rory Riley, two doubles by Bob Harrison and a double by Bill Nacca.

Stengel Doubletalks On Banking, Baseball

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mr. Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, the double-talk flowing as smoothly as wine, takes the floor:

"Why should I go back to managing? Just so people can call me stupid? Well, I don't know.

"I like my job at the bank. But too many newsmen and photographers bother me asking what I do. I just tell them I stand in front of the vault because that's where the money is.

"Now about managing. That (Warren) Spahn came to the old Boston Braves just a couple of years too late for me. I had to manage seven different teams before I got to the Yankees and made a go of it. If I had had a guy like Spahn with me at Boston right from the start I'd been a success all the time.

BEST MANAGER

"Now the best manager in the American League is Paul Richards.

"Do you know that one time I could have bought Joe Cronin (American League president) for $3,000. He wasn't any good in the minors and nobody wanted him. Then look what happened as soon as he hit the majors. He finally was sold for something like a quarter of a million dollars.

"Now my wife has a bad back. Just got out of the braces. When I had a bad back she used to rub it for me. Now she expects me to rub her back.

"Well, sir. Anybody asks me if I like baseball must be crazy. I was in the game for 51 years—and I wouldn't have stayed there if I didn't like it.

"I managed Oakland in the Pacific Coast League before I went to the Yankees. We drew 630,000 one season—more than the Giants drew in their last year in New York. This San Francisco area is a great baseball center.

STILL THINKING

"Now, about returning to managing. I'm still thinking about it. I have been conferring with George Weiss (general manager of the embryo New York Mets of the National League) and I told him that I would think things over.

"Maybe by September I'll know. I made a decision after I was fired by the Yankees that I would consider a full year before making any decision. So maybe in September I'll know what I'll be doing.

"But I must say I like the banking business. If the newsmen and cameramen didn't bother me so much . . ."

Pardon us, Mr. Stengel. This is where we came in.

Stub To Retire

OAKLAND (UPI) — Stub Allison, former University of California football coach, will step down from his present job as employee relations chief at the Oakland Naval Supply Center Aug. 1.

200 ENTRIES IN JUNIOR NET TOURNEY

Approximately 200 entries have poured into the headquarters of the Marin County Junior Tennis Tournament which opens in San Raafel Friday, Director Joe Rodota announced last night after the entry deadline had been reached.

Rodota added, "It looks like we'll have a jam-packed schedule once again this year" as he and his committee were preparing the starting times for Friday's first round of spirited action. The tournament, co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Recreation Department, will fill five dates at San Rafael's Albert Park — Friday and Saturday and July 20-21-22.

Many of the county's outstanding young players will be vying for trophies and glory in the eighth annual event which features singles and doubles for boys and girls. Starting times and seedings will appear in tomorrow's Independent-Journal.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

LONDON—Terry Downes, 158¾, England, stopped Paul Pender, 159, Brookline, Mass., 9 (Downes wins world middleweight title as recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe).

SPOKANE, Wash — Von Clay, 177, Philadelphia, knocked out Kirk Barrow, 180, Spokane, 5.

HOUSTON, Tex. — Tod Terring, 205, Houston, knocked out Harold Carter, 205, Linden, N.J., 2.

BEAUMONT, Tex. — Al Villafara, 156, New Orleans, outpointed Earl Citizen, 152, Beaumont, 10.

POOR CANDLESTICK TAKES A BEATING!

The books today listed a new record of seven errors for the 30th All-Star game, but as far as the American League was concerned they missed the biggest goof of all — playing the game in San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

"Terrible," said Kansas City's Dick Howser.

"Brutal," said Cleveland's Johnny Temple.

"O/&-$*," said New York's Yogi Berra.

All three, along with the rest of their teammates who lost to the National League 5-4 in 10 innings yesterday, were complaining about the tricky, swirling winds at Candlestick Park that sprang up late in the game.

"Why that wind just blew (Stu) Miller off the mound when he balked in the ninth," said Chicago White Sox pitcher Billy Pierce.

Miller agreed.

"That wind just blew me over," said Stu, who nevertheless became the winning pitcher on hits by Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Roberto Clemente. "Sure I protested, but the umpire said it doesn't make any difference whether the wind blows you off the mound."

There were other areas of agreement between the two teams. Such as what kind of pitches were hit for the game's two home runs.

"Fast ball," said Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota about his pinch homer in the sixth off Mike McCormick of San Francisco.

"Fast ball," said McCormick.

"Outside curve," said George Altman of the Chicago Cubs of his homer, also in a pinch role, off Mike Fornieles of Boston in the eighth.

"Outside curve," said Fornieles of the same pitch.

The game was a success from the standpoint of attendance (a park record of 44,115 paid), finances $259,230.81) net) and weather (81 degrees for the first seven innings and a cooling breeze thereafter).

But it is a flop from an artistic standpoint (a record seven errors for both teams and a record five boots for the National League).

Stan Musial of St. Louis increased one of his All-Star records and lost his grip on another. His appearance in his 20th classic set a mark, but he lost a tie for most runs scored when Mays got his 12th and 13th. Mays was playing in his 10th All-Star game. Musial flied out.

Dixon Qualifies For Publinx Golf

Tom Dixon, employee of United Markets in San Rafael, put together rounds of 70 and 75 yesterday to qualify for match play in the National Public Links Golf Championship in Detroit.

His total card of 145 was 10 strokes behind the qualifying medalist Dick Sikes who fired rounds of 70 and 65. Match play in the gruelling tournament started today.

Dixon is a resident of San Francisco and a member of Harding Park.

And then came Stu Miller to overcome some heart-breaking bad breaks, recapture the imagination of the crowd, strictly a partisan group, who didn't care how much the Americans got whipped.

Along with Miller's pitching, the pinch hit of Hank Aaron in the 10th and Willie Mays' hitting and baserunning, the contest wove into the waning minutes of play on a spectacular basis, winding up with Our Willie scoring the winning run on Bob Clemente's second hit.

IF YOU detected anything at all in the All-Star game, you'll have to admit and observe that the American Leaguers were a cocky, confident group, pretty much on the swell head side.

Our own Mays stood out and above anybody on the playing field. He walked to the plate, jaunted to and from the outfield like a guy who loved to be playing. This was in direct contrast to the American League prima donnas.

Candlestick Park yesterday gave the visitors two looks. One was at the opening of the contest when the flags lay limpid and another at the close of the play, when the winds howled and whipped up a dust storm for sure.

PAUL RICHARDS and his boast that the American Leaguers would hit 80 homeruns more in the National League than they are now doing in the American League didn't hold up. And his big shots looked bad before the pitching of Warren Spahn, Bob Purkey and Stu Miller.

I'd say without hesitation that Mantle, Cash, Maris, Gentile, and Colavito were busts. Killebrew, the other homerun hitter, did his part with a solo smash. Otherwise it was the Nationals from wire to wire. And but for a few fielding lapses the game would have been over in a neat two hours.

IN ADDITION to Mays, the star performers for the Nationals were Clemente, Frank Robinson and George Altman, whose towering home run was the hardest hit of the day.

All-Star games may not prove anything for sure but take it from an old timer, yesterday's parade of American Leaguers convinced us that the National League is many steps ahead of the American. And may stay that way for a good spell.

As host club to the visitors, Owner Horace Stoneham and his aides proved western hospitality was at its best.

Palmer's 70 Trails By 2 In England

BIRKDALE, England (AP) — Ken Nagle, defending champion from Australia, Dai Reese of Wales and Harold Henning of South Africa shot 4-under-par 68s today and shared the early lead in the first round of the British Open Golf Championships.

Favored Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who lost by a stroke to Nagle last year, fired a 2-under-par 36-34—70 in the rain and mist. Gary Player, the masters champion from South Africa, had a 34-39—73. Norman Johnson, a little known Englishman, was one stroke behind the pace-setters with a 69.

Other American scores included Jack Isaacs, Langley Air Force Base, Va., veteran, 38-35—73; Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, 37-38—75; Paul Runyan, La Jolla, Calif., 39-36—75, and Joe Ezar, Miami, Fla., trickshot artist, 40-43—83.

CHAPMAN LATE

Dick Chapman Sr., of Pinehurst, N.C., the sixth American in the field of 108, was among the late starters.

Bob Charle of New Zealand, the qualifying medalist with 136, scored a 35-37—72. Peter Thorson, Australia's four-time winner of the British Open, scored a 39-36—75. Sebastian Miguel of Spain and Christy O'Connor of Ireland, were well up with 71's.

Nagle chipped and putted brilliantly for his 34-34—68.

Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team, toured the 6,844-yard, par 36-36—72 Birkdale course in 32-36—68.

Henning, wielding a hot center shafted putter, had 33-35.

Herb's Clinches Tie For Pennant

Herb's Sports Shops clinched at least tie for the championship of the San Anselmo Senior League last night by defeating Iacopi Meat Co. 13-3.

The win, Herb's sixth straight, gives the Sports a 9-3 won-lost record with three games remaining. Guasco Supers and Currie Construction each with 5-6 records could tie it up, but only by winning their remaining four games while Herb's lost all theirs.

Tomorrow at 6 p.m. Currie and Guasco will meet at Memorial Park.

Twelve of Herb's 13 runs last night came in the first three innings off nine hits and included a homer by Kirk Edison, a triple and double by Rory Riley, two doubles by Bob Harrison and a double by Bill Nacca.

Stengel Doubletalks On Banking, Baseball

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mr. Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, the double-talk flowing as smoothly as wine, takes the floor:

"Why should I go back to managing? Just so people can call me stupid? Well, I don't know.

"I like my job at the bank. But too many newsmen and photographers bother me asking what I do. I just tell them I stand in front of the vault because that's where the money is.

"Now about managing. That (Warren) Spahn came to the old Boston Braves just a couple of years too late for me. I had to manage seven different teams before I got to the Yankees and made a go of it. If I had had a guy like Spahn with me at Boston right from the start I'd been a success all the time.

BEST MANAGER

"Now the best manager in the American League is Paul Richards.

"Do you know that one time I could have bought Joe Cronin (American League president) for $3,000. He wasn't any good in the minors and nobody wanted him. Then look what happened as soon as he hit the majors. He finally was sold for something like a quarter of a million dollars.

"Now my wife has a bad back. Just got out of the braces. When I had a bad back she used to rub it for me. Now she expects me to rub her back.

"Well, sir. Anybody asks me if I like baseball must be crazy. I was in the game for 51 years—and I wouldn't have stayed there if I didn't like it.

"I managed Oakland in the Pacific Coast League before I went to the Yankees. We drew 630,000 one season—more than the Giants drew in their last year in New York. This San Francisco area is a great baseball center.

STILL THINKING

"Now, about returning to managing. I'm still thinking about it. I have been conferring with George Weiss (general manager of the embryo New York Mets of the National League) and I told him that I would think things over.

"Maybe by September I'll know. I made a decision after I was fired by the Yankees that I would consider a full year before making any decision. So maybe in September I'll know what I'll be doing.

"But I must say I like the banking business. If the newsmen and cameramen didn't bother me so much . . ."

Pardon us, Mr. Stengel. This is where we came in.

Stub To Retire

OAKLAND (UPI) — Stub Allison, former University of California football coach, will step down from his present job as employee relations chief at the Oakland Naval Supply Center Aug. 1.

200 ENTRIES IN JUNIOR NET TOURNEY

Approximately 200 entries have poured into the headquarters of the Marin County Junior Tennis Tournament which opens in San Raafel Friday, Director Joe Rodota announced last night after the entry deadline had been reached.

Rodota added, "It looks like we'll have a jam-packed schedule once again this year" as he and his committee were preparing the starting times for Friday's first round of spirited action. The tournament, co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Recreation Department, will fill five dates at San Rafael's Albert Park — Friday and Saturday and July 20-21-22.

Many of the county's outstanding young players will be vying for trophies and glory in the eighth annual event which features singles and doubles for boys and girls. Starting times and seedings will appear in tomorrow's Independent-Journal.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

LONDON—Terry Downes, 158¾, England, stopped Paul Pender, 159, Brookline, Mass., 9 (Downes wins world middleweight title as recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe).

SPOKANE, Wash — Von Clay, 177, Philadelphia, knocked out Kirk Barrow, 180, Spokane, 5.

HOUSTON, Tex. — Tod Terring, 205, Houston, knocked out Harold Carter, 205, Linden, N.J., 2.

BEAUMONT, Tex. — Al Villafara, 156, New Orleans, outpointed Earl Citizen, 152, Beaumont, 10.

POOR CANDLESTICK TAKES A BEATING!

The books today listed a new record of seven errors for the 30th All-Star game, but as far as the American League was concerned they missed the biggest goof of all — playing the game in San Francisco's Candlestick Park.

"Terrible," said Kansas City's Dick Howser.

"Brutal," said Cleveland's Johnny Temple.

"O/&-$*," said New York's Yogi Berra.

All three, along with the rest of their teammates who lost to the National League 5-4 in 10 innings yesterday, were complaining about the tricky, swirling winds at Candlestick Park that sprang up late in the game.

"Why that wind just blew (Stu) Miller off the mound when he balked in the ninth," said Chicago White Sox pitcher Billy Pierce.

Miller agreed.

"That wind just blew me over," said Stu, who nevertheless became the winning pitcher on hits by Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Roberto Clemente. "Sure I protested, but the umpire said it doesn't make any difference whether the wind blows you off the mound."

There were other areas of agreement between the two teams. Such as what kind of pitches were hit for the game's two home runs.

"Fast ball," said Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota about his pinch homer in the sixth off Mike McCormick of San Francisco.

"Fast ball," said McCormick.

"Outside curve," said George Altman of the Chicago Cubs of his homer, also in a pinch role, off Mike Fornieles of Boston in the eighth.

"Outside curve," said Fornieles of the same pitch.

The game was a success from the standpoint of attendance (a park record of 44,115 paid), finances $259,230.81) net) and weather (81 degrees for the first seven innings and a cooling breeze thereafter).

But it is a flop from an artistic standpoint (a record seven errors for both teams and a record five boots for the National League).

Stan Musial of St. Louis increased one of his All-Star records and lost his grip on another. His appearance in his 20th classic set a mark, but he lost a tie for most runs scored when Mays got his 12th and 13th. Mays was playing in his 10th All-Star game. Musial flied out.

Dixon Qualifies For Publinx Golf

Tom Dixon, employee of United Markets in San Rafael, put together rounds of 70 and 75 yesterday to qualify for match play in the National Public Links Golf Championship in Detroit.

His total card of 145 was 10 strokes behind the qualifying medalist Dick Sikes who fired rounds of 70 and 65. Match play in the gruelling tournament started today.

Dixon is a resident of San Francisco and a member of Harding Park.

Woman Scores 74 On Novato Links

Miss Melinda Magly of Sonoma fired a 74 yesterday to win low gross honors in the Indian Valley Women's Golf Club's guest day tournament at the Novato links.

Leaders in the medal handicap scoring system were:

Class A — Mrs. Lawrence Posey, 76-9—67; Mrs. Warren Smith, 87-19—68; Mrs. Zachery Bozert, 87-19—68; Mrs. William May, 81-12—69.

Class B—Miss Marcia Lee, 87-21—66; Mrs. Arthur Sears, 91-23—68; Mrs. Piercy Cuarrich, 94-25—69.

Class C—Mrs. Andrew Mahoney, 96-32—64; Mrs. Charles Barr, 92-27—65; Mrs. Gordon Hamen, 98-30—68.

Transpac May Be Closest In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 82-foot sloop Sirius II maintains a slim fleet lead in what appears to be one of the closest Transpacific Yacht Races in history.

A few miles behind Howard Ahmanson's Sirius from Newport Harbor, Calif., was the 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga owned by William Brittain of Gross Pointe, Mich.

At roll call yesterday, the Sirius II, Transpac scratch boat, had travelled 204 miles in 24 hours, compared to the "Big Ti's" 191.

The Sirius II was expected to be the first to pass the Diamond Head finish line Friday morning.

With handicaps applied, it was a different story. The Class A Ticonderoga stood second in class while the Sirius II was way back in fifth place.

Handicaps, expressed in the time a boat must subtract from its actual elapsed time, is computed according to waterline, sail area and other factors. The handicap winner wins the race.

HANDICAP LEADER

Back in the fleet, in the 2,225-mile biennial San Pedro-Honolulu classic, the Class B 50-foot sloop Ichiban of Los Angeles was handicap leader of the fleet although 13th from the No. 1 Sirius II.

Fleet handicap leaders behind Ichiban were the 62-foot yawl Chubasco of Newport Harbor, 816 miles to go; Ticonderoga; the 66-foot cutter Nam Sang of Newport Harbor, 785 miles to go, and the 50-foot yawl Kialoa of Newport, 956 miles to go.

Fleet leaders behind Sirius II and Ticonderoga were the 82-foot cutter Pursuit of San Francisco, 769 miles to go; the 73-foot yawl Escapade of Newport, 771 miles to go, and the 75-foot ketch Kamalii of Los Angeles, 775 miles to go.

Position plotters at Ala Wai boat harbor, where the 41-boat fleet will berth, say the field of boats indicates one of the closest finishes in the 22 years the Transpac has been run.

Doug Sanders Gaining In Golf Earnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—If Doug Sanders wins a few more good tournament checks, he may prove to be a serious challenge to Gary Player and Arnold Palmer for professional golf's money crown.

Sanders has been plugging away the entire tournament tour and stands a strong third in the money rankins, according to figures released by the Professional Golfers Assn. at Dunedin.

The 27-year-old Ojai, Calif., pro has played in 23 tournaments. He won three and placed in the upper five money spots five times for a total of $36,966. This places him roughly $14,000 behind second place Palmer.

Palmer has played in 18 tournaments, winning five, for $50,585.

First place is still being held by Player, with three victories and $53,969. Player's $20,000 Masters victory gave him a marked edge over the rest of the field.

Holding down fourth spot is Bill Casper Jr., with $27,591. Fifth is Gene Littler with $23,122.

July Meeting

The July meeting of the Square Wheel Touring Society will be held tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Rathskeller of aMcDowell Hall at Fort Mason. The move, "The Monza Challenge," will be shown, and plans will be made for the British Trials to be held Aug. 6 at Nicasio.

British Writers Question Pender's Strange Loss To Terry Downes

LONDON (UPI)—Jubilant Terry Downes of England may announce today when he will give Paul Pender a return shot at the world middleweight halfcrown he won from the lanky American on an avenging but strange ninth-round "retirement" last night.

If brown-haired Downes, 25, honors his 90-day return-bout contract, his third title fight with 30-year-old Pender of Brookline, Mass., would be staged by Promoter Sam Silverman at Boston, possibly Sept. 23.

Black-haired Pender quit in his corner at the end of the ninth round last night before a near capacity crowd of 10,000 in the Wembley Pool Arena. Referee Ike Powell of Wales awarded victory to Downes on a "retirement," as is the official custom in England in such cases.

Downes weighed 158¾ pounds; Pender, 159.

The result of that London fight between two former U.S. Marines will go into the English record books as "won—retirement — ninth" although in most countries it will be regarded as a technical knockout.

Pender's "retirement" was entirely unexpected, although he had a nick on his right brow and a deep cut on his left brow, because the ninth round had been his best of the fight. In that ninth session, the former Brookline fireman shook up his aggressive challenger three times with left hooks and once with a straight right.

Moreover, in the dressing room, Pender said it wasn't the cuts that bothered him. He said, "I just wasn't myself. I didn't seem to have any steam —any speed."

At least two London sports writers criticized Pender for retiring. Donald Saunders said in the Daily Telegram: "Pender presumably was thinking of his return bout which Downes has contracted to give in Boston next September." He added that Pender's ring wounds were of the sort "we had been led to believe Americans usually take in their stride."

Harry Carpenter said in the Daily Mail: "For an American to quit because of cuts is almost unknown. I pose this question: Would Pender have gone out like this had he not known that within 90 days Downes is bound by contract to go to the American's home town and give him a third fight?"

Last night Terry forced the action in every round but received so many counter-punches that many ringsiders had Pender ahead on rounds at the close of the ninth. The United Press International favored Pender, 4-3-2.

Doug Sanders Gaining In Golf Earnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—If Doug Sanders wins a few more good tournament checks, he may prove to be a serious challenge to Gary Player and Arnold Palmer for professional golf's money crown.

Sanders has been plugging away the entire tournament tour and stands a strong third in the money rankins, according to figures released by the Professional Golfers Assn. at Dunedin.

The 27-year-old Ojai, Calif., pro has played in 23 tournaments. He won three and placed in the upper five money spots five times for a total of $36,966. This places him roughly $14,000 behind second place Palmer.

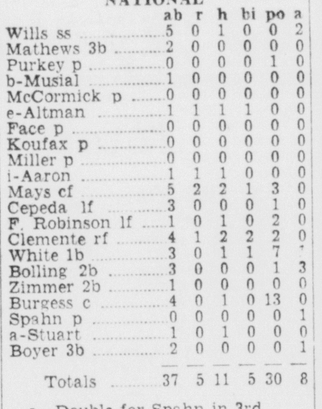
Palmer has played in 18 tournaments, winning five, for $50,585.

First place is still being held by Player, with three victories and $53,969. Player's $20,000 Masters victory gave him a marked edge over the rest of the field.

Holding down fourth spot is Bill Casper Jr., with $27,591. Fifth is Gene Littler with $23,122.

July Meeting

The July meeting of the Square Wheel Touring Society will be held tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Rathskeller of aMcDowell Hall at Fort Mason. The move, "The Monza Challenge," will be shown, and plans will be made for the British Trials to be held Aug. 6 at Nicasio.



British Writers Question Pender's Strange Loss To Terry Downes

LONDON (UPI)—Jubilant Terry Downes of England may announce today when he will give Paul Pender a return shot at the world middleweight halfcrown he won from the lanky American on an avenging but strange ninth-round "retirement" last night.

If brown-haired Downes, 25, honors his 90-day return-bout contract, his third title fight with 30-year-old Pender of Brookline, Mass., would be staged by Promoter Sam Silverman at Boston, possibly Sept. 23.

Black-haired Pender quit in his corner at the end of the ninth round last night before a near capacity crowd of 10,000 in the Wembley Pool Arena. Referee Ike Powell of Wales awarded victory to Downes on a "retirement," as is the official custom in England in such cases.

Downes weighed 158¾ pounds; Pender, 159.

The result of that London fight between two former U.S. Marines will go into the English record books as "won—retirement — ninth" although in most countries it will be regarded as a technical knockout.

Pender's "retirement" was entirely unexpected, although he had a nick on his right brow and a deep cut on his left brow, because the ninth round had been his best of the fight. In that ninth session, the former Brookline fireman shook up his aggressive challenger three times with left hooks and once with a straight right.

Moreover, in the dressing room, Pender said it wasn't the cuts that bothered him. He said, "I just wasn't myself. I didn't seem to have any steam —any speed."

At least two London sports writers criticized Pender for retiring. Donald Saunders said in the Daily Telegram: "Pender presumably was thinking of his return bout which Downes has contracted to give in Boston next September." He added that Pender's ring wounds were of the sort "we had been led to believe Americans usually take in their stride."

Harry Carpenter said in the Daily Mail: "For an American to quit because of cuts is almost unknown. I pose this question: Would Pender have gone out like this had he not known that within 90 days Downes is bound by contract to go to the American's home town and give him a third fight?"

Last night Terry forced the action in every round but received so many counter-punches that many ringsiders had Pender ahead on rounds at the close of the ninth. The United Press International favored Pender, 4-3-2.

Ice Cream Filled Eclairs Lend Nautical Touch To Kids Party

Lives there a child who doesn't love boats?

Whether it's a boat to float in the bathtub or food shaped like a boat, the idea of watercraft goes over big with the kiddies.

These chocolate eclair boats are wonderful refreshments for a children's party. The whole affair can be built around a nautical theme. It is a motif suitable any time of year.

Boat-shaped eclairs are easily formed with the aid of a tablespoon or spatula. Instead of shaping the pastry into circles as for cream puffs, shape the portions into long, slenger rectangles.

There are two keys to success in making eclairs. One is in the cooking—be sure to have the water mixture boiling when the flour is added. Stir well until flour-water mixture forms a ball.

The other is in the beating. Add the eggs one at a time and beat well after each addition. Be certain each egg is beaten in completely before adding another. Proper beating incorporates sufficient air in the batter.

The recipe yields 12 eclairs. Each eclair may be cut in half lengthwise to make two boats. Any extra eclairs can be frozen and kept for a future dessert.

Chocolate ice cream is the perfect filling for the light, delicate eclairs. Youngsters love ice cream and chocolate ranks as a favorite flavor.

CHOCOLATE ECLAIR BOATS
12 eclairs

- 1 cup water
- ½ cup butter
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 4 eggs
- Chocolate ice cream
- Peppermint stick candy
- Peppermints

Combine water, butter and salt in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add flour all at once and stir until blended and the batter stays in the shape of a ball and clings to the pan in one piece. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Shape into long rectangles on a well greased cooky sheet, using a tablespoon or spatula to shape the batter. Bake in a preheated 450° oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375° and bake 20-30 minutes longer or until the eclairs are puffed up and browned. Remove from oven, slit to allow steam to escape and cool on a cake rack. When ready to serve, cut eclairs in half lengthwise and fill each half with chocolate ice cream. Stick peppermint candy sticks into the ice cream for the smokestacks and place a peppermint on each side. Flags with the guests' names may be stuck into the ice cream also.

A FAMILY TYPE dessert that makes glamorous use of leftover rice for boysenberries. The rich, flavorful, dark red bushberry dresses up many desserts, salads and appetizers. You'll like the dessert so much you'll make it often, whether you have leftover rice or not.

Modern Breads More Enriched Than Grandma's

Enrichment of bread — the addition of certain nutrients needed by individuals — has been "one of the really epoch-making events," a nationally-known nutritionist believes.

"Enrichment is important in health, politics and in the repelling of superstition," said Dr. Henry Borsook of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena.

Enrichment is the addition of the B vitamins of niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and the mineral iron to white bread and flour.

Dr. Borsook spoke at a special dinner held in connection with the annual convention in Cleveland of the American Home Economics Assn.

The enrichment program began in 1941. Because of enrichment, "bread became more nutritious than bread had ever been before," Dr. Borsook said. He rated modern enriched bread as far more nutritious than the home-baked bread made by grandmother. He said that grandmother's bread rated high in nostalgia but not in nutrition. Today's enriched bread is superior in its contributions of the B vitamins, iron and calcium.

Fruit, Rice Make For Fancy Dessert

Here's a family type dessert that makes glamorous use of left-over rice. And the glamour ingredient is beautiful boysenberries, the rich flavorful, dark red bushberry that dresses up many desserts, salads and appetizers. You'll like the dessert so much you'll make it often, whether you have left-over rice or not.

A famous bushberry crop in California, the boysenberry is now rapidly growing in popularity all over the United States. It's distinctive flavor, generous size and tempting color has made it a great favorite. You'll find boysenberries available in many different forms and especially handy to use in the individually quick frozen form. That is, boysenberries that are frozen whole and separately and without syrup and that are wonderful to use. There are fine frozen boysenberry pies on the market too. Doubly delicious when served a la mode with big scoops of ice cream.

BOYSENBERRY ALMOND DELIGHT

- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 1 package fresh-frozen boysenberries, thawed and drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped almonds
- 8 marshmallows, cut in eights

Add sugar, salt and flavorings to cream. Mix together lightly with rice, berries, nuts and marshmallows. Spoon into sherbet glasses and chill at least two hours before serving. Makes six to eight servings.

A Children's Party—Sodas, Milk Shakes

Circus clowns and candy striped straws, colored marshmallows, sodas with gobs of ice cream, creamy milk shakes . . . all are ingredients for a successful children's party. A kiddies' party is simple to plan when the menu is a favorite of the small fry. Sodas and milk shakes are colorful when they're heaped high with scoops of different flavors o fice cream and decorated with candy striped straws, fancy stirrers with real whistles and tinted marshmallows coated with colored sprinkles.

SUMMER SODA

Prepare 1 package choocolate or vanilla or strawberry freezing mix according to packaged directions.

Combine ¼ cup carbonated beverage in a tall glass with:

- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- Or 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup and 2 tablespoons malt
- Or 3-4 tablespoons crushed fruit, (strawberry, raspberry, pineapple)

Add 2 scoops freezing mix and fill with more of the carbonated beverage. Serve plain or top with whipped cream.

MILK SHAKE

Prepare 1 package chocolate, vanilla or strawberry freezing mix according to package directions.

Shake or beat until frothy and well blended 1 cup cold milk and 2 scoops freezing mix with:

- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- Or 2 tabyespoons chocolate syrup and 2 tablespoons malt
- Or 3-4 tablespoons crushed fruit (strawberry, raspberry, pineapple)

Serve plain or topped with whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg.

FROZEN DESSERT
(Makes 4-6 servings)

- ¾ cup evaporated milk
- ¾ cup water
- 1 package strawberry freezing mix
- ½ cup maraschino cherries (chopped)
- ½ cup crushed pineapple (well drained)

Beat contents of package into liquid until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour into freezing tray. When frozen firm, remove from tray to bowl. Break with rotary beater until fluffy. Add chopped maraschino cherries and pineapple to mixture. Freeze until ready to serve.

Peachy Meat Loaf

Shape your next meat loaf in a ring mold instead of a loaf pan. To serve, fill the center with spicy yellow peaches. Use whole clings that come ready-spiced or spice cling peach halves by simmering syrup about 5 minutes with whole cloves, cinnamon sticks and spoonful of vinegar. Add peaches and simmer about 10 minutes longer.

SODAS AND milk shakes are colorful for kids' parties when they're heaped high with scoops of different flavors of ice cream and decorated with candy striped straws, fancy stirrers and tinted marshmallows.

- Peppermint stick candy
- Peppermints

Combine water, butter and salt in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add flour all at once and stir until blended and the batter stays in the shape of a ball and clings to the pan in one piece. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Shape into long rectangles on a well greased cooky sheet, using a tablespoon or spatula to shape the batter. Bake in a preheated 450° oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375° and bake 20-30 minutes longer or until the eclairs are puffed up and browned. Remove from oven, slit to allow steam to escape and cool on a cake rack. When ready to serve, cut eclairs in half lengthwise and fill each half with chocolate ice cream. Stick peppermint candy sticks into the ice cream for the smokestacks and place a peppermint on each side. Flags with the guests' names may be stuck into the ice cream also.

A FAMILY TYPE dessert that makes glamorous use of leftover rice for boysenberries. The rich, flavorful, dark red bushberry dresses up many desserts, salads and appetizers. You'll like the dessert so much you'll make it often, whether you have leftover rice or not.

Modern Breads More Enriched Than Grandma's

Enrichment of bread — the addition of certain nutrients needed by individuals — has been "one of the really epoch-making events," a nationally-known nutritionist believes.

"Enrichment is important in health, politics and in the repelling of superstition," said Dr. Henry Borsook of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena.

Enrichment is the addition of the B vitamins of niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and the mineral iron to white bread and flour.

Dr. Borsook spoke at a special dinner held in connection with the annual convention in Cleveland of the American Home Economics Assn.

The enrichment program began in 1941. Because of enrichment, "bread became more nutritious than bread had ever been before," Dr. Borsook said. He rated modern enriched bread as far more nutritious than the home-baked bread made by grandmother. He said that grandmother's bread rated high in nostalgia but not in nutrition. Today's enriched bread is superior in its contributions of the B vitamins, iron and calcium.

Fruit, Rice Make For Fancy Dessert

Here's a family type dessert that makes glamorous use of left-over rice. And the glamour ingredient is beautiful boysenberries, the rich flavorful, dark red bushberry that dresses up many desserts, salads and appetizers. You'll like the dessert so much you'll make it often, whether you have left-over rice or not.

A famous bushberry crop in California, the boysenberry is now rapidly growing in popularity all over the United States. It's distinctive flavor, generous size and tempting color has made it a great favorite. You'll find boysenberries available in many different forms and especially handy to use in the individually quick frozen form. That is, boysenberries that are frozen whole and separately and without syrup and that are wonderful to use. There are fine frozen boysenberry pies on the market too. Doubly delicious when served a la mode with big scoops of ice cream.

BOYSENBERRY ALMOND DELIGHT

- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 1 package fresh-frozen boysenberries, thawed and drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped almonds
- 8 marshmallows, cut in eights

Add sugar, salt and flavorings to cream. Mix together lightly with rice, berries, nuts and marshmallows. Spoon into sherbet glasses and chill at least two hours before serving. Makes six to eight servings.

A Children's Party— Sodas, Milk Shakes

Circus clowns and candy striped straws, colored marshmallows, sodas with gobs of ice cream, creamy milk shakes . . . all are ingredients for a successful children's party. A kiddies' party is simple to plan when the menu is a favorite of the small fry. Sodas and milk shakes are colorful when they're heaped high with scoops of different flavors o fice cream and decorated with candy striped straws, fancy stirrers with real whistles and tinted marshmallows coated with colored sprinkles.

SUMMER SODA

Prepare 1 package choocolate or vanilla or strawberry freezing mix according to packaged directions.

Combine ¼ cup carbonated beverage in a tall glass with:

- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- Or 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup and 2 tablespoons malt
- Or 3-4 tablespoons crushed fruit, (strawberry, raspberry, pineapple)

Add 2 scoops freezing mix and fill with more of the carbonated beverage. Serve plain or top with whipped cream.

MILK SHAKE

Prepare 1 package chocolate, vanilla or strawberry freezing mix according to package directions.

Shake or beat until frothy and well blended 1 cup cold milk and 2 scoops freezing mix with:

- 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup
- Or 2 tabyespoons chocolate syrup and 2 tablespoons malt
- Or 3-4 tablespoons crushed fruit (strawberry, raspberry, pineapple)

Serve plain or topped with whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg.

FROZEN DESSERT
(Makes 4-6 servings)

- ¾ cup evaporated milk
- ¾ cup water
- 1 package strawberry freezing mix
- ½ cup maraschino cherries (chopped)
- ½ cup crushed pineapple (well drained)

Beat contents of package into liquid until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour into freezing tray. When frozen firm, remove from tray to bowl. Break with rotary beater until fluffy. Add chopped maraschino cherries and pineapple to mixture. Freeze until ready to serve.

Peachy Meat Loaf

Shape your next meat loaf in a ring mold instead of a loaf pan. To serve, fill the center with spicy yellow peaches. Use whole clings that come ready-spiced or spice cling peach halves by simmering syrup about 5 minutes with whole cloves, cinnamon sticks and spoonful of vinegar. Add peaches and simmer about 10 minutes longer.

SODAS AND milk shakes are colorful for kids' parties when they're heaped high with scoops of different flavors of ice cream and decorated with candy striped straws, fancy stirrers and tinted marshmallows.

Tiburon Gets Sanitation Problem Help

A score of Rolling Hills good neighbors presented themselves at Monday night's meeting of the Tiburon's Sanitary District board to help solve a problem for the district.

By voluntarily accepting an approximate 10 per cent increase in their assessments, the residents are attempting to make it possible to retain the Hilarita Housing Project in the sanitary district.

The district board had assessed the housing project $70,000 as its share of a new sewer treatment plant and lines. However, the Marin County Housing Authority insisted the cost shouldn't exceed $60,000. The Rolling Hills assessment would make up the $10,000 differential.

At a recent meeting, the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board agreed to include the housing project. No contract has been signed.

The Tiburon sanitary board voted Monday night to accept Hilarita's offer of approximately $60,000—and up the Rolling Hills assessments. Bert Klahn, executive director of the housing authority, said the offer will now be considered by the authority.

Business Improves, But Profits Still Lag

NEW YORK (AP)—Translating business recovery into terms of larger profits is proving tough for many companies. And the stock market is paying increasing attention to their struggles.

Early reports on earnings in the first half of the year show 1961 net income still trailing 1960 at about the same rate as in the disappointing first quarter before the recession corner had been turned officially.

Many companies hope for a better second half, based on expectations of larger sales. But a goodly proportion concede that production costs continue to rise. Stiff competition is weakening prices in some industries. And both trends befog the profit outlook.

Even the banks have now joined the parade of profit falterers, after generally showing rising earnings right through the recession. Most of the nation's largest banks report a drop in earnings in the first half, compared with a year ago. They blame a dip in interest yields on loans and other investments as well as rising operating costs.

The nation's railroads have been among the hardest hit by the recession. Its effects still plague the eastern lines particularly. They serve the large industrial areas where increasing production is just starting to mean more freight movement. Some lines have operated in the red until recently.

The Assn. of American Railroads estimates that the Class I roads, those with operating revenues of three million dollars or more a year had combined net income of 17 million dollars in the first five months of the year, compared with 195 million dollars in the like 1960 period. A slightly better June should lessen the gap for the full six months.

Nonfinancial corporations heard from so far are mostly those with fiscal years closing earlier than the calendar year. Their first half results thus are short one or more months of the general recovery period. But their tightened profit margins are nonetheless interesting to their stockholders and to the U.S. Treasury, which will see in declining profits a portent of loss of receipts from corporate income taxes.

The first 112 nonfinancial companies to report for their six months show '61 with earnings trailing the like 1960 period, and 12 operating at a loss, compared to 10 in the previous year.

Combined the 112 cleared $243,500,000 in this six months period, compared with $285,016,000 a year ago, for a decline of 14.5 per cent.

Some industries are touched by the recovery less than others. But as usual, individual companies within industries go their separate ways.

It's a thoroughly scrambled list, with almost as many reasons for the variations as there are companies.

But the totals lean to the downside and are still waiting for the general business recovery to beef up the profit margins.

Here's A Way To Keep Warm When It's Cold

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Miller of Phoenix returned from a trip to Yellowstone National Park and told of camping out in below-freezing weather.

Miller complained all night of the bitter cold. Mrs. Miller felt quite cozy. The next morning she discovered her sleeping bag had been resting over a small steam geyser.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bill Simonin has an intercommunication system between his home and his service station. Twice in five weeks, while at home, he heard a prowler in the station, and each time police sped to the scene and made an arrest.

Students Gifts Accepted By Edna Maguire

Mill Valley School District trustees Monday night accepted for Edna Maguire School a gift by the school's student body of a $450 movie projector and a number of microscopes for science classrooms.

The gifts were paid for by the students from the sale of ice cream during the noon hour at school.

Also accepted was an opaque projector from the Edna Maguire School Parent-Teacher Assn.

The board approved a publication budget of $1,116,400, and will hold a public hearing on a date in early August, not yet said.

Trustees approved plans for construction of a new six classroom building at Edna Maguire School, which will have movable walls to open into one assembly room.

They reaffirmed opposition to the Scott Valley Master Plan on grounds that the density of the proposed dwelling units is uncertain.

New York Town Takes Firm Stand On Welfare Burden

A Hudson Valley community of 31,000 persons in New York state has attracted the attention of the nation with a crackdown on welfare payments.

Sparked by its city manager, the City of Newburgh, N.Y., has declared that Saturday it will activate a 13-point code aimed at reducing the $900,000 in welfare payments which come out of a $3,000,000 city budget.

Proposed regulations which brought about the greatest arguments, and led to the resignation of the welfare commissioner on the grounds he won't administer "illegal" rules, are:

1. Mothers of one or more illegitimate children are ineligible for further aid if she has any more such children.

2. All welfare recipients except the blind, the aged and disabled, are limited to three months of aid in any one year.

3. The amount of money for a family is limited to a sum no higher than the wages of the lowest-paid city employee with an equal number of dependants.

4. Aid would be ended for able-bodied men who refused to work on municipal projects, relief would be denied to persons who quit jobs or refused new ones and to newly arrived welfare recipients who can not prove they were lured to Newburgh with promises of a job.

The city blames its mounting relief problems on loss of industry, a heavier than normal influx of Negroes from the South and the problems of urban blight.

Opponents call the regulations illegal, inhuman and founded on anti-Negro prejudices. State officials claim Newburgh's code could jeopardize the entire state's $200 million reimbursement from the federal government, which demands uniform regulations in administering relief.

The Jefferson County Board of Supervisors backs Newburgh's fight, saying the city "should have rebeled years ago," and requests the state to exert "all its influence on the federal government to ease its rules so that counties may administer public welfare reasonably."

Last Saturday a committee of the State Board of Social Welfare ordered Newburgh not to put its code into effect Saturday. The city, with 5 per cent of its population on the welfare rolls, is going to do it anyway.

The full social welfare board meets next Monday and Tuesday with a decision on what to do next on their agenda.

NOT ONLY FOR GRANDMA

Back To Lace And Tights

About the time of the American Revolution, gentlemen wore a bit of lace about the collar and cuffs on social occasions. Pictures of our Founding Fathers generally show a bit of fancy work about the neck.

Tight pants were the general attire for all classes and a fellow who lacked lithe, muscular thighs was out of luck. The tough, lean Washington and Jefferson types looked good in tights. But plump fellows, like the Adamses and Franklin, probably wished for a bit more room in the seat.

We note with mild distress the fellows who make men's fashions have decided to cram us flabby Americans into even tighter trousers than Ivy League this coming fall. Then these same guys propose to "put a little delicate lace at the collar."

You can powder our wig, if we don't seem to be going backwards. But for a generation of Americans whose most strenuous exercise is playing shepherd to a power mower, this trend could be a disaster.

Even the Adamses and Franklin probably rode horseback quite a lot. The new styles for men seem almost subversive in today's world. We are exhibiting the weakness of our waistline for everyone to see.

Bust our buttons and strip our zipper! It looks like tight times ahead.

You Must Feel Sorry For Young Folks Who Can't Remember When

NEW YORK (AP)—Some say this is the best time to be young. Some say there never was a worse time.

But life is a mosaic of many memories, and any youngster of today, by coming along so late, by the nature of things will have missed a lot of what went before.

Many a man or woman, middle-aged or older, feels a bit sorry for young folks who can't remember when:

You could buy a white shirt for a dollar bill.

No child dared ot call its father or mother "stupid" or "silly."

Anybody who went up in an airplane and came down safely got his picture in the newspapers.

A child's biggest thrill was to be lifted to the back of one of the big gray horses in the local fire station.

Everyone over 60 foretold the weather by his rheumatism. Only the very rich could afford doctors who called it arthritis.

Dogs slept outdoors at night—and there wasn't one in the whole broad land whose owner had bought it a mink blanket.

When a fellow found it hard to read the small print in the mail order catalogue, he went to the dime store, pawed through its display of spectacles—and bought the pair he could see with best.

If you lived beyond your means, the neighbors clucked and said, "over the hill to the poorhouse."

The proudest kid in the block was the one with the most warts.

Nobody had heard of government relief checks. Families were expected to look after their own poor relatives.

Big babies were thought healthier than small babies. Any man who fathered one that weighed less than eight and a half pounds at birth apologized to his friends.

Fat people were thought to be happier—and likely to live longer—than thin people.

If you had a second helping at dinner, the beaming hostess took it as a personal compliment to her cooking. She had no idea you were eating to camouflage a hidden neurosis.

Anybody who could imitate bird calls or play a musical saw had an artistic future in vaudeville.

MORE PEOPLE worried about constipation than cancer.

In baseball a home run was really something to see. Franklin F. Baker led the American League in homers from 1911 through 1914. His total for the four years: Only 39.

IT WAS WIDELY predicted that if the government ever adopted a real income tax the nation would rise up in rebellion.

There was always a hitching post handy to tie up the horse and buggy—and not a parking meter between Maine and California.

Reference, letter by reader who had nothing nice to say about some of the "so-called 'poetry'" printed in the IJ.

Flowers are still beautiful even when imperfectly formed. Often an amateur poet expresses more warmth and sincerity than one who is supposed to have "arrived" by way of the sometimes stilted poetry of modern fashioning. And for all I know that may be just what this lady (reader) meant too.

I for one am proud of your friendly paper that can afford to "just be itself" in encouraging beginning poets and many others who are trying to learn to do things.

It seems — doesn't it? — that most everyone is eager to enrich his life in some new, expressive way. Though many of our Marin residents are already experts in one field or another, including poetry, surely they have not always been experts.

Perhaps along with "Readers Say" we could use a corner marked "Poets Pray." (If I'm a poet I don't know it.)

EDITOR,

Since the California Automobile Association stresses motor vehicle safety so strongly, I am at a loss to explain a dangerous and irksome practice in which they persist. This is not merely my opinion, but that of my neighbors as well.

Jessup Street in San Rafael is only a block long and runs parallel to West End Avenue. It is narrow, one car being barely able to traverse the center of the street when cars are parked on both curbs.

Nonetheless, the authorities still see fit to give the parallel parking part of the driver's licensing exam on our street. All day long cars pull in and out, often lining up waiting their turn. The stanchions are out from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., but this doesn't stop people from returning to practice—often till as late as 9 p.m., when our daylight savings sun finally sets.

The necessary stopping and starting, and motor gunning raises havoc (a mild description I assure you) with TV reception. The same numerous small children we mothers have worried about because of the traffic all day, now find it impossible to sleep.

Even the weekends are filled with cheaters who come to practice, relatives shouting directions from the curb.

Last summer I recall six instances of damage done parked cars by candidates who swung too far too fast.

I am not some crank. I drive myself, having passed my exam with a 98 score. I am, however, justly concerned with my children's safety, my car's paint job, and the neighborhood's peace of mind and ear.

I know these tests are essential, but couldn't someone PLEASE choose a less congested and populous strip of curb to aim at?

One night last week on my way home from work, I was forced to stop at the side of the road. Something was dreadfully wrong with my car. There was a hidden noise I couldn't identify and "smoke," as I thought, coming out from someplace in front.

While I was debating what on earth I should do, I heard a voice, "Having trouble?"

I hadn't heard the car—a little yellow sport car — but there it was. The driver and his companion ("teen-agers") had pulled up behind me and stopped.

I was never so glad to see anyone in my life. They pushed my car "off the highway, so you won't get a ticket" and then lifted the hood to find out the source of the "smoke."

My radiator had gone dry. Beyond asking me, "Didn't you watch your gauge?" they made no comment. They pushed my car seven long blocks, hard going some of it, to a filling station where they filled the radiator and waiting until they were sure I was all right before leaving, with a very severe bit of deserved advice, "Always watch your gauge."

They were courteous and kind and far more like the sort of boys I have always known than the "delinquents" whose names pop up so often in the papers.

What Would Happen In Marin If You Were To Paint Yourself Blue?

Old Randall is thinking of painting himself blue . . .

And if Marin County doesn't like the idea, I may move to Santa Fe.

Of my favorite out-of-Marin cities, numbering few indeed, Santa Fe perhaps leads the list since Peking is now beyond the Bamboo Curtain.

But only recently, when I read an analysis of Santa Fe in its daily newspaper the New Mexican, did I realize how much Santa Fe and Marin County have in common.

OF COURSE, climate and scenery are attractive in both places—more so in Marin perhaps, to my way of thinking. Not much snow here lately.

Some Santa Fe character by the name of Joe was quoted by the newspaper on several reasons why his town is a good place, and most of his reasons apply to Marin too.

"I like Santa Fe," said Joe, "because the guy who came to spray my apple trees last summer skipped one tree and came back for it a week later to give the baby birds nested there time to grow up."

THAT IS ABOUT enough to rest the case and ask a directed verdict.

But Joe cited several other Marin-sounding things too, such as a women's club calling itself the Stitch and Bitch; a sky "so blue you wouldn't believe it"; also the most fabulous lilacs this side of New England "and people too sensible to call it 'The Lilac City'."

But what charmed me most was this:

"If I painted myself blue," said Joe, "and grew a forked beard the people wouldn't say I'd lost my mind. They'd say 'I see old Joe painted himself blue.'"

That's pretty subtle. It's a different situation from down in Southern California, say, where if somebody painted himself blue everybody would paint their respective selves blue too.

No, in Santa Fe or Marin there wouldn't be a general rush for the paint store, but neither would anybody go shopping for tar and feathers.

THE THING would be considered strictly Joe's business and nobody else's as to whether it came from mere whim or, say, a desire to match up with a pair of blue eyes. Every man to his own notions.

Right at the moment here in Marin County I've been putting a trifle of touch-up paint to the Royal Blue finish of the family car.

There's nearly a whole tin of paint still left . . .

Congress Consistent, Non-Partisan On Farm Plans; It Doesn't Like Any

WASHINGTON—On farm matters Congress is dismayingly consistent—and dismayingly non-partisan.

It was against Secretary Ezra Benson on nearly everything. It now appears to be against Secretary Orvell Freeman on nearly everything.

Congress didn't like the free-market philosophy of the Eisenhower administration. It evidently doesn't like the controlled-production philosophy of the Kennedy administration.

Congress was never willing to give Secretary Benson what was needed to take agriculture out of the oxygen tent of government subsidy. It is apparently unlikely to give Secretary Freeman what is needed to control crops as a means of reducing costly and increasing farm surpluses.

CONGRESS WAS unwilling to reduce high rigid price supports when Benson thought it was practicable and prudent. Now Congress appears to be unwilling to give Freeman larger powers to reduce surpluses, although willing to give many farmers the high price supports which create surpluses.

I always thought that Benson was definitely headed in the right direction. He was trying to get our farm economy back on the track of producing to sell advantageously in the open market, not producing for government storage. It was obvious that the end result of high rigid price supports would be either a constantly mounting federal subsidy—which the taxpayer will not accept indefinitely—or government controls over what the farmer produces.

WHILE THE Kennedy-Freeman farm program has never come into clear focus, it is headed away from the competitive market for U. S. farmers and toward more and more controls.

But Secretary Freeman does not appear to be winning any more support for new controls over production than Secretary Benson did in asking Congress to cut back the high rigid price supports.

Despite all the talk by the Democrats during the Eisenhower-Benson years that they had the answers to the farm problem if given a chance, the weakness of the Kennedy-Freeman farm program is that it isn't really a program at all; it is a promise to produce a program later if Congress will just be patient and wait.

What Secretary Freeman finally offered to Congress was a plan to develop plans—a proposal that the producers of different basic commodities should, in association with the secretary, develop ways for the government to help them. Such programs would become law if Congress did not veto them in 60 days.

WHAT WE NOW have at hand in Congress is almost a perfect combination of the worst possible ingredients: (1) high rigid price supports which induce over-production; (2) no control to restrain over-production; (2) no controls to restrain over-production; (3) on even-handed distaste on the part of both Congress and the Department of Agriculture to come up with tangible answers.

I find it hard to escape the conviction that the better organized minority of farm voters have long been and still are dominating the congressional decisions on farm policy.

THERE WAS a high pressure political campaign against Secretary Benson, but in the 1958 congressional elections the supporters of the Benson philosophy fared far better than the opponents. And in the 1960 presidential election, it was Nixon, advocating a much freer farm economy than did Kennedy, who carried by good margins nearly all the farm states.

It seems to me that the national trend is away from controls, that far more farmers would rather see the government abandon high price supports than impose crop controls and that a majority of Congress responsive to the taxpayer and the consumer will have to assert itself before long.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

New York Town Takes Firm Stand On Welfare Burden

A Hudson Valley community of 31,000 persons in New York state has attracted the attention of the nation with a crackdown on welfare payments.

Sparked by its city manager, the City of Newburgh, N.Y., has declared that Saturday it will activate a 13-point code aimed at reducing the $900,000 in welfare payments which come out of a $3,000,000 city budget.

Proposed regulations which brought about the greatest arguments, and led to the resignation of the welfare commissioner on the grounds he won't administer "illegal" rules, are:

1. Mothers of one or more illegitimate children are ineligible for further aid if she has any more such children.

2. All welfare recipients except the blind, the aged and disabled, are limited to three months of aid in any one year.

3. The amount of money for a family is limited to a sum no higher than the wages of the lowest-paid city employee with an equal number of dependants.

4. Aid would be ended for able-bodied men who refused to work on municipal projects, relief would be denied to persons who quit jobs or refused new ones and to newly arrived welfare recipients who can not prove they were lured to Newburgh with promises of a job.

The city blames its mounting relief problems on loss of industry, a heavier than normal influx of Negroes from the South and the problems of urban blight.

Opponents call the regulations illegal, inhuman and founded on anti-Negro prejudices. State officials claim Newburgh's code could jeopardize the entire state's $200 million reimbursement from the federal government, which demands uniform regulations in administering relief.

The Jefferson County Board of Supervisors backs Newburgh's fight, saying the city "should have rebeled years ago," and requests the state to exert "all its influence on the federal government to ease its rules so that counties may administer public welfare reasonably."

Last Saturday a committee of the State Board of Social Welfare ordered Newburgh not to put its code into effect Saturday. The city, with 5 per cent of its population on the welfare rolls, is going to do it anyway.

The full social welfare board meets next Monday and Tuesday with a decision on what to do next on their agenda.

NOT ONLY FOR GRANDMA

Back To Lace And Tights

About the time of the American Revolution, gentlemen wore a bit of lace about the collar and cuffs on social occasions. Pictures of our Founding Fathers generally show a bit of fancy work about the neck.

Tight pants were the general attire for all classes and a fellow who lacked lithe, muscular thighs was out of luck. The tough, lean Washington and Jefferson types looked good in tights. But plump fellows, like the Adamses and Franklin, probably wished for a bit more room in the seat.

We note with mild distress the fellows who make men's fashions have decided to cram us flabby Americans into even tighter trousers than Ivy League this coming fall. Then these same guys propose to "put a little delicate lace at the collar."

You can powder our wig, if we don't seem to be going backwards. But for a generation of Americans whose most strenuous exercise is playing shepherd to a power mower, this trend could be a disaster.

Even the Adamses and Franklin probably rode horseback quite a lot. The new styles for men seem almost subversive in today's world. We are exhibiting the weakness of our waistline for everyone to see.

Bust our buttons and strip our zipper! It looks like tight times ahead.

You Must Feel Sorry For Young Folks Who Can't Remember When

NEW YORK (AP)—Some say this is the best time to be young. Some say there never was a worse time.

But life is a mosaic of many memories, and any youngster of today, by coming along so late, by the nature of things will have missed a lot of what went before.

Many a man or woman, middle-aged or older, feels a bit sorry for young folks who can't remember when:

You could buy a white shirt for a dollar bill.

No child dared ot call its father or mother "stupid" or "silly."

Anybody who went up in an airplane and came down safely got his picture in the newspapers.

A child's biggest thrill was to be lifted to the back of one of the big gray horses in the local fire station.

Everyone over 60 foretold the weather by his rheumatism. Only the very rich could afford doctors who called it arthritis.

Dogs slept outdoors at night—and there wasn't one in the whole broad land whose owner had bought it a mink blanket.

When a fellow found it hard to read the small print in the mail order catalogue, he went to the dime store, pawed through its display of spectacles—and bought the pair he could see with best.

If you lived beyond your means, the neighbors clucked and said, "over the hill to the poorhouse."

The proudest kid in the block was the one with the most warts.

Nobody had heard of government relief checks. Families were expected to look after their own poor relatives.

Big babies were thought healthier than small babies. Any man who fathered one that weighed less than eight and a half pounds at birth apologized to his friends.

Fat people were thought to be happier—and likely to live longer—than thin people.

If you had a second helping at dinner, the beaming hostess took it as a personal compliment to her cooking. She had no idea you were eating to camouflage a hidden neurosis.

Anybody who could imitate bird calls or play a musical saw had an artistic future in vaudeville.

MORE PEOPLE worried about constipation than cancer.

There was always a hitching post handy to tie up the horse and buggy—and not a parking meter between Maine and California.

CONFUCIUS SAY

JIM KILPATRICK SAY

We're not up on all the old Chinese proverbs . . . but we do know that that much quoted (and mis-quoted) Chinese scholar—Confucius—had much to say about thrift—and true economy—along the lines of a later Occidental who mentioned, in effect, that all that glitters is not gold. That is why we invite new customers to shop with us for 30 days and then check their budget. Big specials this week—and high prices next week do not make for real savings—but at Bon Air . . . two things are constant . . . prices that save pennies and top quality that saves more pennies by eliminating waste. We buy right to help you save more. Be from Missouri and let us show you real economy.

J. T. Kilpatrick

P.S. It goes without saying that the food at the opposite end of the shopping center is just as good . . . as the food at this end of the shopping center . . . and we know that eating at Confucius is another example of true economy—you get your money's worth. —JTK

New Confucius Chinese Restaurant Has 28-Years Experience Behind It

Horace and Lil Fong, in opening their Confucious Chinese restaurant in the Bon Air Shopping Center, have brought to Marin County 28 years of experience in catering to the appetites of those who want the best in Oriental cuisine.

Fong, who grew up in the restaurant business, said, "One of the most significant changes in the American attitude toward Chinese food has been people's vastly increasing knowledge of what they want."

Reminiscing about his early years in restaurants, Fong said, "In the '30's everything was chop suey, and people came occasionally to a Chinese restaurant as an adventure. In the last several years, especially since World War II, the American public has had a greater knowledge of Cantonese style dishes, and although they still insist on forks instead of chopsticks, they do know their water chestnuts."

It was a custom among some connoisseurs to go to a restaurant in which they were acquainted and ask the host to select a dinner for them. Some, by this process, acquired a knowledge of Chinese cookery, but this group was small.

It is probably true that the new generation of Chinese who withdrew from Chinatown's surroundings and accepted some of the better American customs established communication that made for greater understanding between the two cultures.

It was said during the depression years that every waiter in Chinatown was a "psych major out of Cal." This is not necessarily true but it is true that many Chinese brought into their business a good background in American business methods to add to the generations of background in trading in which the Chinese have a worldwide standing, Fong explained.

Chinese cookery is divided into standards fare which is a la carte and served right from the stove and banquet dishes that must be ordered a day or two in advance.

Confucius also presents a complete "American" menu.

Horace and Lil Fong have advised many diners in the past 28 years on what may best please their palate. The proof of their success is in the steady return of their guests.

Police Ask Lawmakers If They Get The Point

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — State police came before the Legislature with pointed arguments in support of bills to stiffen penalties against convict rioters.

A police representative appeared at a recent committee hearing with a bushel-sized basket full of knives and other weapons used in last year's riot at the state prison.

Lip Service

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — The girls at the Danville school board office sent out a general alarm for their missing parakeet — one with a red head. They said its head was red from lipstick because the girls couldn't refrain from kissing it.

Seventh Year Of Progress For Hardware

Floyd Hilty and Murry Hilty, the father-and-son partnership at Bon Air Hardware, enter their seventh year of progress in Bon Air Shopping Center.

The popular father-son establishment is now, in addition to a "home handyman's haven," a major supplier of hardware and garden items to contractors and home owners throughout the central Marin area. In the past year the Hiltys have extended their display area completely through their storage space, and now us the storage space for a combination of storage and display for bulk items.

Their back entrance has been converted into a service loading area for the convenience of their larger purchasers. Another addition this year has been their own line of paint and painting supplies.

The Bon Air label on the paints allows them to control both the colors and the quality, and they have found a ready market among both maintenance contractors and home handymen.

Guide Booklet On County Services

A county services guide booklet, giving information on various services offered in Marin, will be published and distributed this year by the Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs.

Gilbert B. Darroch, president of the federation announced that members of the federation decided last night to go ahead with the project. The booklet, 16 mimeographed pages, will give information on the various county departments and their functions, and what services are offered to various communities.

Representatives from various improvement clubs were also given copies of an excavation ordinance which failed to pass last year. If the improvement clubs feel the ordinance should be passed, action may be taken at the next federation meeting, President Darroch reported.

Artist Still Uses 71-Year-Old Pen

OSWEGO, Kan. (AP)—John M. Backues is 87 years old and his gold-pointed pen is 71.

But Backues is still active turning out drawings and decorations, using the pen his father bought him when he was a boy.

His style is ornate, an intricate combination of lines and ovals reminiscent of penmanship exercises.

Charter Found

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — The long search is over for Aspen's city charter. Councilmen found it and other documents, missing about 80 years, in the courthouse at Gunnison. Aspen was in Gunnison county, instead of Pitkin, when it was incorporated in 1881.

ATTRACTIVE FASHION—Mrs. Ann Levy of Greenbrae Dress Shop wears an imported Chinese gown in preparation for the Thursday style showings at Confucius of Greenbrae directed by Mrs. Edith Goulart.

Restaurant Plans Weekly Fashion Show

One of the features of Confucius of Greenbrae will be a weekly fashion showing by the Greenbrae Dress Shop under direction of Edith Goulart.

This will be presented each Thursday at 1 p.m. and will be informal. Mrs. Goulart will use three models who will walk through for inspection without commentary. The fall line of dresses and accessories will be featured through the summer months.

The Greenbrae Dress Shop, in its second year at Bon Air Shopping Center, has been so successful that Mrs. Goulart has recently opened two more specialty shops in Marin County.

Featuring selections that keep pace with the latest style edicts the Greenbrae Dress Shop also carries the best in many imported accessory lines.

Longtime Teacher

MANGUM, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Nina Davis has retired as a school teacher after 49 years. She figures she taught more than 5,000 children in that time. And she still has a little bell she used 49 years ago to call pupils to class.

New Quality Standard In Interior Decoration

John de Vries, Bon Air Shopping Center's home decorating consultant and supplier, is setting new standards of quality in interior decoration in Marin County.

As furnishing consultant to Casitas Corp., de Vries' latest commercial execution was the model apartment in the Bon Air Apartment group. The model apartment was greeted with acclaim by viewers. A forthcoming article in a national home-trade magazine also displays this example of de Vries' artistry.

Formerly an executive in stock control systems, de Vries went into the home decoration field as a hobby. His success brought requests for his services which led to his commercial venture in the Bon Air Shopping Center.

A thorough knowledge of fabrics and carpeting from the merchandising end has given de Vries a good insight into the economical use of these materials. It is his contention that the assistance of an interior decorator is not expensive but can definitely effect economies in home decorating. His suggestion is to call in an interior decorator for consultation with architect or designer. In this way suggestions made by the designer will lead away from the cutting and fitting of materials that often happens when they are provided as an afterthought. De Vries also suggests that you call John de Vries for the consultation and advice.

Barber Shop Popular Spot For Greenbrae

Louis M. Nickle, proprietor of the Greenbrae Barber Shop, is one of the most popular men with the small fry in the Greenbrae area.

There was a time when a young lad looked forward to the day that he could have his hair cut like dad's; now dad is having his hair cut like the young lad's. The out-of-door living in Marin County has standardized most haircuts into the easy-to-care-for butches or flattops, and Nickle and his associates are experts in this line.

Many still call for the styled haircut, and the Greenbrae Barber Shop is also well qualified in this field.

School Budget Adopted For West Marin

West Marin School District trustees Monday night adopted a 1$116,683 budget for fisca 1962.

The budget is an increase of about $12,000 over last year. Supt. George Stratton said it will increase the tax rate from $1.83 to about $1.92 for 1961-62. The general purpose tax will be about $1.50, over-ride taxes for retirement and classes for mentally retarded will be about 12 cents. And bond retirement will "be in the neighborhood of 30 cents," Stratton said.

A public hearing will be held on the budget at the board's next regular meeting, Aug. 7.

Dr. Gordon Plattes was re-elected president of the board, and Donald McIsaac was re-elected clerk. Gus Kovats was named trustee representative. Robert E. Gallagher, newly elected to the board, took his seat for the first time.

Two new teachers were hired: Clinton G. Ansley, 37, of 1294 Cambridge Street, Ignacio, to teach eighth grade, and Mrs. Mary Jarvis, 23, of San Anselmo, to teach first grade.

'Cutie Pie'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A recent claim of $330 for a "cutie pie" was rejected by Oklahoma County commissioners until they learned it is an instrument for measuring spurious radiation from X-ray equipment.

Unproductive Meter

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)— The city isn't getting rich from its metered parking lot at 28th Street and Pine Ave. Last March, meter receipts totaled 92 cents. The lot produced only $14.22 in revenue during all of 1960.

Doomed Slayers' Appeal Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The petition for a writ of habeas corpus for doomed San Quentin Prison inmates Manuel Chavez, 28, and Clyde Bates, 26, has been turned down by Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman.

The two men are awaiting execution for the death of six persons killed when they tossed a flaming gasoline bomb into a Los Angeles barn April, 1957.

Goodman said he "found nothing even remotely approaching a failure of constitutional due process" to the pair, as charged in their petition last week.

ATTRACTIVE FASHION—Mrs. Ann Levy of Greenbrae Dress Shop wears an imported Chinese gown in preparation for the Thursday style showings at Confucius of Greenbrae directed by Mrs. Edith Goulart.

Restaurant Plans Weekly Fashion Show

One of the features of Confucius of Greenbrae will be a weekly fashion showing by the Greenbrae Dress Shop under direction of Edith Goulart.

This will be presented each Thursday at 1 p.m. and will be informal. Mrs. Goulart will use three models who will walk through for inspection without commentary. The fall line of dresses and accessories will be featured through the summer months.

The Greenbrae Dress Shop, in its second year at Bon Air Shopping Center, has been so successful that Mrs. Goulart has recently opened two more specialty shops in Marin County.

Featuring selections that keep pace with the latest style edicts the Greenbrae Dress Shop also carries the best in many imported accessory lines.

Longtime Teacher

MANGUM, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Nina Davis has retired as a school teacher after 49 years. She figures she taught more than 5,000 children in that time. And she still has a little bell she used 49 years ago to call pupils to class.

New Quality Standard In Interior Decoration

John de Vries, Bon Air Shopping Center's home decorating consultant and supplier, is setting new standards of quality in interior decoration in Marin County.

As furnishing consultant to Casitas Corp., de Vries' latest commercial execution was the model apartment in the Bon Air Apartment group. The model apartment was greeted with acclaim by viewers. A forthcoming article in a national home-trade magazine also displays this example of de Vries' artistry.

Formerly an executive in stock control systems, de Vries went into the home decoration field as a hobby. His success brought requests for his services which led to his commercial venture in the Bon Air Shopping Center.

A thorough knowledge of fabrics and carpeting from the merchandising end has given de Vries a good insight into the economical use of these materials. It is his contention that the assistance of an interior decorator is not expensive but can definitely effect economies in home decorating. His suggestion is to call in an interior decorator for consultation with architect or designer. In this way suggestions made by the designer will lead away from the cutting and fitting of materials that often happens when they are provided as an afterthought. De Vries also suggests that you call John de Vries for the consultation and advice.

Barber Shop Popular Spot For Greenbrae

Louis M. Nickle, proprietor of the Greenbrae Barber Shop, is one of the most popular men with the small fry in the Greenbrae area.

There was a time when a young lad looked forward to the day that he could have his hair cut like dad's; now dad is having his hair cut like the young lad's. The out-of-door living in Marin County has standardized most haircuts into the easy-to-care-for butches or flattops, and Nickle and his associates are experts in this line.

Many still call for the styled haircut, and the Greenbrae Barber Shop is also well qualified in this field.

School Budget Adopted For West Marin

West Marin School District trustees Monday night adopted a 1$116,683 budget for fisca 1962.

The budget is an increase of about $12,000 over last year. Supt. George Stratton said it will increase the tax rate from $1.83 to about $1.92 for 1961-62. The general purpose tax will be about $1.50, over-ride taxes for retirement and classes for mentally retarded will be about 12 cents. And bond retirement will "be in the neighborhood of 30 cents," Stratton said.

A public hearing will be held on the budget at the board's next regular meeting, Aug. 7.

Dr. Gordon Plattes was re-elected president of the board, and Donald McIsaac was re-elected clerk. Gus Kovats was named trustee representative. Robert E. Gallagher, newly elected to the board, took his seat for the first time.

Two new teachers were hired: Clinton G. Ansley, 37, of 1294 Cambridge Street, Ignacio, to teach eighth grade, and Mrs. Mary Jarvis, 23, of San Anselmo, to teach first grade.

'Cutie Pie'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A recent claim of $330 for a "cutie pie" was rejected by Oklahoma County commissioners until they learned it is an instrument for measuring spurious radiation from X-ray equipment.

Unproductive Meter

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)— The city isn't getting rich from its metered parking lot at 28th Street and Pine Ave. Last March, meter receipts totaled 92 cents. The lot produced only $14.22 in revenue during all of 1960.

Doomed Slayers' Appeal Rejected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The petition for a writ of habeas corpus for doomed San Quentin Prison inmates Manuel Chavez, 28, and Clyde Bates, 26, has been turned down by Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman.

The two men are awaiting execution for the death of six persons killed when they tossed a flaming gasoline bomb into a Los Angeles barn April, 1957.

Goodman said he "found nothing even remotely approaching a failure of constitutional due process" to the pair, as charged in their petition last week.

Greenbrae Pharmacy Active In Area's Community Life

The Greenbrae Pharmacy, in its third year at the Bon Air Shopping Center, has become an integral part of the community life of the Greenbrae area. Owner Henry Brocco, in addition to an active interest in civic work, has become an enthusiastic sponsor of bowling teams and Little League baseball teams.

Brocco's associate, Robert Cuneo, who is completing his first year with the Greenbrae Pharmacy, has been of great assistance to Brocco in extending the pharmaceutical services. The quality line of toiletries and cosmetics has been extended to include almost everything milady desires.

Brocco has stoutly resisted soda fountains and auto accessories, but everything in the way of pharmaceuticals and toiletries is readily available.

East German Ban For West Berlin Workers

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Germany authorities yesterday banned the sale of television sets, refrigerators and other household appliances and luxuries to East Berliners who have jobs in West Berlin.

The order affected about 50,000 East Berlin residents who cross the East-West city border daily to work in free West Berlin.

It was announced just four days after the Communists ordered East Berliners to obtain formal permission from Red authorities before accepting a job in West Berlin.

Both regulations were seen as an indication that Communist authorities might be preparing to close the East-West city border by forcing East Berliners to return to jobs in the Eastern sector through economic sanctions. About 4,000 refugees flee across this border to the West every week.

The East Berlin city government announced that goods now blocked for sale to East Berliners working in West Berlin included automobiles, motor-scooters, TV sets, refrigerators, washing machines and sports boats.

Such goods are available in East Berlin Communists stores, although at exorbitant prices.

The announcement said that shoppers must prove they work in East Berlin before they can take such goods home.

The ban made it clear the Communists were bent on eliminating the economic privileges enjoyed by East Berliners working in West Berlin.

Under a West Berlin city regulation, these East Berliners received 60 per cent of their pay in East German currency and 40 per cent in West German money. The latter has a purchasing power more than four and a half times that of the East German mark.

The favorable exchange rate made East Berliners working in the Western sectors the best-paid residents of East Berlin, and the ones most likely to buy the luxury items in the Communist stores.

Vaccine For Common Cold Is Nearing

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—The scientific team which probably is the closest to understanding the common cold, now believes it may be possible for science to develop a vaccine against it.

No one should hold his breath until he is able to avoid that pesty scourge of mankind by getting himself vaccinated. But a big hurdle has been leaped—this team has demonstrated there are antibodies against it and the antibodies work.

This is the Sheffield-Salisbury team headed by Dr. D. A. J. Tyrrell of the University of Sheffield, England. Over the past year it has electrified the science of virology by making prisoners out of viruses which cause the common cold.

These viruses belong to one strain, Salisbury 1/57M. Undoubtedly there are other strains of common cold viruses. How many no one knows, but the number doesn't have to be a large one and it may turn out they're closely related.

The scientists got Salisbury 1/57M out of the nose of a man with a common cold. They've put these viruses into other people who then developed colds and they've recovered the viruses from these people.

Next they demonstrated that the blood of persons who had had Salisbury 1/57M multiplying in them to their intense discomfort, developed antibodies.

Now they've demonstrated that these antibodies are specifically anti-Salisbury 1/57M.

In human volunteers those with high blood levels of antibodies did not catch colds when the viruses were put into them. But those with low levels were infected with colds by the viruses.

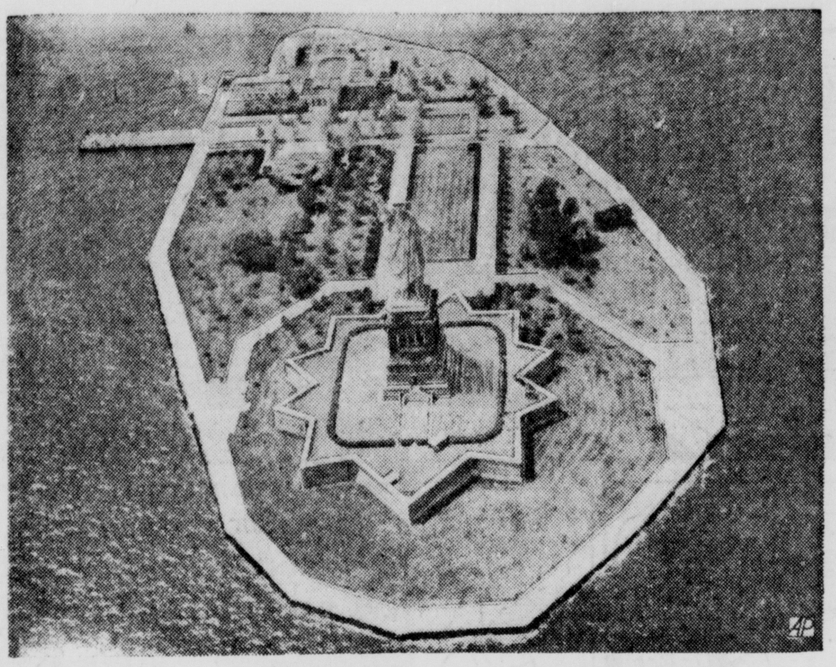
There were exceptions in these findings, which the scientists were unable to explain (with their present knowledge) in their report to the technical journla, "The Lancet." However, they said, the findings are "clear evidence that circulating antibody may protect against disease, and accordingly vaccination might be an effective prophylactic (preventive)."

Some of the beauties of the Salisbury - Sheffield experiments are purely technical. One is a technique for cultivating Salisbury 1/57M viruses in laboratory cultures of human and monkey cells. Another is a technique for measuring antibody levels in blood samples.

In their newest experiments they put the viruses into 54 volunteers. Only 16 developed colds. In 11 of them there were signifcant increases in blood antibody levels while the colds raged. These rises occurred also in three of those who did not come down with colds.

The viruses were applied to the volunteers by various routes—by viral material dropped into the nasal passages, by swabbing it into those passages and over the outer coating of the eyes, the conjunctiva.

They were "surprised" that the conjunctiva was an easy route of entry for the viruses—the volunteers developed colds but there were no eye symptoms. The nasal passages were the most cold-catching route, and the throat was the least. The throat, they said, "may be relatively resistant to infection."



THE LADY OF LIBERTY

Sonoma Fair Opens Run Next Week

SANTA ROSA—The 24th annual Sonoma County Fair will open July 19 for an all-day run in Santa Rosa.

For race fans, a new concrete and steel grandstand, erected since close of last year's fair at a cost of $1,300,000, will accommodate 5,181 persons.

For nightly horse shows, "buckarooder," roller derby and the professional western rodeo, an entirely new redwood and aluminum stand has been erected at the outdoor arena south of the race track.

A new stage with new lighting equipment and props has been installed in the outdoor starlight theater to accommodate a new policy of free professional stage shows twice daily, matinee and evening.

Among the features of the fair will be commercial and agricultural displays, two midways, a junior livestock sale of 440 lambs and a flower show.

Redwood Empire Assn. Meeting

Executive board members of the Redwood Empire Assn. will meet tomorrow and Friday at Hobergs Resort in Lake County, according to president Don Emerson.

On the agenda are highway priorities, a budget for the coming year, and an air-tour of Central and Southern California.

The association is scheduled to present its annual recommendations for highway construction in its nine counties on July 27 before the California Highway Commission in San Diego.

The National Park Service is recreating the Natchez Trace, a wilderness trail in Mississippi, as a scenic parkway.

Tiburon Tournament Winners Announced

The mixed doubles bisque tennis tournament winners at the Tiburon Peninsula Club's recent championship are Bud Willat and Mrs. William Ellinsen, who defeated Paul Huntzinger and Mrs. Brooke Halsey.

Consolation championship winners were Richard Adams and Mrs. Jane McCormick, who defeated Richard Friedman and Mrs. Ted Beardsley.

The Tiburon Peninsula Club was formerly known as the Southern Marin Recreation Center.

Planners Approve New Marin Drive-In Theater

Plans for a vast drive-in theater on the site of the old San Rafael trash dump were approved Monday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The commission approved an application by Blumenfeld Theaters for architectural supervision for the 1,001 seat theater on the Smith Brothers Ranch, outside the city limits and 1,400 feet east of Highway 101.

The commission, which began meeting at 9 a.m. and remained in session until 6:30 p.m., also approved plans for a commercial building to contain a post office, market and several shops on the ground floor and eight apartments overhead at the pedestrian entrance to Stinson Beach.

The action granted two use permits and an application for architectural supervision sought by L. A. Marsh.

In other actions, the commission:

1. Approved plans by Nor-Cal Engineering for construction of apartments on a portion of Red Hill in Tiburon east of Tiburon Boulevard.

2. Granted a use permit to Fred Rowley for building a church, Sunday School and other facilities on and about 1,000 feet beyond the present end of Rock Hill Drive above Hawthorne Terrace Subdivision No. 3 on the Tiburon Peninsula. Subject to filing of a tentative subdivision map and improvement of the access to the church.

3. Examined and set for new hearing July 24 a planned residential plan to develop Leslie Smith property between Vistazo West Street and the R. C. McNaught property of Crescent Heights in the Tiburon area.

4. Gave first hearing to a resolution of intention by Robert Farrar to a planned residential plan for his property north of Greenwood Lagoon bounded by future Cecelia Drive and Tiburon Boulevard on the Tiburon Peninsula.

5. Approved plans for additions to the Conservative Valley Baptist Church at 3 North San Pedro Road in the north San Rafael area, provided space is made for parking 25 cars.

6. Approved granting of use permit to Marin City Redevelopment Agency for a church at Drake Avenue between Eureka and Pacheco Streets in Marin City.

7. Approved a use permit to Marin City Redevelopment Agency for reconstruction of an existing sewage pumping station and a new control house and shop area on the southerly corner of Park Circle and Richardson Avenue, Marin City.

8. Approved street design changes but withheld approval on sewage plans for Bahia Del Norte No. 1, a subdivision of about 43 acres bounded on the south by lands of Wiemer and elsewhere by lands of the Novato Land Co., about 3,000 feet east of the intersection of Bugeia and H Lanes in the Novato area.

9. Approved application by Patrick Tarrant, developer of Las Collindas Subdivisions No. 6 and 7, in Terra Linda, to change Knocknaboul Way (named after his home town in Ireland) to Sandalwood Way (at request of homeowners now living there).

10. Continued to July 24 plans sought by Fred Daley for apartments on Merrydale Road near Las Gallinas Avenue north of San Rafael.

11. Continued to Aug. 8 consideration of a tentative map of Rancho Del Lago near Novato.

12. Agreed on the need for a Nicasio Valley Master Plan but delayed consideration until all other current community plans are finished.

13. Approved application by John E. Bowen for architectural approval on plans to add an office building and otherwise expand the Silver Hills Country Club, at 460 Olive Avenue, east of Novato.

14. Delayed possible protest of Marin's priority position for state funds for small craft harbors pending receipt of additional information.

Construction Of School Going Well

Construction of San Jose School District's new seventh-eighth grade school on San Jose Boulevard is "coming along well," but probably will not be completed in time for the September opening of classes, Supt. Phillip Schneider told the district board Monday night.

The 14-classroom San Jose School probably will be ready by October, the superintendent said. The scheduled completion date is November, but trustees had hoped for an earlier date.

The board elected Alan Swabacker as trustee representative to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

Agreements with the county superintendent's office were approved for county library services; audio-visual education service, and classroom for mentally retarded minors during 1961-62.

Mill Valley Realty Firm Addition Told

H. Wallace Hickman, 53, former Oakland automobile dealer and a resident of Ross, has joined the Mill Valley real estate firm of Cagwin-Seymour and Hamilton, it was announced yesterday.

Hickman will eventually run a proposed Kentfield-Ross branch office, said firm partner Kent O. Seymour. The firm's Mill Valley office is at 206 E. Blithedale Avenue.

Hickman's wife, Mrs. Margarette N. Hickman, is past president and a member of the board of directors of Sunny Hills Presbyterian Orphanage in San Anselmo.

For the past 23 years Hickman has been with the J. E. French Co., in automobile sales and service.

Vaccine For Common Cold Is Nearing

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—The scientific team which probably is the closest to understanding the common cold, now believes it may be possible for science to develop a vaccine against it.

No one should hold his breath until he is able to avoid that pesty scourge of mankind by getting himself vaccinated. But a big hurdle has been leaped—this team has demonstrated there are antibodies against it and the antibodies work.

This is the Sheffield-Salisbury team headed by Dr. D. A. J. Tyrrell of the University of Sheffield, England. Over the past year it has electrified the science of virology by making prisoners out of viruses which cause the common cold.

These viruses belong to one strain, Salisbury 1/57M. Undoubtedly there are other strains of common cold viruses. How many no one knows, but the number doesn't have to be a large one and it may turn out they're closely related.

The scientists got Salisbury 1/57M out of the nose of a man with a common cold. They've put these viruses into other people who then developed colds and they've recovered the viruses from these people.

Next they demonstrated that the blood of persons who had had Salisbury 1/57M multiplying in them to their intense discomfort, developed antibodies.

Now they've demonstrated that these antibodies are specifically anti-Salisbury 1/57M.

In human volunteers those with high blood levels of antibodies did not catch colds when the viruses were put into them. But those with low levels were infected with colds by the viruses.

There were exceptions in these findings, which the scientists were unable to explain (with their present knowledge) in their report to the technical journla, "The Lancet." However, they said, the findings are "clear evidence that circulating antibody may protect against disease, and accordingly vaccination might be an effective prophylactic (preventive)."

Some of the beauties of the Salisbury - Sheffield experiments are purely technical. One is a technique for cultivating Salisbury 1/57M viruses in laboratory cultures of human and monkey cells. Another is a technique for measuring antibody levels in blood samples.

In their newest experiments they put the viruses into 54 volunteers. Only 16 developed colds. In 11 of them there were significant increases in blood antibody levels while the colds raged. These rises occurred also in three of those who did not come down with colds.

The viruses were applied to the volunteers by various routes—by viral material dropped into the nasal passages, by swabbing it into those passages and over the outer coating of the eyes, the conjunctiva.

They were "surprised" that the conjunctiva was an easy route of entry for the viruses—the volunteers developed colds but there were no eye symptoms. The nasal passages were the most cold-catching route, and the throat was the least. The throat, they said, "may be relatively resistant to infection."

Kennedys Hosts To 140 Guests At Mount Vernon Dinner Party

Last night in Washington, D. C. about 140 guests boarded boats for a cruise down the Potomac. They docked at the Mount Vernon landing, where a fife and drum corps in Colonial dress greeted the three yachts and another boat.

After guests debarked on the landing they were taken up the hill overlooking the Potomac to the historic home of George Washington where President and Mrs. Kennedy were hosts at a state dinner served in a pavilion on the lawn, honoring President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan and his daughter, Nasir Akhtar Aurangzeb.

For the evening of socializing, entertainment and French cuisine, Mrs. Kennedy wore a tight-fitting long dress of white lace bound at the waist with a Nile green cummerbund. Her stole was of matching green. The President wore formal dinner attire, with black silk dinner jacket.

During the evening guests able to wander through the Washington home and grounds. The party idea was inspired by the fabulous dinner given the Kenedys at the Palace of Versailles when they visited France this year.

The candlelight dinner was served in a pavilion built for the party and having tent top and hard floor covered with green grasslike carpeting. Dinner was prepared by the White House chef.

The menu included avocado and crabmeat mimosa, poulet chasseur couronne re de riz clamart (chicken and rice), framboises a la creme chantilly (raspberries and cream), petit fours, demitasse and liqueurs.

Guests dined from a gold service. Strolling musicians from the Air Force string ensemble played as the guests ate at round tables for eight.

For the after-dinner entertainment, the Kennedys booked the entire National Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Lloyd Geisler.

Kennedy was host on the Honey Fitz, which also had a dance band for the one and a quarter hour cruise. Ayub's daughter and son-in-law were passengers with Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy was the hostess on the yacht Sequoia with Ayub and House Speaker Sam Rayburn the principal travelers.

Now You Can Wear Shoe On Either Foot, They Say

Fontana Sisters of Rome put the interchangeable shoes on display at the opening of the high fashion season of 1961-62. They called them an "absolutely new concept."

"They aren't really new even if they are revolutionary," a spokesman admitted. "Actually we got the idea when we found an old form which had been buried in the basement of our storeroom 100 years ago."

The shoes put on show were mostly casual styles. Toes were rounded or squared off and the heels were usually only one inch high. The secret was contained in what the Fontana Sisters called "the form of the shoe itself."

Albanese of Rome introduced the "duck shoe" for lounging. There was the face of a duck on the front of a black velvet shoe, with a gold-gilded beak and the heel was the replica of a duck's foot in gold.

The Italians have been long established pioneers in shoe designing. It was considered likely they would continue the movement begun last January to soften pointed toes and nail-sized heels so evident the past few years.

Three Silhouettes Fashionable In Shape Of Coatings For Fall

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — The coating news for fall is all sugar. For, any silhouette you select in coats will be fashionable.

Coat shapes fall into three major categories—the reefer, the "body conscious" which hints at the shape of the figure instead of hugging it, and the voluminous cape coats.

The reefer is lean and narrow, usually cut on cardigan lines, and often double-breasted. The body conscious is like the old-time princess, with flare at the hemline. The cape shape has exaggerated fullness from shoulder to hem, with low-placed armholes, dropped shoulder line, and bell-shaped sleeves.

These are the major styles to emerge in the fall and winter collections from members of the New York Couture Group, holding its press week for visiting reporters this week.

Coat lengths remain as short as suits, or just covering the knee. Fox, leopard, mink and beaver trims are numerous, used mostly for collars. By contrast, many coats are collarless, or have small standup collars to provide a good background for your own furs.

Coat fabrics include spongy wools, ottomans, woven plaids and checks, and knits. In color, look for continued popularity of the bright greens, reds and blues. In neutrals, there are more browns and beiges than blacks or grays.

CAPE SHAPES

Typical of the new coats are those that have have back fullness, sleeves set deep and chopped off at the elbow or barely below it. There are many of the cape shapes. Most coats are collarless.

Now, by individual manufacturer, here are highlights of other collections shown yesterday:

Junior Sophisticates. Designer Anne Klein took inspiration for fall from cowboys, horses and shaggy dogs. Several daytime dresses were cut on chemise lines, with wide leather belts slung low at the side like the cowboy wears his belt and holster.

Several coats came in horse blanket plaids, copied both in color and scale from those on the mounted police beat. And a group of shaggy dog dresses were of long-nap orlon, which looked like fake fur.

SLIGHT FLARE

Nat Kaplan. The manufacturer showed cutaway jackets and slightly flared skirts in the suit division. Belts on dresses were shaped to rest on the upper hip bone. In late day clothes, fringes trimmed buttons, pocket flaps, scarf ends, jacket edges and hemlines. One short formal of white chiffon had an eight-inch-wide circle of white ostrich banding the hem. The same banding was repeated on a matching chiffon stole.

Ben Reig. This is a conservative, and costly, house where the simple black dress may cost $300. Reig's suits featured jackets just below the waist, three-quarter length sleeves and skirts either straight and severe or softened with swing pleats or panel flares. The newest suit jacket is what Reig called the breakfront.

SO SLEEVELESS

Pattullo-Jo Copeland. Designer Copeland featured a loosely-fitted silhouette, with what shaping there was managed with seaming, pleats or a bias cut of the fabric. There were Jacqueline Kennedy type overblouses galore, and so many sleeveless dresses that the firm announced it would sew in some arm protection if store buyers requested it.

Edward Abbott. Designer Wilson Folmar liked the looks of a classic costume such as a cardigan sweater over a slim-cut dress done to the nines in glitter for evening. Short formals in brocade came with matching brocade cardigans. Chiffons came with chiffon sweaters covered entirely with paillettes.

WHEN THE coat is removed and what is underneath becomes important, Junior Sophisticate offers this sleeveless, loose-fitting paisley brocade blouse with a black flared chiffon skirt. The style, making a two-tiered silhouette, was among those shown at the New York Couture Group preview of fall and winter fashions yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Former Resident Heads District Of Coast Guard

Friends in Mill Valley were delighted to learn that Coast Guard Rear Adm. Allen Winbeck assumed command last week of the Western Area and 12th Coast Guard District.

A graduate of the Coast Guard Academy, Admiral Winbeck came from duty as commander of the 13th Coast Guard District in Seattle, Wash.

The Winbecks, who are living on Yerba Buena Island, lived in Mill Valley for three years at one time and two years at another.

The new Coast Guard 12th District commander's present responsibilities include the search and rescue program, mobilization planning and the operational readiness program in this area.

Graduating Nurse

Sally Jo McMartin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McMartin of Fairfax, will be graduated from Kaiser Foundation School of Nursing in Oakland Friday. She is president of Division IV, Student Nurses Assn. of California.

Susan Halsey Wed In Sacramento Rite

The Fremont Presbyterian Church in Sacramento was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Susan Patricia Halsey of Sacramento and Walter Appelgren of Fair Oaks.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Halsey of Sacramento formerly of San Rafael. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Norman S. Halsey of San Rafael and the late Dr. Halsey and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pitcher of San Rafael, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Pitcher of San Rafael.

Officiating for the wedding at 8 o'clock was the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Walter N. Appelgren of Fair Oaks.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Swiss organdy over taffeta.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Katherine Halsey, the bride's sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Sherry Halsey, the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Martin (Joan Pitcher) of Reno, and Mrs. Richard Christian of Los Angeles. They wore gowns of pale pink organza and taffeta.

Eugene Colussy of Colorado Springs was best man. Ushering guests to their seats were Merwin Rose of Sacramento; Sheldon Stein of Davis and Ralph Huntsinger of Sacramento.

A reception for 100 guests in the gardens of the Halsey home followed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from McClatchy High School and attended Sacramento City College. She was graduated from Sacramento State College and will teach in the Fair Oaks schools in the fall. Her sorority is Sigma Phi Kappa.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Appelgren, is a chemistry instructor at Sacramento City College. He was graduated from Northwestern University and received the master's degree from the University of Michigan. He is a Pi Alpha Kappa.

Luncheon Honors Paul Stouffer

Honored guest at a luncheon at Sabella's last week was Paul R. Stouffer, who recently resigned as superintendent of the Reed Union School District to become business manager.

Hosting the party were members of the outgoing and incoming boards of directors of the Reed District Parent Teacher Club. Attending were members of the board of trustees, principals, teachers and office staff.

Mrs. Benton D. Mathews, outgoing club president, and John Fitch, principal of the Bel Aire School, each presented him with gifts in behalf of their organizations.

Home is the sailor—and with a big bass in his bag! It deserves a zippy Tartar Sauce, like this: Combine ½ teaspoon each, FRENCH'S Tarragon, Parsley, Celery Salt and Onion Salt, crumbling the herbs finely. Fold into 1 cup mayonnaise; add 2 tablespoons sweet pickle, ½ teaspoon horseradish and 1 tablespoon capers. Mix well and chill; serve with fish.

Gardening builds an appetite, no doubt about that. Chili Cheesewiches are quick and zesty; you'll like them, too. Butter sliced buns and cover half with cheese, half with wieners. Broil five minutes, or until cheese is melted and "dogs" are hot. Heat VAN CAMP'S Chili Con Carne with Beans and pour over the wieners and cheese. Serve immediately to a hungry man!

A sandwich and a salad makes a pleasant card luncheon. When it's your turn as hostess, serve this conversation piece sandwich: Chop ¾ cup cooked chicken and blend with 1 4-oz. can ROYAL TREAT Sliced Mushrooms, ⅓ cup diced celery and ⅓ cup mayonnaise. Season and blend well. Use as filling for four to six luncheon sandwiches or 24 tea sandwiches.

"And how will you have your eggs, sir?" "With cereal and bacon," gurgles the baby. For just like Dad, he now can eat bacon and eggs, in GERBER'S Strained Cereal, Egg Yolks and Bacon. Tiny babies like the pleasing flavor and smooth, moist texture of the new breakfast treat; mothers like the fact that the cereal is ready to serve, no measuring or milk necessary.

Summer parties often are impromptu affairs, but when there's a can of WHITE STAR Tuna present, creamed dishes or salads take little time. And this tuna gives them fine flavor. Mermaid Dip, for instance: Mix an 8-oz. package cream cheese with ½ cup condensed onion soup, then blend in a 9½ oz. can WHITE STAR Tuna—a delectable dunk, easy as 1-2-3!

Sand in the salad, ants in the aspic, hornets in the hot dogs—that's what picnics used to be! But times are different; REYNOLDS Wrap Aluminum Foil keeps food intact all the way from home to the beach grill, then wraps in the juice and flavors while it cooks. Sun lotion, wet bathing suits, baby's bottle and leftovers, all travel comfortably in REYNOLDS Wrap these days.

Fashions are "relaxed"; why not be that way in the kitchen, too? Use products which have several purposes and save shopping time, storage space. CHALLENGE Salad and Cooking Oil is one of these; it can be re-used many times for frying; it does not pick up odors, and it is a light oil for salads, for baking pans and molds. Try CHALLENGE in your next chiffon cake!

★ For summer parties: a beautiful pink and white hostess apron at less than half! Send $1.25 with label from any Bonnie Hubbard product to Bonnie Hubbard Hostess Apron, Box 62, Los Angeles 51.

Household cleansers usually are hidden from sight. But the new quart bottle of PUREX Bleach is a turquoise-colored plastic which looks almost like a cosmetic bottle, at home anywhere. Also: it is safer to handle, easier to pour; shatterproof but light—it was made for a woman's hands. And PUREX is full-strength bleach, which cleans and sanitizes at once.

That's all for now! See you next week!

NEW YORK — The coating news for fall is all sugar. For, any silhouette you select in coats will be fashionable.

Coat shapes fall into three major categories—the reefer, the "body conscious" which hints at the shape of the figure instead of hugging it, and the voluminous cape coats.

The reefer is lean and narrow, usually cut on cardigan lines, and often double-breasted. The body conscious is like the old-time princess, with flare at the hemline. The cape shape has exaggerated fullness from shoulder to hem, with low-placed armholes, dropped shoulder line, and bell-shaped sleeves.

These are the major styles to emerge in the fall and winter collections from members of the New York Couture Group, holding its press week for visiting reporters this week.

Coat lengths remain as short as suits, or just covering the knee. Fox, leopard, mink and beaver trims are numerous, used mostly for collars. By contrast, many coats are collarless, or have small standup collars to provide a good background for your own furs.

Coat fabrics include spongy wools, ottomans, woven plaids and checks, and knits. In color, look for continued popularity of the bright greens, reds and blues. In neutrals, there are more browns and beiges than blacks or grays.

CAPE SHAPES

Typical of the new coats are those that have have back fullness, sleeves set deep and chopped off at the elbow or barely below it. There are many of the cape shapes. Most coats are collarless.

Now, by individual manufacturer, here are highlights of other collections shown yesterday:

Junior Sophisticates. Designer Anne Klein took inspiration for fall from cowboys, horses and shaggy dogs. Several daytime dresses were cut on chemise lines, with wide leather belts slung low at the side like the cowboy wears his belt and holster.

Several coats came in horse blanket plaids, copied both in color and scale from those on the mounted police beat. And a group of shaggy dog dresses were of long-nap orlon, which looked like fake fur.

SLIGHT FLARE

Nat Kaplan. The manufacturer showed cutaway jackets and slightly flared skirts in the suit division. Belts on dresses were shaped to rest on the upper hip bone. In late day clothes, fringes trimmed buttons, pocket flaps, scarf ends, jacket edges and hemlines. One short formal of white chiffon had an eight-inch-wide circle of white ostrich banding the hem. The same banding was repeated on a matching chiffon stole.

Ben Reig. This is a conservative, and costly, house where the simple black dress may cost $300. Reig's suits featured jackets just below the waist, three-quarter length sleeves and skirts either straight and severe or softened with swing pleats or panel flares. The newest suit jacket is what Reig called the breakfront.

SO SLEEVELESS

Pattullo-Jo Copeland. Designer Copeland featured a loosely-fitted silhouette, with what shaping there was managed with seaming, pleats or a bias cut of the fabric. There were Jacqueline Kennedy type overblouses galore, and so many sleeveless dresses that the firm announced it would sew in some arm protection if store buyers requested it.

Edward Abbott. Designer Wilson Folmar liked the looks of a classic costume such as a cardigan sweater over a slim-cut dress done to the nines in glitter for evening. Short formals in brocade came with matching brocade cardigans. Chiffons came with chiffon sweaters covered entirely with paillettes.

WHEN THE coat is removed and what is underneath becomes important, Junior Sophisticate offers this sleeveless, loose-fitting paisley brocade blouse with a black flared chiffon skirt. The style, making a two-tiered silhouette, was among those shown at the New York Couture Group preview of fall and winter fashions yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Kennedys Hosts To 140 Guests At Mount Vernon Dinner Party

Last night in Washington, D. C. about 140 guests boarded boats for a cruise down the Potomac. They docked at the Mount Vernon landing, where a fife and drum corps in Colonial dress greeted the three yachts and another boat.

After guests debarked on the landing they were taken up the hill overlooking the Potomac to the historic home of George Washington where President and Mrs. Kennedy were hosts at a state dinner served in a pavilion on the lawn, honoring President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan and his daughter, Nasir Akhtar Aurangzeb.

For the evening of socializing, entertainment and French cuisine, Mrs. Kennedy wore a tight-fitting long dress of white lace bound at the waist with a Nile green cummerbund. Her stole was of matching green. The President wore formal dinner attire, with black silk dinner jacket.

During the evening guests able to wander through the Washington home and grounds. The party idea was inspired by the fabulous dinner given the Kenedys at the Palace of Versailles when they visited France this year.

The candlelight dinner was served in a pavilion built for the party and having tent top and hard floor covered with green grasslike carpeting. Dinner was prepared by the White House chef.

The menu included avocado and crabmeat mimosa, poulet chasseur couronne re de riz clamart (chicken and rice), framboises a la creme chantilly (raspberries and cream), petit fours, demitasse and liqueurs.

Guests dined from a gold service. Strolling musicians from the Air Force string ensemble played as the guests ate at round tables for eight.

For the after-dinner entertainment, the Kennedys booked the entire National Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Lloyd Geisler.

Kennedy was host on the Honey Fitz, which also had a dance band for the one and a quarter hour cruise. Ayub's daughter and son-in-law were passengers with Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy was the hostess on the yacht Sequoia with Ayub and House Speaker Sam Rayburn the principal travelers.

Now You Can Wear Shoe On Either Foot, They Say

Fontana Sisters of Rome put the interchangeable shoes on display at the opening of the high fashion season of 1961-62. They called them an "absolutely new concept."

"They aren't really new even if they are revolutionary," a spokesman admitted. "Actually we got the idea when we found an old form which had been buried in the basement of our storeroom 100 years ago."

The shoes put on show were mostly casual styles. Toes were rounded or squared off and the heels were usually only one inch high. The secret was contained in what the Fontana Sisters called "the form of the shoe itself."

Albanese of Rome introduced the "duck shoe" for lounging. There was the face of a duck on the front of a black velvet shoe, with a gold-gilded beak and the heel was the replica of a duck's foot in gold.

The Italians have been long established pioneers in shoe designing. It was considered likely they would continue the movement begun last January to soften pointed toes and nail-sized heels so evident the past few years.

Former Resident Heads District Of Coast Guard

Friends in Mill Valley were delighted to learn that Coast Guard Rear Adm. Allen Winbeck assumed command last week of the Western Area and 12th Coast Guard District.

A graduate of the Coast Guard Academy, Admiral Winbeck came from duty as commander of the 13th Coast Guard District in Seattle, Wash.

The Winbecks, who are living on Yerba Buena Island, lived in Mill Valley for three years at one time and two years at another.

The new Coast Guard 12th District commander's present responsibilities include the search and rescue program, mobilization planning and the operational readiness program in this area.

Graduating Nurse

Sally Jo McMartin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McMartin of Fairfax, will be graduated from Kaiser Foundation School of Nursing in Oakland Friday. She is president of Division IV, Student Nurses Assn. of California.

Susan Halsey Wed In Sacramento Rite

The Fremont Presbyterian Church in Sacramento was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Susan Patricia Halsey of Sacramento and Walter Appelgren of Fair Oaks.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Halsey of Sacramento formerly of San Rafael. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Norman S. Halsey of San Rafael and the late Dr. Halsey and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pitcher of San Rafael, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Pitcher of San Rafael.

Officiating for the wedding at 8 o'clock was the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Walter N. Appelgren of Fair Oaks.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Swiss organdy over taffeta.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Katherine Halsey, the bride's sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Sherry Halsey, the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Martin (Joan Pitcher) of Reno, and Mrs. Richard Christian of Los Angeles. They wore gowns of pale pink organza and taffeta.

Eugene Colussy of Colorado Springs was best man. Ushering guests to their seats were Merwin Rose of Sacramento; Sheldon Stein of Davis and Ralph Huntsinger of Sacramento.

A reception for 100 guests in the gardens of the Halsey home followed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from McClatchy High School and attended Sacramento City College. She was graduated from Sacramento State College and will teach in the Fair Oaks schools in the fall. Her sorority is Sigma Phi Kappa.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Appelgren, is a chemistry instructor at Sacramento City College. He was graduated from Northwestern University and received the master's degree from the University of Michigan. He is a Pi Alpha Kappa.

Luncheon Honors Paul Stouffer

Honored guest at a luncheon at Sabella's last week was Paul R. Stouffer, who recently resigned as superintendent of the Reed Union School District to become business manager.

Hosting the party were members of the outgoing and incoming boards of directors of the Reed District Parent Teacher Club. Attending were members of the board of trustees, principals, teachers and office staff.

Mrs. Benton D. Mathews, outgoing club president, and John Fitch, principal of the Bel Aire School, each presented him with gifts in behalf of their organizations.

Bonnie Hubbard's KUPBOARD®

FUN WITH FOOD AND HELPFUL HINTS

Home is the sailor—and with a big bass in his bag! It deserves a zippy Tartar Sauce, like this: Combine ½ teaspoon each, FRENCH'S Tarragon, Parsley, Celery Salt and Onion Salt, crumbling the herbs finely. Fold into 1 cup mayonnaise; add 2 tablespoons sweet pickle, ½ teaspoon horseradish and 1 tablespoon capers. Mix well and chill; serve with fish.

Gardening builds an appetite, no doubt about that. Chili Cheesewiches are quick and zesty; you'll like them, too. Butter sliced buns and cover half with cheese, half with wieners. Broil five minutes, or until cheese is melted and "dogs" are hot. Heat VAN CAMP'S Chili Con Carne with Beans and pour over the wieners and cheese. Serve immediately to a hungry man!

A sandwich and a salad makes a pleasant card luncheon. When it's your turn as hostess, serve this conversation piece sandwich: Chop ¾ cup cooked chicken and blend with 1 4-oz. can ROYAL TREAT Sliced Mushrooms, ½ cup diced celery and ⅓ cup mayonnaise. Season and blend well. Use as filling for four to six luncheon sandwiches or 24 tea sandwiches.

"And how will you have your eggs, sir?" "With cereal and bacon," gurgles the baby. For just like Dad, he now can eat bacon and eggs, in GERBER'S Strained Cereal, Egg Yolks and Bacon. Tiny babies like the pleasing flavor and smooth, moist texture of the new breakfast treat; mothers like the fact that the cereal is ready to serve, no measuring or milk necessary.

Summer parties often are impromptu affairs, but when there's a can of WHITE STAR Tuna present, creamed dishes or salads take little time. And this tuna gives them fine flavor. Mermaid Dip, for instance: Mix an 8-oz. package cream cheese with ½ cup condensed onion soup, then blend in a 9½ oz. can WHITE STAR Tuna—a delectable dunk, easy as 1-2-3!

Sand in the salad, ants in the aspic, hornets in the hot dogs—that's what picnics used to be! But times are different; REYNOLDS Wrap Aluminum Foil keeps food intact all the way from home to the beach grill, then wraps in the juice and flavors while it cooks. Sun lotion, wet bathing suits, baby's bottle and leftovers, all travel comfortably in REYNOLDS Wrap these days.

Fashions are "relaxed"; why not be that way in the kitchen, too? Use products which have several purposes and save shopping time, storage space. CHALLENGE Salad and Cooking Oil is one of these; it can be re-used many times for frying; it does not pick up odors, and it is a light oil for salads, for baking pans and molds. Try CHALLENGE in your next chiffon cake!

★ For summer parties: a beautiful pink and white hostess apron at less than half! Send $1.25 with label from any Bonnie Hubbard product to Bonnie Hubbard Hostess Apron, Box 62, Los Angeles 51.

Household cleansers usually are hidden from sight. But the new quart bottle of PUREX Bleach is a turquoise-colored plastic which looks almost like a cosmetic bottle, at home anywhere. Also: it is safer to handle, easier to pour; shatterproof but light—it was made for a woman's hands. And PUREX is full-strength bleach, which cleans and sanitizes at once.

That's all for now! See you next week! Bonnie Hubbard

Housewares Turn Up With First Family's Influence

By JOYCE SCHULLER

CHICAGO (UPI)—Even housewares are beginning to reflect the tastes of President Kennedy and his wife, judging by the 35th National Housewares Show.

The President's influence showed up in the many rocking chairs featured in the new line of unpainted furniture.

Evidence that the First Lady's bouffant hairdo is catching on lay in the many new home hair dryers with extra-large hoods to accommodate the jumbo rollers needed to set the Jackie hairdo. One manufacturer showed an inexpensive oversize replacement hood to bring old home hair dryers up to date for the bouffant hairdos.

Many of the new products reflected the early American design influence. A modern high-speed wall-mounted can opener, for example, was designed in black wrought iron to look like an antique.

An electric-powered vibrating toothbrush was designed for dentists. The brush part detaches so one motor can be used for the whole family.

Another new health product, the automatic moving sun lamp with safety timer, takes all the guesswork out of home suntanning. Strung up on a horizontal cord, it slides along by electricity to tan the user from head to foot. A pre-set dail controls the number of round trips the lamp makes before shutting off.

Among the show stoppers were plastic flower pots that let air in to prevent root rot and let excess water evaporate; electric frypans that bake as well as fry, braise, pan-proil and stew; a steam-dry iron with cord that adjusts for left-handed users; a spray that prevents food from sticking to the inside of ovens, and an electric brochette for shish kebob.

Miss Hollman, Dean Lassahn Wed In Fairfax

The Rev. James Upshaw was the officiating minister at the Fairfax Community Church Sunday when Geraldine Ann Hollmann of Woodacre became the bride of Dean Wayne Lassahn of Los Altos.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton M. Hollmann of Woodacre. The bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Altha Lassahn of Mason City, Iowa.

The double ring ceremony took place at 4 o'clock. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white lace and taffeta.

Judith Joslin of Woodacre, as maid of honor, wore a gown of lavender brocade with chiffon overskirt.

Patrick Carty of Mill Valley was best man. Ushers included Milton Hollman Jr., the bride's brother, and Larry Clement of San Rafael.

A reception followed the ceremony in Burgar Hall of the church.

The bride, who is the sister of Barbara, Milton, Sharon and Karen Hollmann of Woodacre, attended Sir Francis Drake High School. She plans to complete her senior year at Los Altos, where the couple will make their home.

The bridegroom recently completed service in the U. S. Air Force.

Daily Headlines Prove That We Need Psychiatric Clinics

Do we need psychiatric clinics for children? The answer is "yes." Read the headlines, and you'll see why. Here are three headlines you may have noticed.

BOY KILLS MOTHER OF THREE. A boy walked into a strange house. The woman who lived there told him to leave. He raised a gun and shot her. He said he was looking for thrills. He is 15.

GIRL KILLS FATHER. A girl of 14 lost her temper with her dad. He had been trying to make her clean up her room. She grabbed a gun and shot him. Afterward she was not sorry. "He was always bothering me," she said.

BOY CHOKES GIRL. A 17-year-old boy was on a date. The girl was 16. He tried to get fresh. The girl repulsed him. He lost control of himself. He choked her until she died. Then he drove to the police station, and turned over the body.

Do we need psychiatric clinics for young people? As I say, the answer is "yes." We have bloodthirsty, unbalanced, mentally ill kids in all parts of the country. For every one who carries out his impulses there are a hundred who manage to restrain themselves. They come close to committing murder but don't quite do it.

Nearly all the killings could be prevented. Many teenage murderers show symptoms of mental illness years in advance of trouble. If they could be given the right mental health treatment they could change. They could become good citizens. But when no help is available, tragedies are inevitable.

Is there a psychiatric clinic for children in your city? I suggest you check and see.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Is mental illness common in children?"

A.R.

(A) Severe mental illness is rare. However many children have neurotic problems which will become severe later in life if not treated. Probably one youngster in ten would benefit by special attention in a good psychiatric clinic at one time or another in his childhood.

Another new health product, the automatic moving sun lamp with safety timer, takes all the guesswork out of home suntanning. Strung up on a horizontal cord, it slides along by electricity to tan the user from head to foot. A pre-set dail controls the number of round trips the lamp makes before shutting off.

Among the show stoppers were plastic flower pots that let air in to prevent root rot and let excess water evaporate; electric frypans that bake as well as fry, braise, pan-proil and stew; a steam-dry iron with cord that adjusts for left-handed users; a spray that prevents food from sticking to the inside of ovens, and an electric brochette for shish kebob.

Daily Headlines Prove That We Need Psychiatric Clinics

Do we need psychiatric clinics for children? The answer is "yes." Read the headlines, and you'll see why. Here are three headlines you may have noticed.

BOY KILLS MOTHER OF THREE. A boy walked into a strange house. The woman who lived there told him to leave. He raised a gun and shot her. He said he was looking for thrills. He is 15.

GIRL KILLS FATHER. A girl of 14 lost her temper with her dad. He had been trying to make her clean up her room. She grabbed a gun and shot him. Afterward she was not sorry. "He was always bothering me," she said.

BOY CHOKES GIRL. A 17-year-old boy was on a date. The girl was 16. He tried to get fresh. The girl repulsed him. He lost control of himself. He choked her until she died. Then he drove to the police station, and turned over the body.

Do we need psychiatric clinics for young people? As I say, the answer is "yes." We have bloodthirsty, unbalanced, mentally ill kids in all parts of the country. For every one who carries out his impulses there are a hundred who manage to restrain themselves. They come close to committing murder but don't quite do it.

Nearly all the killings could be prevented. Many teenage murderers show symptoms of mental illness years in advance of trouble. If they could be given the right mental health treatment they could change. They could become good citizens. But when no help is available, tragedies are inevitable.

Is there a psychiatric clinic for children in your city? I suggest you check and see.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Is mental illness common in children?"

A.R.

(A) Severe mental illness is rare. However many children have neurotic problems which will become severe later in life if not treated. Probably one youngster in ten would benefit by special attention in a good psychiatric clinic at one time or another in his childhood.

MANNEQUIN LEAGUE PARTY SET JULY 23 ABOARD CABIN CRUISER

"Fun-Time on the Fan-Tail" is the theme of the July 23 cocktail party to be given by the Mannequin League of Marin for members, their husbands and guests aboard Capt. E. I. Veitch's 66-foot cabin cruiser the "Arequipa."

The "frolic" is to be in two locales, at berth 113, San Francisco Yacht Harbor and at the dock on the San Rafael Canal at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant.

Captain Veitch and League hostesses Mrs. Norman Sanguinetti and Mrs. William R. Deeths will welcome aboard members in the early afternoon at the "Arequipa's" berth 113 in the Marina and later when the boat will dock at Dominic's pier in San Rafael where cocktails will be served at 1600 (4 p.m.)

The affair is a triple celebration for the League. In the fall of 1959 the just organized volunteer model group held a get-acquainted party aboard the "Arequipa." The July 23 party is a repeat-by-request of that social event.

The second phase of the celebration is to mark the Mannequin League's participation "for fun and for charity" in more than 85 fashion benefit shows to date throughout the Bay Area. And third, the members will salute all who worked in staging and modeling the fashions at the fountain in the Art and Garden Center, Ross on opening night of the Marin County Fair.

Mrs. Lewis Denton is chairman of the encore nautical party assisted by Mesdames Victor Burner Jr., Edson Adams, Richard Evans and John Hackney Jr.

Second Session Will Open For Summer Program In Ross

Tennis and swimming openings remain for the second session of the Ross Parent-Teacher summer activities program. The second session begins tomorrow and will continue until July 28.

A new course for advanced intermediate tennis has been added to the second session program. In addition, instruction will again be given to non-players, beginners, and intermediates.

Classes are for 50 minutes daily on courts located at the Dominican Fathers Seminary, Kentfield, and at the Katharine Branson School, Ross.

Second session swimming also has some openings remaining. Intermediate and advanced swimmers will be taught at the pool of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Sederberg, Ross. Beginners and non-swimmers will be taught at the Wagner d'Alessios' pool, Ross.

A new course in Junior Life-Saving, with Red Cross certificates being issued, begins Monday at the J. William Zimmermans' pool, Kentfield.

Mrs. Edward Neumeier, director, is taking registrations.

New Towel Holder

An unusual feature of a new towel holder is a spring-operated, self-adjusting pressure bar that holds fabrics firmly in place without slipping or dropping. Made of durable white or pastel plastic, this "holdry" is easy to install on walls, doors, or kitchen cabinets. It's handy for drying towels, washcloths, dishtowels, and hand-laundered "smalls."

Mill Valleyan Has 88th Birthday Fete

MRS. HARVEY KLYCE

Mrs. Harvey A. Klyce, Mill Valley's oldest resident—from the standpoint of years of residence — celebrated her 88th birthday Sunday at a family dinner party in her home, where she has lived over 60 years.

Carrie Klyce, who is the only living founder of the Outdoor Art Club and the only living charter member of Mill Valley Chapter 219, Order of the Eastern Star, came to Mill Valley as a bride in 1895.

One of the town's most beloved people, Mrs. Klyce was, as usual, showered with cards and gifts from many friends.

Requested for the secret of her bright outlook on life and ever cheerful disposition, she quoted this poem:

"Good thoughts are blessed guests
And to me are daily welcomed
As I hold them to my breast.
Like rose leaves they give out
A sweet scent, laid up in my jar of memory."

Present for the dinner were Mrs. Klyce's daughter, Mrs. Marian Andre, a widow, who lives with her; her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Marsili of Mill Valley, with her husband; her son, Herbert Klyce of Menlo Park, with his wife; and Charles Christian of San Rafael.

Her son, Melvin Klyce of Mill Valley, and his wife were on vacation in Canada.

Raven Tresses Are Favored In Exotic Colored Fashions

Gentlemen may prefer blondes but gentlemen designers on the whole favor tall raven-haired females to enhance the exotic hues and classic lines of their winter fashions.

As a panacea for blondes a cosmetics company announced a new product soon to be marketed which will fashionably temporarily darken crowning glories, and add brown highlights to already black tresses.

Then, as if to drive home the point, stylists Paul Barnes, Marquise, and Harvey Berin spent the afternoon lining the runway with models in dull greens, deep grape and wine, burnt orange, mustard yellows, and blue red hues, which are definitely more flattering to brunettes. (AP)

BATTLE WON OVER CROPS IN INDIANA

Federal Judge Rules In Farmer's Favor In Review Of Fine

MARION, Ind. (UPI) — Farmer Samuel Blinn said today he's disappointed because it took him 23 years to whip the federal government.

He's won a battle, but not the war in his dogged campaign against government crop controls.

The battle was won when a federal judge last month reversed an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) review committee. The committee had fined Blinn $475 for planting two-tenths of an acre more wheat than his county ASC committee had allotted him.

23-YEAR FIGHT

Judge Robert A. Grant did not rule on Blinn's charge that the entire Agricultural Adjustment Act is unconstitutional. But he did say the ASC had failed to prove definitely that Blinn had planted more than 15.2 acres of wheat.

Blinn, who farms near Marion, has spent 23 years fighting farm controls and five years battling the ASC ruling. He said he was grateful to his lawyer, Clifford E. Simon Jr. of Fort Wayne, Ind., and to the judge.

"But I'm quite disappointed that it took 23 years to get enough legal talent marshalled to do something about these bureaucrats who are running a private little kingdom," he said.

"I was hoping that we had them where we could get the law knocked out, but the judge closed the door on that."

ANOTHER SUIT

Blinn said he would confer with Simon next week to determine if another suit should be filed, possibly for damages because of the money spent to finance his legal battle, and to compensate him for being denied the right to raise or sell wheat for three years.

But Simon, who also was the attorney who handled the earlier and unsuccessful case of another Indiana farmer, Ethan Stangland, who battled over crop limits, said:

"I think it's gotten to the point now that it will take legislation to undo the wrong. I doubt if the courts can undo it."

'SYSTEM WRONG'

Simon charged that the whole system of controlling crops is an affront to democracy, and a denial of a right to trial by jury. He cited figures that in Indiana's Grant County alone, only 395 farmers were ruled eligible to vote in the wheat referendum by the local committee setting allotments. Only 40 of these voted, although there are nearly 2,000 farmers in the county, Simon said.

Blinn, a hard-working farmer with eight children, termed himself a "cattle, hog and turkey man" who farms about 200 acres and has another 300 acres in range land.

"I work on a farm where I lay my hands on things my Granddaddy did and my Dad did," he said. "I've got sons and I am not going to turn everything over to these rascals without a struggle."

Marin Pianists On Television

Milton and Peggy Salkind, Mill Valley concert pianists and teachers, will play a program of music for four hands, one piano, as part of television station KQED's Summer Music Festival Friday, at 8:30 p.m.

They will play selections from Mozart, Schubert, Debussy, Poulenc, and Richard Swift, a University of California composer.

BATTLE WON OVER CROPS IN INDIANA

Federal Judge Rules In Farmer's Favor In Review Of Fine

MARION, Ind. (UPI) — Farmer Samuel Blinn said today he's disappointed because it took him 23 years to whip the federal government.

He's won a battle, but not the war in his dogged campaign against government crop controls.

The battle was won when a federal judge last month reversed an Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) review committee. The committee had fined Blinn $475 for planting two-tenths of an acre more wheat than his county ASC committee had allotted him.

23-YEAR FIGHT

Judge Robert A. Grant did not rule on Blinn's charge that the entire Agricultural Adjustment Act is unconstitutional. But he did say the ASC had failed to prove definitely that Blinn had planted more than 15.2 acres of wheat.

Blinn, who farms near Marion, has spent 23 years fighting farm controls and five years battling the ASC ruling. He said he was grateful to his lawyer, Clifford E. Simon Jr. of Fort Wayne, Ind., and to the judge.

"But I'm quite disappointed that it took 23 years to get enough legal talent marshalled to do something about these bureaucrats who are running a private little kingdom," he said.

"I was hoping that we had them where we could get the law knocked out, but the judge closed the door on that."

ANOTHER SUIT

Blinn said he would confer with Simon next week to determine if another suit should be filed, possibly for damages because of the money spent to finance his legal battle, and to compensate him for being denied the right to raise or sell wheat for three years.

But Simon, who also was the attorney who handled the earlier and unsuccessful case of another Indiana farmer, Ethan Stangland, who battled over crop limits, said:

"I think it's gotten to the point now that it will take legislation to undo the wrong. I doubt if the courts can undo it."

'SYSTEM WRONG'

Simon charged that the whole system of controlling crops is an affront to democracy, and a denial of a right to trial by jury. He cited figures that in Indiana's Grant County alone, only 395 farmers were ruled eligible to vote in the wheat referendum by the local committee setting allotments. Only 40 of these voted, although there are nearly 2,000 farmers in the county, Simon said.

Blinn, a hard-working farmer with eight children, termed himself a "cattle, hog and turkey man" who farms about 200 acres and has another 300 acres in range land.

"I work on a farm where I lay my hands on things my Granddaddy did and my Dad did," he said. "I've got sons and I am not going to turn everything over to these rascals without a struggle."

Budgets Approved For Tax Districts

Budgets of special taxing districts in Marin County for fiscal 1962 have received approval of the county board of supervisors, following review by the auditor and public works department.

Tax rates applicate cannot be computed until after completion of equalization proceedings, Asst. Auditor Michael noted in submitting the list, but he included indication of probabilities.

In each case, the budget figure approved by the supervisors is only the amount to be raised through taxes. Some districts have additional sources of revenue.

The list follows:

COUNTY SERVICE AREAS

Loma Verde—$3,460.04 (last year $4,732.70); decrease in tax rate looms as result of carryover of unexpended parkway fund.

Paradise Cay—Not yet operational. Funds on hand June 30 totaling $74.86, will be rebudgeted. No tax rate this year.

FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICTS

Novato—$13,421.50 (last year $13,100); no tax rate change seen.

Richardson Bay — No tax rate; $9,388.81 on hand June 30 being rebudgeted.

Bel Aire — $490 (last year $947.32); tax reduction seen.

San Rafael Meadows—$2,000. This is a new district which will be taxing for the first time.

SEWER MAINTENANCE DISTRICTS

Hawthorne Terrace — $2,864.79 (last year $2,299.91. Tax increase necessary.

Key Park — $6,334.46 (last year $6,493.90). Slight tax cut likely.

Murray Park — $1,290,000 (same as last year). No tax rate change seen.

San Rafael Meadows — $7,946.56 (last year $7,369.73). Slight increase in prospect.

Tomales — Funds on hand June 30 of $1,315.84 being rebudgeted. No tax rate.

Venetia Harbor — $3,623.60 (last year $3,946.57). Slight cut.

LIGHTING DISTRICTS

Bay View Terrace — $156.45 (last year $145.58). No change.

Bel Aire Estates — $1,509.03 (last year $1,494.32). No change.

Belveron Gardens — $989.41 (last year $1,010.96. No change.

Bolinas—$1,136.58 (last year $1,374.58). Tax reduction.

Dillon Beach — $521.88 (last year $485.17). Slight increase.

Greenbrae — $3,205.83 (last year $3,796.74). Decrease indicated.

Greenbrae Boardwalk—$500. This is a new district which did not tax last year.

Kentfield — $8,209.98 (last year $9,133.47). Decrease.

La Verne — $1,563.93 (last year $1,981.38). Decrease.

Novato — $214.61 (last year $870). Decrease.

Point Reyes Station—$1,2015 $1,201.15 (last year $1,108.69). Slight increase.

San Rafael Meadows — $1,453.77 (last year $1,407.72). Slight increase.

Santa Venetia — $5,048.61 (last year $5,923.12). Decrease.

Strawberry — $3,144.38 (last year $3,588.78). Decrease.

Tamalpais Valley—$6,729.91 (last year $5,829.01). Increase; more and larger lights authorized.

Tiburon—$3,200.38 (last year $3,424.72). Slight tax increase.

Tomales—$719.29 (last year $273.86). Increase; additional and more powerful lights authorized.

San Rafael Youth Wins Scholarships

John Henry Arndt Jr. of 11 El Cerrito Avenue, San Rafael, has received two scholarships covering his senior year tuition at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Arndt has been named recipient of a $1,000 Kennecott Copper Co. scholarship by Cal Tech's division of chemistry and chemical engineering. In addition, Cal Tech has awarded him a $275 scholarship from its own funds.

Arndt's mother, Mrs. Erla M. Arndt, is secretary to the San Rafael superintendent of schools.

Hub School Gets State Aid

The San Anselmo School District board was given approval of the Wade Thomas School expansion and will receive $352,527 in aid from the state allocation board, it was announced yesterday in Sacramento.

The school will expand across from its present location on Kensington Avenue, causing five homes to be torn down.

Oklahoma high school athletics is favored by short winters. At least 50,000 students make up the teams. Of these, 20,000 play basketball; 10,000 football; 9,000 baseball; 4,000 are on track teams; 2,000 softball; and many others take part in minor sports.

Tree Spraying Warning Issued

Norris Rawles, supervisor of San Rafael public works, warned San Rafael residents not to park their automobiles on streets near elm trees tomorrow morning.

Rawles said all the elm trees in the city will be sprayed with chemicals to kill insects. The chemicals may drip off the trees and spot cars parked below, he cautioned.

The temperature of a star control its color, which may be red, yellow, white or blue. A red star may have a temperature of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit but a blue-white star goes up to 60,000 degrees.

Gen. Dean Recalls Korea Experiences In Talk Here

Gen. William Dean (USA, Ret.) told Marine Corps Reservists in San Rafael Friday that the most important part of the military code of conduct was the part that demands a man be willing to die for his country.

General Dean, a prisoner of war for three years during the Korean conflict, lectured on the code to Marines of the 14th Rifle Co. He said that if the code had been instilled in his men before the outbreak of the Korean War, not so many men would have been captured in the first few days of it than those captured under his command during all of World War II.

He emphasized that it is important that military leaders indoctrinate men with the code in peace time. The Korean War showed that it's too late when men are in the conflict. The general emphasized each word of the code for the Marin Marines with an illustration from his personal wartime experiences.

General Dean was invited to speak to the unit by Capt. Edward K. Waschman of San Rafael.

Mexico City is the oldest city in North America.

Revival Of Prohibition Is Predicted

LOMA LINDA (UPI)—A University of Illinois physiologist has predicted that prohibition may be revived as a public issue within the next 10 years.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, speaking at the opening of the 12th annual meeting of the Loma Linda Institute of Scientific Studies on prevention of alcoholism, said past experiments with prohibition took place when every family averaged one or two "severe alcoholics."

Ivy described alcoholism as the nation's No. 3 health problem.

He said that more than $300 million a year is spent on advertising alcoholic beverages. "In other words," he said, "we spend (this money) to produce the No. 3 public health problem."

Ivy said loss to industry from drinkers is at least $1.4 billion a year. Drinkers, he continued, spend about $11 billion annually on alcohol.

Art, Garden Prizes

Marin Art and Garden Fair prizes will be presented and Marin County Farm Adviser Winston L. Engvall will speak to the Redwood Shade Garden Club Friday, at 8 p.m. in Whittaker Hall, of St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere.

Measles Top Disease List

Thirteen cases of measles, nine of them in San Rafael, were reported for the week ended last Saturday in Marin County, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer, announced today.

Next most prevalent communicable disease was mumps, with two cases in Kentfield and one each in Ross, San Anselmo and San Rafael. There were five cases also of salmonella, two of them in San Rafael and one each in Fairfax, San Anselmo and Ross.

San Rafael had one case of a disease not frequently reported: meningo encephalitis.

San Rafael Youth Wins Scholarships

John Henry Arndt Jr. of 11 El Cerrito Avenue, San Rafael, has received two scholarships covering his senior year tuition at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Arndt has been named recipient of a $1,000 Kennecott Copper Co. scholarship by Cal Tech's division of chemistry and chemical engineering. In addition, Cal Tech has awarded him a $275 scholarship from its own funds.

Arndt's mother, Mrs. Erla M. Arndt, is secretary to the San Rafael superintendent of schools.

Hub School Gets State Aid

The San Anselmo School District board was given approval of the Wade Thomas School expansion and will receive $352,527 in aid from the state allocation board, it was announced yesterday in Sacramento.

The school will expand across from its present location on Kensington Avenue, causing five homes to be torn down.

Oklahoma high school athletics is favored by short winters. At least 50,000 students make up the teams. Of these, 20,000 play basketball; 10,000 football; 9,000 baseball; 4,000 are on track teams; 2,000 softball; and many others take part in minor sports.

Tree Spraying Warning Issued

Norris Rawles, supervisor of San Rafael public works, warned San Rafael residents not to park their automobiles on streets near elm trees tomorrow morning.

Rawles said all the elm trees in the city will be sprayed with chemicals to kill insects. The chemicals may drip off the trees and spot cars parked below, he cautioned.

The temperature of a star control its color, which may be red, yellow, white or blue. A red star may have a temperature of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit but a blue-white star goes up to 60,000 degrees.

Gen. Dean Recalls Korea Experiences In Talk Here

Gen. William Dean (USA, Ret.) told Marine Corps Reservists in San Rafael Friday that the most important part of the military code of conduct was the part that demands a man be willing to die for his country.

General Dean, a prisoner of war for three years during the Korean conflict, lectured on the code to Marines of the 14th Rifle Co. He said that if the code had been instilled in his men before the outbreak of the Korean War, not so many men would have been captured in the first few days of it than those captured under his command during all of World War II.

He emphasized that it is important that military leaders indoctrinate men with the code in peace time. The Korean War showed that it's too late when men are in the conflict. The general emphasized each word of the code for the Marin Marines with an illustration from his personal wartime experiences.

General Dean was invited to speak to the unit by Capt. Edward K. Waschman of San Rafael.

Mexico City is the oldest city in North America.

Revival Of Prohibition Is Predicted

LOMA LINDA (UPI)—A University of Illinois physiologist has predicted that prohibition may be revived as a public issue within the next 10 years.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, speaking at the opening of the 12th annual meeting of the Loma Linda Institute of Scientific Studies on prevention of alcoholism, said past experiments with prohibition took place when every family averaged one or two "severe alcoholics."

Ivy described alcoholism as the nation's No. 3 health problem.

He said that more than $300 million a year is spent on advertising alcoholic beverages. "In other words," he said, "we spend (this money) to produce the No. 3 public health problem."

Ivy said loss to industry from drinkers is at least $1.4 billion a year. Drinkers, he continued, spend about $11 billion annually on alcohol.

Art, Garden Prizes

Marin Art and Garden Fair prizes will be presented and Marin County Farm Adviser Winston L. Engvall will speak to the Redwood Shade Garden Club Friday, at 8 p.m. in Whittaker Hall, of St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere.

Measles Top Disease List

Thirteen cases of measles, nine of them in San Rafael, were reported for the week ended last Saturday in Marin County, Dr. Carolyn B. Aibrecht, health officer, announced today.

Next most prevalent communicable disease was mumps, with two cases in Kentfield and one each in Ross, San Anselmo and San Rafael. There were five cases also of salmonella, two of them in San Rafael and one each in Fairfax, San Anselmo and Ross.

San Rafael had one case of a disease not frequently reported: meningo encephalitis.

New Businesses, New Construction Top Business News Of This Week

A new hardware store to be known as Town Hardware will open sometime this month at 1593 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax.

The business will be a partnership of Harold Weiss, former mechanical engineer from Hayward, and Robert Seiterz of San Carlos, previously in electrical sales. Both men are in the process of moving to Marin County.

Weiss said that a grand opening is scheduled for July 27 but that he hopes to see the store ready for business about a week before that date.

A line of general hardware and American-made tools will be carried, also a stock of Glidden paints.

The location which has been untenanted for several months was last occupied by Leone's Variety Store.

HERB STOUT opened his new San Rafael quarters—Herb's Sport Shop—at 1561 Fourth Street this week. This combines the business of Schaefer's formerly at the same address which Stout took over on July 1, and Herb's Hobby and Bike Shop previously at 1611 Fourth Street.

Stout will also continue his business at 128 Tunstead Avenue, San Anselmo which has added a line of sporting goods.

NEW CONSTRUCTION at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club out Marin Bay way has started. Locker rooms, caddy rooms, sport shop and long awaited banquet room will be included in the clubhouse wing addition. According to engineer Jorgen Lunding it should be completed before autumn.

Homesites at the edge of the golf course are just about sold out here. But there's plenty of acreage left on the higher spots.

THE NEW PALACE Food Market under construction in Point Reyes which has been incorporated by owners Anthony Taveggia of San Anselmo and Romolo Brusati of San Rafael may make an opening date of August 1—if not, certainly by the 15th.

NEW TYPE of branch outlet for department stores and the like is no longer known as a "branch" but a "twig."

It's usually much smaller than the usual branch size—not over 50,000 square feet at the most—and is operated with only a handful of executives. Sales clerks can sell all merchandise and accompany customers through the different departments.

This might be something for consideration by the Emporium and others that have dodged Marin County up to this time while looking for just the right location.

Why not in front of the Court House on Fourth Street, San Rafael, as per Fred Enemark's proposal?

REAL ESTATE sales for June bounced high over last year's figures—a good 17 per cent increase in actual number of sales and nearly a full third more than June, 1960—to a sweet total of $3,904,909.

These are Marin County Multiple Listing Board figures—something to make Dan Deedy crow about.

C. W. LILLIAN, Sausalito resident and representative in the Santa Rosa area for Shaw-Barton calendars and advertising specialties, has been announced as a winner in a spring sales contest. Something in merchandise will be his award.

The worst earthquake year of record was 1906, when cataclysmic shocks hit San Francisco, Columbia, Ecuador, Chile, New Guinea, Formosa and the Aleutian Islands, Japan and Sinkiang in Western China.

Sausalito Group Fighting Railroad

Sausalito businessmen have already spent $17,000 in fighting Northwestern Pacific Railroad's effort to abandon freight services to their city and they will spend more if necessary, Marin County supervisors were told in a letter yesterday from A. G. Schoonmaker Co.

The letter complained that though briefs on appeal were filed last December with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which had earlier approved abandonment, no response has come as yet.

If the answer is unfavorable, added the letter, the Sausalito group intends to carry the matter to the courts.

Already on record as backing the Sausalito fight, the supervisors took no action.

Bard's 'Dream' On KRON Show

Television station KRON has scheduled a special showing of its locally-produced program, "Community Circle," for tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Included is a portion of the Marin Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," plus interviews of actors Joe Gostanian and Bruce Chesse, and director John Brebner.

The show was originally scheduled for last Sunday afternoon. However, station spokesmen say, the tape upon which the program had been recorded was misplaced and could not be found at that time. Another show was substituted. The tape has since been located.

Senior Citizen Outing Slated

Members of the Marin Senior Assn. will take an outing to Armstrong Grove next Wednesday.

Two buses will leave the Senior Center at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at 9 a.m. Members who would like to make the trip may register at the Senior Center either in person or by telephone.

Sausalito Group Fighting Railroad

Sausalito businessmen have already spent $17,000 in fighting Northwestern Pacific Railroad's effort to abandon freight services to their city and they will spend more if necessary, Marin County supervisors were told in a letter yesterday from A. G. Schoonmaker Co.

The letter complained that though briefs on appeal were filed last December with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which had earlier approved abandonment, no response has come as yet.

If the answer is unfavorable, added the letter, the Sausalito group intends to carry the matter to the courts.

Already on record as backing the Sausalito fight, the supervisors took no action.

Bard's 'Dream' On KRON Show

Television station KRON has scheduled a special showing of its locally-produced program, "Community Circle," for tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Included is a portion of the Marin Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," plus interviews of actors Joe Gostanian and Bruce Chesse, and director John Brebner.

The show was originally scheduled for last Sunday afternoon. However, station spokesmen say, the tape upon which the program had been recorded was misplaced and could not be found at that time. Another show was substituted. The tape has since been located.

Senior Citizen Outing Slated

Members of the Marin Senior Assn. will take an outing to Armstrong Grove next Wednesday.

Two buses will leave the Senior Center at 1825 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at 9 a.m. Members who would like to make the trip may register at the Senior Center either in person or by telephone.

HE'S IN YACHT RACES WITHOUT YACHT

Bernard Kahn of Larkspur, chief of the Sixth Army's review and analysis division, who is here seen inspecting a 63-foot cutter, is a man who makes yacht races without a yacht. He shipped last year as observer on the 72-foot "Malecite," entered by Robert Day of Vancouver, B.C., in the Alaska Cruiser Race. He'll go to Vancouver Island for the month-long Van-Isle Ocean Race around that island's 500-foot shoreline, which starts next Monday—again with Day. Among other adventures, Kahn has made two trips after sunken treasure on the four master schooner, "Constellation." (Army photo)

Uunderwater Research Program Set

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The blimp-shaped Bathyscaph Trieste, which last year made a record underwater descent in the South Pacific, will begin a series of 60 research dives off the Southern California coast next week.

After its record dive several months ago the Trieste underwent a nine-month overhaul during which it was fitted with various types of cameras, high-powered lights, a mechanical arm for retrieving ocean samples and improved motors for easier maneuverability.

It was taken out of drydock at the naval electronic laboratory here recently.

The Navy said Lt. Lawrence Shumaker and Lt. Don Walsh would alternate as pilots in the 60-foot craft during the dives off San Diego that begin Monday. Authorities said an observer will also accompany the pilot in the six-foot cabin capsule.

The forthcoming dives will try to solve the mystery of sand slides in La Jolla canyon. Attempts will also be made to chart water currents off the Southern California coast and measurements will be made of sound velocity and reflection in water.

Reed Union School Board Hold Election

David D. Ring, Tiburon resident and San Francisco attorney, was elected last night president of the Reed Union School District Board. He succeeds Richard J. MacLaury.

Edwin Farley was elected vice president and trustee representative. Mrs. Alyce Farkas was elected Clerk.

The board will continue to meet on the second fourth Tuesdays of each month at 8 p.m. The annual budget hearing will be held Aug. 8.

As the first act of his term of office, Ring introduced Superintendent-elect Edward C. Pino, who will succeed Paul R. Stouffer. Pino will assume his duties following completion of a summer session at Stanford University.

Pino congratulated the Reed School District on its awareness of educational needs. He promised to seek a vigorous educational program designed to meet individual differences.

"One single thing we can do for our country is to band together, parents, teachers and administrators, to determine the best way to achieve academic excellence for boys and girls. The timing should be now. Our investment is the generation to come," he concluded.

Ring thanked Stouffer for his contributions to the district during his superintendency. Stouffer resigned to become business manager.

The board granted Marin Estates Homeowners Assn. permission to build a combination bus shelter and clubhouse on school property.

Growth Raises Sales Tax Income

Sales and use tax revenues in Marin for the past fiscal year were up 4.2 per cent over the previous year, the State Board of Equalization reported today.

The just-ended fiscal year tax revenue distribution to the county and cities combined was $1,695,184. This is compared to 1959-60's $1,627,073. This last year's second quarter period $383,894 in tax revenue was gathered in Marin.

A drop of 2.6 per cent was recorded in San Rafael, Marin's major economic center. Corte Madera had the highest hike in the county, a healthy 65.5 per cent. San Rafael's distribution was $752,515. The year before it was $772,401. Corte Madera jumped from $66,812 to $110,569.

The county itself dropped 26 per cent in tax revenue from the preceding year. It was $270,237 this past year, compared to 1959-60's $365,277. Novato's tax distribution of $104,800 this past year, previously was included in the county's figure.

The only other drop was in Mill Valley. That city slipped a slight 1.1 per cent from the previous year. The distribution was $144,783. The year before it was $146,452.

Other cities' figures and their percentages of increase in Marin is as follows: Belvedere, $7,128 (2.6); Fairfax, $43,543 (.1); Larkspur, $47,937 (4.2); Ross, $2,721 (4.6); San Anselmo, $85,126 (11.5); Sausalito, $125,688 (24.8).

Swallows Lighter Fluid

A 2-year-old San Anselmo boy was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital after he swallowed some lighter fluid at his home last night. The victim, Jack Berry, was taken to the hospital by private car from his home at 13 Medway Avenue. He is the son of Donald Berry.

Low Bidder For School Bonds

Bank of America was low bidder yesterday on two Marin school bond issues.

On sale of a $550,000 issue of Mill Valley School District bonds, Bank of America bid a net interest rate of 3.762635 per cent; on an additional $5,000 issue, the rate was 2.67 per cent.

On a $370,000 San Anselmo School District issue, Bank of America bid a net interest rate of 3.656340 per cent, with a rate of 3.476666 per cent on an additional $30,000 issue.

Bids were opened at the Marin County Board of Supervisors session.

Space Agency Goes On Talent Hunt For Promising Young Scientists

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has sent out scientists to catch scientists — quick!

NASA's Lewis Space Propulsion Research Center at Cleveland alone needs 100 "talented scientists" by the end of the month.

And it needs them just to keep up with the accelerated space program provided for by congressional appropriations made during the Eisenhower Administration.

"Now President John F. Kennedy has said, in effect, 'if we're going to go into space, let's go all out' and Congress is considering again expanding the program," said research engineer David Spera, one of the scientist-hunting scientists.

"We'll probably need even more men at Lewis very soon."

NASA's many other operations also are expected to require an ever increasing number of highly specialized scientists, said Patrick Chiarito, leader of a NASA team that visited New York to look for "new talent."

Among these operations, to name a few, are the Ames Research Center, Moffett, Calif., Goddard Space Flight Control Center, Greenbelt, Md., Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., and the Plum Brook Reactor Facilities at Sandusky, Ohio.

Working from Cleveland, it found and hired 35. That left 100 to be located and little more than a month to find them in.

The Lewis Center "blasted off" on what is probably one of the most intensive scientist hunts in history. It sent out teams of researchers representing specialized fields to locate more of their kind.

Such teams were in Detroit and Chicago this week. Others have journeyed to Cincinnati, Fort Worth, Dallas and Boston.

Chiarito, 43, was visiting his home town when he led the team that came to New York. Spera, 26, a native of Kenosha, Wis., and Jim Ward, 27, of Cleveland, completed the team.

The three men's specialties indicate the wide range of work being done at Lewis.

Ward said he was working on plans for nuclear reactors in space vehicles that would generate "million of watts" of power and could possibly be developed within the next 10 years. They would be a far cry from the 2½-watt nuclear power plant sent into space last week.

Chiarito said he was among researchers experimenting with various materials to find out which would be best for use in space ship fuel tanks of the future.

Spera called himself "a pencil and paper man" — no experimenting for him.

"We take the mathematics and relationships we already know and try to figure out, for example, how such things as changes in weight and shape will affect the ability of a material to withstand pressure."

What kind of "new talent" are the teams looking for?

"Well," said Chiarito, "we'd be mighty happy to get ready-trained specialists with doctorates in the particular fields where they are needed."

These fields were listed by NASA as including chemical, electronics, electrical, mechanical, metallurgical, nuclear engineering, materials research, mathematics, metallurgy and nuclear physics.

Chiarito said, however, that "a majority of our recruits are mostly young people just out of college or graduate school."

"Generally, personnel at the lab are young — most of them in their 30s and 40s, but age is no consideration," he said.

Ward said that the starting salary range for the "new talent" would be $6,000 to $14,000 a year. But he said that the big attraction was the opportunity to do creative research in "almost a university-type atmosphere."

"We've had some of our people leave Lewis for big jobs at big salaries with big industries and then come back to us," he said.

"Maybe they got tired of the routine work and wanted to get back to something in which you could feel you were really making a contribution."

Marinwood, Lucas Valley Youth To Present Parade

A "Mainstreet, U.S.A." parade will be presented Friday at 1:30 p.m. as a feature of the Marinwood Summer Recreation Program.

The parade will start at the corner of Las Gallinas and Miller Creek Roads. It is open to boys and girls of Marinwood and Lucas Valley and entry blanks are available at the Marinwood playgrounds, said Genevieve T. Bolding, business manager and secretary of the Marinwood Community Services District.

There are three divisions: doll, pet and characterization. Ribbons and awards will be presented to the winners of best dressed doll, best dressed doll family, best decorated doll and carriage and best combination of owner and doll dressed alike.

In the pet division, the categories are best dressed dog and float, most clever presentation of cat and owner and most unusual pet and presentation.

In the characterization division, ribbons and awards will be presented for the best frontierland boy or girl, best adventureland boy or girl, best fantasy land boy or girl, best tomorrowland boy or girl and best pirate or sailor boy or girl.

Following the parade there will be a party with games and refreshments, said Mrs. Bolding.

Space Agency Goes On Talent Hunt For Promising Young Scientists

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has sent out scientists to catch scientists — quick!

NASA's Lewis Space Propulsion Research Center at Cleveland alone needs 100 "talented scientists" by the end of the month.

And it needs them just to keep up with the accelerated space program provided for by congressional appropriations made during the Eisenhower Administration.

"Now President John F. Kennedy has said, in effect, 'if we're going to go into space, let's go all out' and Congress is considering again expanding the program," said research engineer David Spera, one of the scientist-hunting scientists.

"We'll probably need even more men at Lewis very soon."

NASA's many other operations also are expected to require an ever increasing number of highly specialized scientists, said Patrick Chiarito, leader of a NASA team that visited New York to look for "new talent."

Among these operations, to name a few, are the Ames Research Center, Moffett, Calif., Goddard Space Flight Control Center, Greenbelt, Md., Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., and the Plum Brook Reactor Facilities at Sandusky, Ohio.

Citing an "urgent need for qualified researchers," the Lewis Center started looking for such men in a quiet way early last month.

Working from Cleveland, it found and hired 35. That left 100 to be located and little more than a month to find them in.

The Lewis Center "blasted off" on what is probably one of the most intensive scientist hunts in history. It sent out teams of researchers representing specialized fields to locate more of their kind.

Such teams were in Detroit and Chicago this week. Others have journeyed to Cincinnati, Fort Worth, Dallas and Boston.

Chiarito, 43, was visiting his home town when he led the team that came to New York. Spera, 26, a native of Kenosha, Wis., and Jim Ward, 27, of Cleveland, completed the team.

The three men's specialties indicate the wide range of work being done at Lewis.

Ward said he was working on plans for nuclear reactors in space vehicles that would generate "million of watts" of power and could possibly be developed within the next 10 years. They would be a far cry from the 2½-watt nuclear power plant sent into space last week.

Chiarito said he was among researchers experimenting with various materials to find out which would be best for use in space ship fuel tanks of the future.

Spera called himself "a pencil and paper man" — no experimenting for him.

"We take the mathematics and relationships we already know and try to figure out, for example, how such things as changes in weight and shape will affect the ability of a material to withstand pressure."

What kind of "new talent" are the teams looking for?

"Well," said Chiarito, "we'd be mighty happy to get ready-trained specialists with doctorates in the particular fields where they are needed."

These fields were listed by NASA as including chemical, electronics, electrical, mechanical, metallurgical, nuclear engineering, materials research, mathematics, metallurgy and nuclear physics.

Chiarito said, however, that "a majority of our recruits are mostly young people just out of college or graduate school."

"Generally, personnel at the lab are young — most of them in their 30s and 40s, but age is no consideration," he said.

Ward said that the starting salary range for the "new talent" would be $6,000 to $14,000 a year. But he said that the big attraction was the opportunity to do creative research in "almost a university-type atmosphere."

"We've had some of our people leave Lewis for big jobs at big salaries with big industries and then come back to us," he said.

"Maybe they got tired of the routine work and wanted to get back to something in which you could feel you were really making a contribution."

Diamond is the hardest natural material known to man. Bits of diamonds cut steel, saw stone, shape bowling balls, polish dental fillings, and play much of the world's recorded music.

The largest concentration of Chinese outside the Orient is in San Francisco's Chinatown; most of whom were born in this country.

Marinwood, Lucas Valley Youth To Present Parade

A "Mainstreet, U.S.A." parade will be presented Friday at 1:30 p.m. as a feature of the Marinwood Summer Recreation Program.

The parade will start at the corner of Las Gallinas and Miller Creek Roads. It is open to boys and girls of Marinwood and Lucas Valley and entry blanks are available at the Marinwood playgrounds, said Genevieve T. Bolding, business manager and secretary of the Marinwood Community Services District.

There are three divisions: doll, pet and characterization. Ribbons and awards will be presented to the winners of best dressed doll, best dressed doll family, best decorated doll and carriage and best combination of owner and doll dressed alike.

In the pet division, the categories are best dressed dog and float, most clever presentation of cat and owner and most unusual pet and presentation.

In the characterization division, ribbons and awards will be presented for the best frontierland boy or girl, best adventureland boy or girl, best fantasy land boy or girl, best tomorrowland boy or girl and best pirate or sailor boy or girl.

Following the parade there will be a party with games and refreshments, said Mrs. Bolding.

Marin Files Suit Against Elderly Mill Valley Couple

Marn Connty yesterday filed a civil suit in Marin Superior Court to get back almost $32,000 which the county says an elderly Mill Valley couple has received under false pretenses since 1946.

Named as defendants are Alexander MacDonald, 79, of 503 Ethel Avenue and his wife Jeanette, 82, who lives in a Marin County rest home. They are believed to have cash assets of at least $10,000, put away in envelopes and coffee jars.

The suit was filed by Douglas Maloney, assistant county counsel, who alleges the couple received welfare aid under the Aid to Needy Blind program. To receive such aid, recipients must swear out an affidavit so stating the amount of assets in their possession.

Assistant County Counsel Maloney said the couple failed to report their assets when they applied for welfare aid.

When hunting, coyotes have been known to play [illegible] order to capture their prey.

Bennett On Mend In Mill Valley

Richard H. Bennett is recuperating at his Mill Valley home after suffering injuries and a deep cut on his head in an accident last month at Skagway, Alaska.

Bennett, who formerly owned Bennett's Variety Store in Mill Valley, slipped on a mountain trail. In the fall, he suffered a double fracture of the breast bone and fractured several ribs. Twelve stitches were taken in his head.

With his wife, Bennett took a ship to Vancouver, then flew home. The Bennetts live at 86 Lovell Avenue.

Opening lead — ◇ 2

One way to try for the grand slam in today's hand is to draw trums and take the diamond finesse. If West has the queen of diamonds, you make the slam; if East has the queen you go down.

Another way is to set up the dummy. Take the ace of diamonds, cash the ace of spades and ruff a spade high. Get back to dummy with the queen of clubs and ruff another spade high.

Lead a trum to the nine and ruff dummy's last spade with your las high trump. Now lead your last trump to the ten and lead out dummy's jack of trumps to discard a diamond from your hand.

If the five missing trumps break 3-2, you make the grand slam. If either opponent has four or five trumps, you go down.

WHICH IS BETTER

Which plan is more likely to succeed?

The diamond finesse gives you a 50 per cent chance. The chance that West has the queen of diamonds is equal to the chance that East has it.

The chance for a 3-2 trump break is 68 per cent. Therefore the dummy reversal is a better plan for the grand slam.

A simple pair of rules will help you remember the basic principle of bridge probability.

The odds favor the most equal break of an odd number of cards. The odds are against the most equal break of an even number of cards.

A finesse, therefore, is not as good as a 2-1 break, a 3-2 break or a 4-3 break. A finesse is better than a 2-2 break, a 3-3 break or a 4-4 break.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks partner to bid a major suit if he can. If he bids three spades, you will raise to four spades. Otherwise you will go on to three notrump.

Young Adults More Trouble Than Teeners

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI)— Some people think teen-agers are a headache but a team of University of California sociologists says young adults from 18 to 25 years of age are much more troublesome.

Dr. Gertrude Selznick and John Larkins report the young adults are more likely to be in the divorce courts, in prison or on a psychiatrist's couch than any other age group in the United States.

Selznik and Larkins told of their findings in a 28-page report, "What is Known About Young Adults," released by the University's Survey Research Center.

"In short, young adults 'belong' less," said the report, "and when they do belong, they belong in more tenuous and tentative ways."

One of the worst frustrations to the young adult is employment. He is the first to be fired and the last to be hired.

"It's a wonder that young adults, with no trade, living from hand to mouth on a submarginal income and often strapped with the responsibilities of marriage (and parenthood) don't wind up much worse off than they do," says Dr. Selznick.

She found that only a small proportion of them actually get into serious trouble, but many come very close.

Selznick and Larkins explained a prime cause for the difficulty. All the prestige and reward go to college graduates and four out of five young Americans don't go to college.

"It is this huge, forgotten group that is experiencing the most difficulty," said Dr. Selznick.

Mill Valley's Dimitroff Selling Frame Shop—'Business Too Good'

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Stephen P. Dimitroff announced today that he is going to sell his picture frame shop in Mill Valley and devote his time to painting.

His reason: "My business is good and is taking too much of my time."

Dimitroff, who has been in picture framing business for 11 years in Mill Valley and owns Dimitroff's Picture Frames at 173 Throckmorton Avenue, said he intends to paint scenes around Marin.

"I want to paint the hills around Mill Valley. I will sit at the bus station and paint the hills of Mill Valley from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"I intend to do that with the other towns, too. I love our mountain and intend to paint it and show how it changes every minute of the day. I will also paint the climate. The skies are totally different here from any other place I've ever seen. My idea is not original.

"I want to do this because times are changing so fast and hills are changing every day."

STEPHEN P. DIMITROFF
Business is too good

He said, "The reason I started the picture frame business was to be able to get time to paint, and in 11 years I never did get enough time."

He admitted it has been a lot of fun. He has framed an ermine caught by a hunter, coins, two congressional medals of honor, sharks' teeth, a Rembrandt and an order given by the King of Siam.

The oldest thing he has framed was a piece of cloth from an Egyptian tomb, 5,000 years old.

Dimitroff, whose wife is artist Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff, lives at 171 Marguerite Avenue. He began his picture frame business in a 9-by-8-foot shop at 33 Lovell Avenue. "Two weeks later I got a frame 9 feet long," he said, "so I had to open the door and window to do it."

From there he moved to 32 Miller Avenue and then to the Bank of America building. He was there six years. For 18 months he had two shops, the frame shop and an art store at 11 East Blithedale Avenue. Last August he sold the art store and moved his frame shop to 173 Throckmorton.

He said he'll frame only his "own stuff" when he retires. "That's something I have not done."

4 Sunny Hills Runaways Admit String Of Thefts

Three boys, caught in San Anselmo last night after they had run away from Sunny Hills Monday, admitted committing a string of thefts and burglaries in Marin and San Francisco during their spree.

The boys, two 11, and one 8, were picked up about 8:30 p.m. by Police Officer Leonard G. Musselle, who spotted them in a self-service laundry at Tamalpais and San Anselmo evenues. The only loot they had with them was a transistor radio.

One of the 11-year-olds was among the vandals who last August battered and smashed nine new cars at Ames Ford Sales in San Rafael, said San Anselmo Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani.

The youngsters told San Anselmo police they ran away from the orphanage Monday afternoon.

They said they entered the home of Mrs. Helen McGinnis at 51 Essex Street in San Anselmo, stole a watch and radio.

They went that night to Albert's Field in San Rafael where they broke into automobiles and stole cash and cigarettes, they related.

Later that night they went to San Francisco, entered a house, but could not find anything to steal, they said. They slept in an alley in San Francisco.

The next day the boys said, they went to Golden Gate Park, begged some bus money, and returned to San Anselmo.

Police booked the boys as runaways and for burglary. They were taken to juvenile hall.

Novato Moves To Establish Parks, Recreation Board

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. was directed by the Novato City Council last night to write an ordinance providing for a parks and recreation commission.

The council voted unanimously for a motion by John Angeloni, after more than a score of citizens appeared at the council's meeting to request the commission.

The citizens were led by Mrs. Rufino Trevino, who with seven other persons, wrote the council Saturday saying they would appear.

Several citizens appearing in person requested $15,000 in the fiscal 1961 budget to set up a seven-man commission. Need of a swimming pool was stressed by several mothers.

Others signing the letter sent by Mrs. Trevino were Mrs. Charles Rose, Mrs. David Sproul, Mrs. Maria B. Bertini, Mrs. Mary C. Foley, Mrs. Eugene J. Johnson, Mrs. Richard Metcalfe and Mrs. Jerome Nelson.

Mrs. Trevino told the council she actually represented 25 families wanting the commission.

Robert Carroll said San Rafael appropriates 10 per cent of its income for parks and recreation. He said, "Our $3,000 is only one per cent of our income."

Mayor Wayne Womack said the only step that could be taken in the next year toward a swimming pool would be acquisition of the land.

Womack said the council could establish a commission within the next 60 days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colter said they were willing to pay more taxes to create the pool. Councilman Charles Johnson noted citizens seemed to want the pool more than they wanted streets and other improvements "so it must be important."

The spadefoot toad of North America breeds in temporary pools created by heavy rains. The tiny toad eggs hatch in a day and half.

Charnow Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

Manny Charnow of San Rafael, "Mr. Senior Citizen of Marin," was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital today. Attendants said he "was doing real well and probably would be going home at the end of the week."

He underwent surgery for removal of part of his left lung.

Some 4,900,000 Americans visited Canada during 1960, while 700,000 went south of the border, to Mexico.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
(Advertisement)

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE KENTFIELD SCHOOL DISTRICT will receive bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation and services for the construction of the SECOND ADDITION TO WOLFE GRADE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL on Sir Francis Drake Blvd., Kentfield, California.

2. Each bid to be in accordance with the Plans and Specifications now available at the offices of the Architects, Corlett and Spackman, 347 Clay Street, San Francisco 11, California, where same may be examined and copies obtained upon deposit of $25.00 per set, which deposit will be refunded upon the return of such copies in good condition within five (5) days after the bids are opened.

3. Each bid shall be made on a form to be obtained at the Architects' office, and must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or a bid bond for ten (10%) per cent of the amount bid, made payable to the order of the Kentfield School District, and shall be sealed and filed with the Clerk of the Board on or before Thursday, July 20, 1961 and will be opened in public at 5:00 P.M. of that day in the Office of the Superintendent of the District (Room 11), located at the Wolfe Grade School at 25 McAllister Avenue, Kentfield, California.

4. The above mentioned check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract if awarded the work, and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said contract after being requested to do so by the Governing Board of the Kentfield School District.

5. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a labor and material bond in an amount equal to fifty (50%) per cent of the Contract price and a faithful performance bond in an amount equal to one hundred (100%) per cent of the Contract price, said bonds to be secured from a surety company satisfactory to the Governing Board of the Kentfield School District.

6. Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, or local law thereto applicable, the Governing Board of the Kentfield School District has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages and rates for legal holidays and overtime work in the locality in which this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen or mechanic needed to execute the Contract, which will be awarded to the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined are as follows:

In addition to the hourly and/or per diem wages for the crafts, classifications or types of workmen listed above, contractors may be required to make employer payments for health and welfare, pension, vacation and similar purposes as required by the executed collective bargaining agreements for the particular craft, classification or type of work involved.

The working day shall be eight hours unless otherwise specified above. The per diem rate shall be the hourly rate multiplied by the number of hours in the working day. When less than the number of hours constituting the working day, as herein stated, is worked, the wage to be paid shall be the hourly rate multiplied by the number of hours actually worked.

All skilled labor not listed above that may be employed is to be paid not less than the union wage scale for such labor and in no event to be paid less than Three and 22½/100 Dollars ($3.22½) per hour.

It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor to whom the contract is awarded and upon any subcontractor under him, to pay not less than the said specified rates to all laborers, workmen, and mechanics employed by them in the execution of the contract.

Properly indentured apprentices may be employed upon this work in accordance with the state law. Such apprentices shall be properly indentured as called for by law and shall be paid not less than the standard wage paid to apprentices under the regulations of the trade at which they are employed. An apprentice shall be employed only at the work of the trade to which he is indentured. The initial wage to be paid an apprentice shall be not less than twenty-five per cent (25%) of the journeymen's wage being paid and shall be increased each six months in an amount not less than fifteen per cent (15%).

7. The Governing Board of the Kentfield School District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and/or waive any irregularity in any bid received. Unless otherwise required by law, no bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of forty-five (45) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

Opening lead — ◇ 2

One way to try for the grand slam in today's hand is to draw trums and take the diamond finesse. If West has the queen of diamonds, you make the slam; if East has the queen you go down.

Another way is to set up the dummy. Take the ace of diamonds, cash the ace of spades and ruff a spade high. Get back to dummy with the queen of clubs and ruff another spade high.

Lead a trum to the nine and ruff dummy's last spade with your las high trump. Now lead your last trump to the ten and lead out dummy's jack of trumps to discard a diamond from your hand.

If the five missing trumps break 3-2, you make the grand slam. If either opponent has four or five trumps, you go down.

WHICH IS BETTER

Which plan is more likely to succeed?

The diamond finesse gives you a 50 per cent chance. The chance that West has the queen of diamonds is equal to the chance that East has it.

The chance for a 3-2 trump break is 68 per cent. Therefore the dummy reversal is a better plan for the grand slam.

A simple pair of rules will help you remember the basic principle of bridge probability. The odds favor the most equal break of an odd number of cards. The odds are against the most equal break of an even number of cards.

A finesse, therefore, is not as good as a 2-1 break, a 3-2 break or a 4-3 break. A finesse is better than a 2-2 break, a 3-3 break or a 4-4 break.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks partner to bid a major suit if he can. If he bids three spades, you will raise to four spades. Otherwise you will go on to three notrump.

Charnow Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

Manny Charnow of San Rafael, "Mr. Senior Citizen of Marin," was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital today. Attendants said he "was doing real well and probably would be going home at the end of the week."

He underwent surgery for removal of part of his left lung.

Young Adults More Trouble Than Teeners

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI)— Some people think teen-agers are a headache but a team of University of California sociologists says young adults from 18 to 25 years of age are much more troublesome.

Dr. Gertrude Selznick and John Larkins report the young adults are more likely to be in the divorce courts, in prison or on a psychiatrist's couch than any other age group in the United States.

Selznik and Larkins told of their findings in a 28-page report, "What is Known About Young Adults," released by the University's Survey Research Center.

"In short, young adults 'belong' less," said the report, "and when they do belong, they belong in more tenuous and tentative ways."

One of the worst frustrations to the young adult is employment. He is the first to be fired and the last to be hired.

"It's a wonder that young adults, with no trade, living from hand to mouth on a submarginal income and often strapped with the responsibilities of marriage (and parenthood) don't wind up much worse off than they do," says Dr. Selznick.

She found that only a small proportion of them actually get into serious trouble, but many come very close.

Selznick and Larkins explained a prime cause for the difficulty. All the prestige and reward go to college graduates and four out of five young Americans don't go to college.

"It is this huge, forgotten group that is experiencing the most difficulty," said Dr. Selznick.

Mill Valley's Dimitroff Selling Frame Shop—'Business Too Good'

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Stephen P. Dimitroff announced today that he is going to sell his picture frame shop in Mill Valley and devote his time to painting.

His reason: "My business is good and is taking too much of my time."

Dimitroff, who has been in picture framing business for 11 years in Mill Valley and owns Dimitroff's Picture Frames at 173 Throckmorton Avenue, said he intends to paint scenes around Marin.

"I want to paint the hills around Mill Valley. I will sit at the bus station and paint the hills of Mill Valley from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"I intend to do that with the other towns, too. I love our mountain and intend to paint it and show how it changes every minute of the day. I will also paint the climate. The skies are totally different here from any other place I've ever seen. My idea is not original.

"I want to do this because times are changing so fast and hills are changing every day."

STEPHEN P. DIMITROFF
Business is too good

He said, "The reason I started the picture frame business was to be able to get time to paint, and in 11 years I never did get enough time."

He admitted it has been a lot of fun. He has framed an ermine caught by a hunter, coins, two congressional medals of honor, sharks' teeth, a Rembrandt and an order given by the King of Siam.

The oldest thing he has framed was a piece of cloth from an Egyptian tomb, 5,000 years old.

Dimitroff, whose wife is artist Lucienne Bloch Dimitroff, lives at 171 Marguerite Avenue. He began his picture frame business in a 9-by-8-foot shop at 33 Lovell Avenue. "Two weeks later I got a frame 9 feet long," he said, "so I had to open the door and window to do it."

From there he moved to 32 Miller Avenue and then to the Bank of America building. He was there six years. For 18 months he had two shops, the frame shop and an art store at 11 East Blithedale Avenue. Last August he sold the art store and moved his frame shop to 173 Throckmorton.

He said he'll frame only his "own stuff" when he retires. "That's something I have not done."

4 Sunny Hills Runaways Admit String Of Thefts

Three boys, caught in San Anselmo last night after they had run away from Sunny Hills Monday, admitted committing a string of thefts and burglaries in Marin and San Francisco during their spree.

The boys, two 11, and one 8, were picked up about 8:30 p.m. by Police Officer Leonard G. Musselle, who spotted them in a self-service laundry at Tamalpais and San Anselmo avenues. The only loot they had with them was a transistor radio.

One of the 11-year-olds was among the vandals who last August battered and smashed nine new cars at Ames Ford Sales in San Rafael, said San Anselmo Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani.

The youngsters told San Anselmo police they ran away from the orphanage Monday afternoon.

They said they entered the home of Mrs. Helen McGinnis at 51 Essex Street in San Anselmo, stole a watch and radio.

They went that night to Albert's Field in San Rafael where they broke into automobiles and stole cash and cigarettes, they related.

Later that night they went to San Francisco, entered a house, but could not find anything to steal, they said. They slept in an alley in San Francisco.

The next day, the boys said, they went to Golden Gate Park, begged some bus money, and returned to San Anselmo.

Police booked the boys as runaways and for burglary. They were taken to juvenile hall.

Novato Moves To Establish Parks, Recreation Board

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. was directed by the Novato City Council last night to write an ordinance providing for a parks and recreation commission.

The council voted unanimously for a motion by John Angeloni, after more than a score of citizens appeared at the council's meeting to request the commission.

The citizens were led by Mrs. Rufino Trevino, who with seven other persons, wrote the council Saturday saying they would appear.

Several citizens appearing in person requested $15,000 in the fiscal 1961 budget to set up a seven-man commission. Need of a swimming pool was stressed by several mothers.

Others signing the letter sent by Mrs. Trevino were Mrs. Charles Rose, Mrs. David Sproul, Mrs. Maria B. Bertini, Mrs. Mary C. Foley, Mrs. Eugene J. Johnson, Mrs. Richard Metcalfe and Mrs. Jerome Nelson.

Mrs. Trevino told the council she actually represented 25 families wanting the commission.

Robert Carroll said San Rafael appropriates 10 per cent of its income for parks and recreation. He said, "Our $3,000 is only one per cent of our income."

Mayor Wayne Womack said the only step that could be taken in the next year toward a swimming pool would be acquisition of the land.

Womack said the council could establish a commission within the next 60 days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colter said they were willing to pay more taxes to create the pool. Councilman Charles Johnson noted citizens seemed to want the pool more than they wanted streets and other improvements "so it must be important."

The spadefoot toad of North America breeds in temporary pools created by heavy rains. The tiny toad eggs hatch in a day and half.

'Hot' Issue In Sausalito

It was warm in Sausalito last night and the five-man Sausalito Board of Review met in Vina Del Mar Plaza to deliberate whether the pay cuts made by the 1956 city council to deputy city clerks Hazel Pierachini and Wilma Young were arbitrary and unreasonable.

The answer is to be given to the city council by tomorrow.

When Mayor Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. reported the meeting to the council, councilman Michael Harris commented: "We made a mistake. We should have met in the park rather than the commission that is meeting there.

New Strawberry Assn. District

Directors of the Strawberry Property Owners Assn. Monday night created another district to include the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary and Harbor Point properties.

This brings the association to seven districts and 14 board members. Names of the two new members will be announced later, president Meyer Rabin said.

The board set Sept. 24 as a tentative date for a buffet dinner and wine tasting for the residents.

Rado Debate Friday On Point Reyes Park

A debate on the controversial Point Reyes National Seashore development will be aired Friday from 7:30 till 8:30 p.m. on KCBS.

Two experts on each side of the issue will discuss the proposal; then, listeners will be invited to phone the panel with questions or comments. The program will be extended past 8:30 if listener participation warrants it. Those wishing to comment still further may do so over the air on Friday's "Viewpoint" (9:10-10 p.m., topic: "Public Parks and Recreation").

Bills are now pending before both houses of Congress to establish a 53,000-acre park at Point Reyes.

Advocates of the park claim it is needed to stop housing developments on the land; opponents claim the area is not suited as a public park.

Speaking in favor of the park development will be Dr. Joel Gustafson, president of the Point Reyes National Seashore Foundation, and Dr. Edgar Wayburn, president of the Sierra Club in San Francisco.

Opposing will be Bryan McCarthy, property owners' attorney who has appeared at the Washington hearings against the plan, and Joseph Mendoza, a prominent Point Reyes landowner.

KCBS News Director Don Mozley will moderate the discussion and will talk with listeners who have questions or comments.

Station General Manager Jules Dundes will present an editorial on the subject and urge listeners to hear and participate in Friday night's debate. The editorial will be aired tomorrow at 8:10 a.m., 2:10 and 9:10 p.m. and Friday at 9:10 a.m.

Salmon fishing, Alaska's leading industry, earns more than $60 million dollars a year, more than eight times the price paid for the former territory by the United States in 1867.

'Sounding Board' Discussion On Administrator Job

Whether Marin County should have a county administrator will get another airing on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" from 9 to 10 a.m. tomorrow.

County Counsel E. Warren Maguire will discuss legal aspects of the removal of the administrator and the subsequent petition for referendum.

Other speakers will be Supervisor Walter R. Castro; Morris Finisey, vice chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, and P. J. Rowland, president of the Marin County Tax payers Assn.

A fifth may be added, said moderator Kitty Oppenheimer.

Questions telephoned by listeners will be directed to the speakers. The program will be re-aired from a recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

'Hot' Issue In Sausalito

It was warm in Sausalito last night and the five-man Sausalito Board of Review met in Vina Del Mar Plaza to deliberate whether the pay cuts made by the 1956 city council to deputy city clerks Hazel Pierachini and Wilma Young were arbitrary and unreasonable.

The answer is to be given to the city council by tomorrow.

When Mayor Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. reported the meeting to the council, councilman Michael Harris commented: "We made a mistake. We should have met in the park rather than the commission that is meeting there.

New Strawberry Assn. District

Directors of the Strawberry Property Owners Assn. Monday night created another district to include the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary and Harbor Point properties.

This brings the association to seven districts and 14 board members. Names of the two new members will be announced later, president Meyer Rabin said.

The board set Sept. 24 as a tentative date for a buffet dinner and wine tasting for the residents.

Rado Debate Friday On Point Reyes Park

A debate on the controversial Point Reyes National Seashore development will be aired Friday from 7:30 till 8:30 p.m. on KCBS.

Two experts on each side of the issue will discuss the proposal; then, listeners will be invited to phone the panel with questions or comments. The program will be extended past 8:30 if listener participation warrants it. Those wishing to comment still further may do so over the air on Friday's "Viewpoint" (9:10-10 p.m., topic: "Public Parks and Recreation").

Bills are now pending before both houses of Congress to establish a 53,000-acre park at Point Reyes.

Advocates of the park claim it is needed to stop housing developments on the land; opponents claim the area is not suited as a public park.

Speaking in favor of the park development will be Dr. Joel Gustafson, president of the Point Reyes National Seashore Foundation, and Dr. Edgar Wayburn, president of the Sierra Club in San Francisco.

Opposing will be Bryan McCarthy, property owners' attorney who has appeared at the Washington hearings against the plan, and Joseph Mendoza, a prominent Point Reyes landowner.

KCBS News Director Don Mozley will moderate the discussion and will talk with listeners who have questions or comments.

Station General Manager Jules Dundes will present an editorial on the subject and urge listeners to hear and participate in Friday night's debate. The editorial will be aired tomorrow at 8:10 a.m., 2:10 and 9:10 p.m. and Friday at 9:10 a.m.

Salmon fishing, Alaska's leading industry, earns more than $60 million dollars a year, more than eight times the price paid for the former territory by the United States in 1867.

'Sounding Board' Discussion On Administrator Job

Whether Marin County should have a county administrator will get another airing on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" from 9 to 10 a.m. tomorrow.

County Counsel E. Warren Maguire will discuss legal aspects of the removal of the administrator and the subsequent petition for referendum.

Other speakers will be Supervisor Walter R. Castro; Morris Finisey, vice chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, and P. J. Rowland, president of the Marin County Tax payers Assn.

A fifth may be added, said moderator Kitty Oppenheimer.

Questions telephoned by listeners will be directed to the speakers. The program will be re-aired from a recording Sunday at 12:30 p.m.
